While we may agree that many of our "reliable" people who are doing a good job, we do not agree with the idea that they should be paid solely upon their work.

The main reason why people are not paid solely upon their work is that our schools have not been prepared for the demands of modern day life. In almost every community, the schools have not prepared students for the demands of modern day life.

Alumni Secretary Keeps Class Files

By Charles Gilman

To many a graduating senior the thought that he will not be called "old Class" or "old Grad" has yet to sink in fully. The popular use of the "old grad" is the picture of the good-timed Charlie readers have come to expect. However, most graduands are not too pert of such a picture. Many of them feel that they are a little bit stuffy because of the double standard in which they are placed. Some of these students feel that they are being treated as if they were still in high school, while others feel that they are being treated as if they were already in college.

The use of the "old grad" is a custom that has been carried over from the old-time college days. It is a tradition that has been carried on by the old-timers and now is being carried on by the present students. The use of the "old grad" is a way of showing that the students are still graduates.
