Freedom Of Your Press

It is said that no one can serve two masters well. Whether or not this is true is a moot point, for the Administration is attempting to do this very thing since it can either The Argonaut or the other and both, presumably, serve a different group interest, to the exclusion of the other and itself.

The two masters we must serve are the Administration and the students. The Administration alone can move to make us what we want, since it alone is dependent on the other and both are supported by the students.

This, of course, where the freedom is not true. The Administration takes control of the school and the students and initiates policies which must be in the best interest of the Administration, not the student.

The Argonaut, on the contrary, serves to a different end. The student newspaper is an attempt to inform the student of the activities and the Administration in the same subject.

Therefore, the Administration and the student must always remain at loggerheads, and the schools must constantly work together.

In the meantime, may the best newspaper win.

It is the latter part of the month when the University of Idaho comes into the world of sports. The floodgates have opened and all the action can be found. Former students, new students, and friends of the school have already been to the airport to receive the returning athletes of the University of Idaho. September is the month of taking off. With the new crop of students, there has been a flurry of activity as the first big meeting of the fall term began.

The most intense of the ALPHA PHI CRITERIA has been last week with Kappa and Fraternity House activities. The meeting of the two groups has been a busy one with a lot of work being done. The ALPHA PHI CRITERIA is now in full swing and the house is almost ready to receive their guests.

Marshall will Act As Dean

Dr. Dan A. Marshall will serve at the University of Idaho as the dean of the college of arts and sciences at the University. The new dean will be in charge of all the departments of the college and will be responsible for the administration of the college. He will be responsible for the planning and conducting of the college, as well as the development of the college's curriculum. He will also be responsible for the maintenance of the college's facilities and for the promotion of the college's interests.

Powerful Huskies Slam Idaho; No Upset For Hopeful Vandal Fans

Hosting Washington Tips Grid Crew by 41-12 Tally

By GARY RANDALL

SEATTLE, Sept. 26—It was almost like the Vandal defense was sitting on a hot potato. Washington Coach Jim Owens saw the Vandals' fast success at an almost dizzying pace.

While the Huskies were running up the score of their 41-12 victory at the University of Washington, the Vandals' football fans were feeling like 11-year-olds watching their favorite movie for the first time. Soon after the game had started, the Vandals' fans were left feeling like they had just finished a long, hard day of work.

The Vandals' defense was no match for the Huskies, who scored on their first three possessions of the game. The Vandals were limited to a single field goal in the first half, and they managed to score only another field goal in the second half. The Vandals' offense was unable to get into a rhythm, and they were unable to move the ball effectively.

The game was a disappointment for Vandals' fans, who had high hopes for their team before the season started. The Vandals were considered one of the top teams in the conference, and many fans had predicted a strong season for the team. However, the Vandals were unable to live up to expectations, and they have lost three of their first four games.

The Vandals' next game is against the Washington State Cougars. The Cougars are a tough team, and the Vandals will have their hands full if they want to come away with a win. The game is set for next Saturday, and it will be held in Boise, Idaho.
