Goal: $2,500
campus chest to go western
by don duffield
"Don't take your life and be in the student body, just stay with us and be in the student body. We're going to have a great year."

On September 10, the student body will begin its fall semester.

The student body is planning to raise money for the campus chest.

The campaign will run from September 10 to October 10.

The goal is to raise $2,500.

The campaign will be managed by the Student Activities Council.

The funds raised will be used to support student activities.

On October 10, the student body will hold a "Thank You Party" for donors who have contributed.

The party will be held on the campus.

The student body thanks everyone for their support.

Troubled, Restless Middle East Has a Discomforting Fluidity

Conflict and revolution have been the dominant themes of the Middle East, where the boundaries are fluid and the peoples restlessly searching for a better life. The region's history is one of constant change, and the current conflicts reflect the ongoing struggle for power and resources.

The United States, as a major player in the Middle East, has been involved in numerous conflicts in the region, including the Persian Gulf War, the Iraq War, and the ongoing conflict in Syria. The United States has also been involved in efforts to mediate and negotiate peace agreements, such as the Oslo Accords.

As the region continues to evolve, it is important to understand the complex dynamics at play and the various actors involved. The United States must be prepared to engage with the region in a way that promotes stability, respect for human rights, and peaceful resolution of conflicts.
University Emulates Hollywood Flicks; Trains R-TV Students In Modern Studio

By JIM FLANNAGAN

The University has its own little Hollywood in a small concrete building, located on the Falls of Idaho campus. Idaho students assume the roles of actors, directors, technicians, and cameramen. The building, part of the Radio-Television Center, houses a studio television studio, where TV film programs and movies—both silent and sound versions—are produced.

Production in the center ranges from four to ten students working on major projects, depending on the schedule, to one individual working on a personal project. The studio is equipped with a television camera, sound equipment, and lighting. The building also contains a darkroom for developing film. The total cost of the center is approximately $20,000.

For technicians—shown of to 'Willis the looks job—will be trained in the Western Mekm in the future. Costello, Rifle, and science producing Alpha trul on CREAM first Company sjto~...

Steve Mays, chairman of the center, said, "Our aim is to produce a boy that can work in the field or in a photography studio."

The center has been in operation for about a year and a half. In this period, the students have produced several short programs, including a movie, "The Sun Will Rise Again," which was shown at the Fort Hall Film Festival. The movie was produced by a group of students from the center.

Law Students Elected Officers
Two University of Idaho law students were elected officers of the law school's student organization, the Student Body of Students and Alumni. The new officers are Matthew Billings, president; Kevin Jenson, vice-president; and David Johnson, secretary.

HOLLYWOOD—Students in the Radio-Television Center are working on a production of "The Great Gatsby," a popular novel by F. Scott Fitzgerald. The production is being directed by a group of University students in the radio and television program.

Concerts Paris Organism
Peter Costello, organist of the University of Idaho in the radio and television program, is directing a concert of organ music, "The Great Gatsby," which will be presented on the radio and television program.

Group Meets For Decision
The announcement committee of the University of Idaho is meeting today to decide whether students graduating the class of 1968 will be allowed to participate in the annual law school's activities, including the annual law school's alumni convention.
