CAMPUS REORGANIZES FOR HOMECOMING

Homecoming Activity Nears

The University of Idaho and Lewiston have combined forces for the first time in 15 years to sponsor Homecoming and the Lewis and Clark expedition celebration. The first two days will be spent on the Moscow campus and then festivities move to Moscow to celebrate Homecoming from Lewiston.

A typical scenario involving freshmen and faculty members of the "Gamma Pi" on the morning of registration. Here Clifford Dodds calmly ticketed his helmet before he hauled down the aisle: "Line up or we'll be all done.

ASU To Present "Don Juan In Hell"

Four of the ten nomas in the University of Idaho-Meridian program were booted off campus October 3 in an attempt to present George Bernard Shaw’s masterpiece in the "Estep". As part of the production, they will be in a盒子 from the University of Idaho-Meridian program to present the play, and the idea of the scene will be modified to include "line up or we’ll be all done.

Assurance To Protect U. Students

As of September 12, every student also has registered for classes at the University of Idaho is covered by an insurance program called "The Student Policy". The policy covers all regular full-time students, undergraduates and graduate students, for two semesters. The coverage begins January 20 and ends May 31. The insurance plan is available for all students at the University of Idaho.

Michael Van Winkle, student participant in the North Idaho College "Estep" project, has organized a group policy for students of the University of Idaho-Meridian program. The policy covers all regular full-time students, undergraduates and graduate students, for two semesters. The coverage begins January 20 and ends May 31. The insurance plan is available for all students at the University of Idaho.

Obey Signs Of Life—Live

The roadway is full of drivers who have the right of way. Traffic signs are provided for the protection of drivers and pedestrians. Yet, drivers and pedestrians constantly disregard these safeguards—frequently throwing away their lives and the lives of others. This disregard is a grave situation, for in traffic accidents there are countless violations of the law of safe driving or walking habits.

Ober Sign of the Law and the lives and common sense that represents the lives of so many of these people. And common sense advice to a driver or walker makes the more observant the law of the land.

You can be killed crossing an intersection on the sidewalk, or you can be killed on the street. You can be killed when a pedestrian in the street on which you have crossed the street on foot even though you have the right of way. Be careful! It will be a matter of your relative's law that the way on your side. Safe walking and driving for any individual should include an observance of the following rules, maintains the Traffic Safety Director Harold Davis:

1. Know the signs of life by their shapes so you can recognize them in time. Obey these meaningless.

2. Be willing to yield your legal rights wherever necessary to prevent a traffic accident.

Let's Stay Alive This Year

Practically everyone looks forward to Friday because to most of us it means that summer has arrived. The weekend is a time for pleasure and relaxation. There's tennis, games, picnics, and, perhaps, a movie at the cinema. You can even visit your roommates, and of course the weekend means football games. And to make the weekend even more enjoyable, you can drive to the country, drive in the country, have a good time, and come back home all the more alive.

Traffic signs are all of three things—except the highways. In 1914, 13,188 persons were killed and 67,598 wounded on the highways, and over 800 persons were killed the following year. In 1914, the automobile had been in use for only a few years, and many of the signs we now take for granted were unknown. The first traffic signs were simple, but they were important.

The signs we have today are still important, but they are more complex. The signs we have today are designed to help us keep our highways safe and free from accidents.

New Instructors

New instructors in the field of traffic safety have been added to the faculty of the University. They include:

- Dr. John R. Church, who has been a driving instructor at Washington University for five years.
- Dr. John H. Wilson, who has been a traffic instructor at the University of Idaho for three years.
- Dr. John M. Smith, who has been a traffic instructor at the University of Oregon for two years.
- Dr. John T. Smith, who has been a traffic instructor at the University of Washington for one year.

The new instructors will be teaching classes in traffic safety and will be available to help students with their problems.

ASUL To Meet

ASUL will meet on June 1st in the college's new building. The meeting will be held in the college auditorium at 2:00 p.m. All members of ASUL are invited to attend.

337 Students In New Homes

A total of 337 students will find new homes at the University of Idaho this fall that are really new. Opening their doors for the first time will be three recently completed dormitories—Men's, Women's, and Personal French for women.

The men's dormitories will provide quarters for 215 students. 156 men in Ukiah and 143 men in Gault will give a room that will sleep 35 to 40 persons. This dormitory will be used primarily for high school students visiting the university to attend conferences.

Men's Dormitories: Named after former presidents of the University—Franklin B. Gault and Alfred W. Gauilt—this dormitory is situated on the campus of the University.

The building will have 50 rooms, with each room accommodating two to four occupants. The dormitory is within walking distance of the passenger terminal and other facilities on campus.

The Women's Dormitories: Located on the west side of the campus, this dormitory will provide quarters for 180 women. The building will have 60 rooms, with each room accommodating two to four occupants. The dormitory is within walking distance of the University Center and other facilities on campus.

The Personal French Dormitory: Located on the east side of the campus, this dormitory will provide quarters for 62 women. The building will have 18 rooms, with each room accommodating two occupants. The dormitory is within walking distance of the University Center and other facilities on campus.

ASUI To Manage Student Union

The immediate management of the Student Union Building has been turned over to the Associated Students, Inc., by Dr. R. H. Theophile, president of the University.

The building is named after former presidents of the University—Franklin B. Gault and Alfred W. Gauilt.

Scholarships Accepted By Board of Regents

Scholarships totaling nearly $25,000 have been formally accepted by the board of regents for University of Idaho students. The scholarships are awarded to students based on academic merit and financial need.

The figures include awards to 27 students totaling $10,000 by the Student Union Foundation. Other gifts included $5,000 by the Carnegie Corporation of the W. E. Theophile, president of the university. The gifts will be used to support the academic programs of the University of Idaho.

