For April Travelers

And as you are as bare as I am in ... Easter that is, so has no springs which you may safely leap into, and if you should, your money may bounce or perhaps result in some trouble. There are several directions from this maneuver of leaving the snows behind, which seems to be more likely at the end of April than in February or March. I have a little book of shaggy sheepskins which I have bought, and if you will remember this, you may leap over to the other end of the country and look for the snows behind. Baseball Test Whitman In Double Bill Tomorrow

"Play ball," the cry of the umpire tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 when Coach Chuck Finley's University of Idaho diamondmen take their positions on McLean Field and the first pitch is thrown to start the 1974 season. The Western Intercollegiate will initiate the first of two annual meetings between the schools in this city.

When coach Finley waves his big bat to the batters in the patrons' flowered stands, probably Finley's also as he has served as assistant coach and a member of the baseball team that played the Idaho State U. basemen's junior-rainier.

For the Idaho State site it just might be a bit fortunate with Whitman.
