High Costs Up
Dorm Rates $10

Graduation Plans Fete
855 Students

Fees Rise To $63
Next Fall

Phyllis Weeks, Alpha Chi, smiles as she prepares to receive a kiss from W. D. Brown, Director of Student Activities, after receiving her diploma last year. A total of 855 M.A. students will receive degrees at graduation ceremonies tonight. The university will be in session to welcome about 180,000 people who will graduate.

University dormitory rates will be increased by $10 for the next academic year, said President John T. G. Roth, said the president.

The new rates will raise the annual rate to $4,400, according to the university's estimates. An increase in the rate was necessary to cover the cost of maintaining the dormitories and other facilities, he said. Dormitory rates are set by the board of regents, which is the executive body of the university.

The increase in dormitory rates is the first for the university in two years. The rate was $4,300 last year.

The new rates will be $4,500 for the 1968-69 academic year, $4,600 for the 1969-70 academic year, and $4,700 for the 1970-71 academic year.

The increase in dormitory rates will be reflected in the cost of living in the dormitories, the president said. The cost of living in the dormitories is determined by the amount of money that is available to the university for the operation of the dormitories.

The increase in dormitory rates will also affect the cost of living in the university's residential colleges, the president said. The cost of living in the residential colleges is determined by the amount of money that is available to the university for the operation of the colleges.

Recruitment Is Our Problem

Recruitment, a word not familiar to most undergraduate students, is one of the most important responsibilities of the Student Body during the summer break.

As the University of Idaho grows and its enrollment swelling each year, we face the challenge of maintaining a high standard of scholarship and athletic achievement. The administration has always tried to provide the best possible facilities for the University of Idaho and the State of Idaho, but the cost of good instruction and education is continually increasing.

The University of Idaho, in its efforts to meet these increased costs, has made many sacrifices and is not yet in a position to provide all the facilities that it would like to have.

The University of Idaho is, admittedly, a small school, but it has a great deal of goodwill and a future. In the past, the University has trained many students who have contributed to the State of Idaho by their endeavors in science, medicine, and literature. The University is well equipped to provide a good education to all students who choose to attend.

It is the responsibility of all of us, students, faculty, and administration, to work together to make the University of Idaho a success.

And here is where you come in. Idaho and the rest of the United States the University of Idaho is called upon for the students of the United States to contribute to the success of the University of Idaho.

Every student has a responsibility to make the best of his time at the University of Idaho. This means not only taking full advantage of the opportunities offered by the University, but also being an active member of the community and helping to build the University.

Take Pride

Every student has a personal part in the success of the University of Idaho. If you want to be proud of your alma mater, take pride in your school. Idaho is your school, your responsibility, and your pride.

Last Days Before Camp-Down Prompt-Hectic Social Rush

The dying breaths of the semester are beginning to cause the freshman house groups and organizing groups to call in their new members and get them installed in the school. The University has a variety of social activities for its students, but now the time has come for the social rush to begin.

This is the season for meeting new friends and making new acquaintances. The University is an ideal place for socializing, and there are many opportunities for students to meet new people.

Following a continuous string of socials, we will be able to enjoy all the activities of the University, whether it be in the classroom, on the playing field, or in the social scene.

The poll indicates that the majority of Idaho students plan to attend dances and socials this year. However, the poll also shows that there are still many students who are undecided about their plans for the social rush.

We hope that this information will be helpful to you in making your plans for the social rush.

Poll Indicates Youth Fete Promoted Understanding

Because of the attention centered on a group of American tourists in Moscow last fall, the Associated Students of the University of Idaho (ASU) have now organized a student government for all college students of the University. The student government plans to organize a series of events and activities for the student body.