Faculty Members and Attendees

Two of the University of Idaho faculty members will speak at the convention. The University of Idaho faculty members will be Dr. Alfred W. Gauilt, dean of the college of agriculture, and Dr. R. H. Theophile, president of the University of Idaho.

The convention was held in the Student Union Building. The building was constructed in 1935 and is located on the west side of the campus. The building has 50 rooms, with each room accommodating two to four occupants. The dormitory is within walking distance of the passenger terminal and other facilities on campus.

The kitchen used in common between the two adjoining halls is a marvel of stainless steel and tile. The massive stove and oven will be used to feed 372 men in separate dining rooms. The kitchen is designed to serve two long tables five minutes apart.

The modern and spacious living room of French Permeal French helps emphasize the importance of comfort and convenience. The living room is equipped with a fireplace and television, and is open to the dining room.

L.C. Normal Plans For Students

About 100 students are expected to be on hand for classes Monday at Lewiston-Clarkston College, located four years ago as Northern Idaho College of Education. The college, formerly known as Lewiston Junior College, opened its doors this fall as part of the University of Idaho, in Lewiston. In a recent letter to the editor of the Lewiston, and students were asked to help improve the facilities in the new school. A large number of students are being held back in the town, the majority of the students are still available. The college is helping keep students in Lewiston, and the University administration also expects a large number of jobs to be filled by students in the community.

The school is divided into two divisions: the division of the student activities office and the division of the student affairs office. Both divisions are responsible for overseeing the activities of the student body, and the student affairs office is responsible for overseeing the activities of the student affairs office.

The school will open its doors on October 7th, 1961. Completion of the periodical facilities will be announced as soon as possible.

For the first time, the end of freshman year will be considered a meaningful period, according to the report of the special committee on freshman relations at the University of North Carolina. For many it is the first time they have been absent from home, the committee points out.

Very little developing study habits and learning to expect additional responsibilities.

Dr. Martin Named Dean of Letters and Science

A native Idahoan and a member of the University of Idaho faculty, Dr. Boyd A. Martin, became the second Dean of the College of Letters and Science at the University of Idaho effective July 1. President D. R. Thompson announced the promotion of Martin to the University of Idaho last week.

Dr. Martin stepped up to the Metcalf chairship, which previously was held by Dr. R. W. Metcalf, and Dr. B. A. Martin, who was named to the position of associate dean in 1943. Martin has served as the University's youngest dean and as the University's youngest professor. A graduate of the University of Idaho, Martin earned his Ph.D. degree at the University of Idaho.

Other students in the class of 1961 were also named to the position of associate dean. R. E. J. Martin, who has served as the University's youngest dean, was also named to the position of associate dean. Martin has served as the University's youngest dean for many years and will continue to serve in that capacity.

Two Church Clubs Start With Picnics

The Methodist Church is having a reception for the students on May 27 at 4 p.m. CABBAGE BUSH COTTAGE

The Methodist Church is holding a picnic on May 27th at 3 p.m. at the Cabbage Bush Cottage. The picnic will be open to all church members.

A professor who serves has been at the school for three years. He is a specialist in the field.

Chickens May Replace Hats In Ecuador

Poultry foods may replace Panama hats as the principal source of income in some of the Indian tribes of Ecuador, according to a recent report by Dr. C. E. Lampman, head of poultry husbandry at the University of Idaho.

Lampman has just returned from a three-month assignment in developing a poultry rearing program at the University of Guayaquil. This is one phase of the agricultural aid being provided Ecuador by the University of Idaho, under a contract through the U. S. Foreign Operations Administration.

Dr. M. W. Woodbury, head of the department of horticulture at Idaho, is also here from the University.

Idaho Cadet Grades
Train For Flying

Four former Cadets were graduated from the U. S. Naval pre-flight school at Great Lakes, Illinois, last summer and are now assigned to the Wright Field B. R. Field Auxiliary Air Station, Milton, Pa., primary flight training, according to recent Navy press releases.

Previously attendees of the U. S. Naval Cadet Training School were Capt. William R. Eiche and Rose V. Hinrichs, along with Frank W. Much and Gerald P. Diamond.

A Unit into Flight was held at the Milton station by Cadet Rhine who will receive instruction in precision air work along with others.

Vandal Bucket Gets Interior Redecorated

At last it is possible to get together in the Vandal Bucket and actually hear yourself talk. Work that has been done this past summer and that recently finished has made this possible.

The interior, with its new lighting and a new set of seats, has been re-decorated. An additional 14 seats have been added to the theater, which will be in operation about 2:30.

The new decor is a combination of colors and in addition to the new seats and paint, the interior has been given a new look. The ceiling has been painted white and the walls have been painted a shade of blue.

The work was done by the staff of the Vandal Bucket and the new seats were added by the Union's maintenance department.

Assemblies Kicked Off By Willson

Merideth Willson, well-known radio and television entertainer, will appear October 14 at the University of Idaho campus as part of the first week's assembly program. Willson and his wife will premiere a program of their own entitled "The Long and Short of It" on October 14. He will be in town for his annual benefit for the American Heart Association.

Following Willson to the campus will be Dr. Richard J. Stoddard, nuclear physicist, Dr. Robert L. Jackson, chemist, Dr. Mark Nelson, writer, and Dr. Charles H. Wightman, biochemist, who will be the main speaker in the assembly programs.

Young Conducts Boxing Clinics In Far East

Fresh Young, Assistant Athletic Director at the Utes, had no bad news for Japanese people as he left the hotel after returning from a very successful three-week tour of Japan. The Vandals played a number of games in Japan and the Utes are planning to return to Japan in the spring to play a three-game series against the University of Tokyo.
