Dworshak Sees
‘Atomic Peace’

The present atomic age and the present international situation that is being brought to its knees demand more and more emphasis on education.

Sen. Church
To Give Talk
On Tuesday

Frank Church, Idaho's junior senator and one of the principal spokesmen for the anti-atomic movement, will give an account of his views on the currentcoin at 7:30 Tuesday evening at the Senior High School auditorium. This will be the first time when he has addressed a public event in the state since he was inaugurated, originally from Idaho, where he received his B.A. degree.

He is a graduate of Stanford University and received his LL.B. degree at Yale law school and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa.

Church was elected Senator at the age of 31 and is the youngest man ever to take senate office.

On Speaking Tour

Church's tour has been speaking throughout the state during the last few weeks, convening on local meet in Idaho communities.

On Tuesday, last church attended the Idaho Student Convention at Boise State College. His talk centered on the issues of the United States and the future of education.

The Golden Fleece Jason

They may not be the most exciting of horses, but homeroomers are the most loved, too; and they may not have the flair of their racing counterparts, but they are rather expensive and take a great deal of care to keep them healthy.

Arizona State University, as far back as 1959, was known as the home of the “Golden Fleece” horse. The name was given to the colt by Frank Church, Idaho's junior senator, who is interested in the breed.

The 13-year-old horse has been a favorite of students since he came to the campus. Church said the horse was chosen because he was a favorite of the students.

“Let's give them a chance to be their own horses and see how they can do with the care and attention they need,” Church said.

This year, guided only by a young 81-year-old, the horses of the “Golden Fleece” are being trained for upcoming events.

In order to keep the horses in top shape, a special diet is being provided. The diet consists of a mixture of grains, hay, and vegetables.

The horses are trained by the students under the supervision of the student自治会. The college’s equestrian club is responsible for the care and training of the horses.

Mines Building Plans Told

By RON ERLICKER

A student building with an architectural theme has been proposed to be built on campus. The building will be a project of the engineering department and will be designed by the department.

The building will be a four-story structure with a large, open first floor. It will be used as a laboratory for the engineering department.

The building will have a total of 12,000 square feet of floor space. It will be built on the east side of campus, near the existing engineering building.

The tower is expected to be completed within the next year. The cost of construction is estimated to be $250,000.

The new building will be used for the education of engineering students and will provide additional space for the department.

The structure will be a steel frame building with glass walls and a metal roof.

The building will be an innovative design that combines modern architecture with traditional materials.

The design includes large windows and open spaces to allow natural light and fresh air.

The building will be the first of its kind in the state and will serve as a model for future construction projects.

The building will be an important addition to the campus and will provide additional space for the engineering department.

The new building will be a significant step in the development of the university's campus facilities.

In conclusion, the new building will be a valuable addition to the campus and will be an asset to the university.

It is expected that the building will be completed within the next year and will be ready for use by the engineering department.
convicts hold family in next asu drama

by nancy grange

armistead staff writer

a group of convicts was featured in a drama called "hell's angels," which was performed at the university of southern california this fall. the play was directed by professor john buckland.

the plot is based on true events involving convicts at the miami fl. state prison. the story follows the lives of john buckland, the main character, and his family during a visit to the prison. the family is shown struggling to cope with john's incarcerations and the challenges of living with a convict.

the play was met with mixed reviews, with some critics applauding the realistic portrayal of the convicts' lives and others criticizing the portrayal of the family as too idealized.

the university's department of drama and performing arts is planning to produce a sequel to the play next season.

Rose Race Tightens As ND Schools Move For Bowl Bid

A slight and rare rain still falls in the West as the scene for the Notre Dame Fighting Irish, who reprised their role of a national title contending, No. 2-ranked team in the country, in the Utah Bowl game.

The Irish, on the other hand, have already lost five games this season and are looking for an upset to keep their season alive.

In the Bowl game, the Irish will face the Oklahoma Sooners, who are coming off a loss to the Nebraska Cornhuskers in the Big 12 Championship Game.
