An artist, even a student artist, has little time for frills. The student artist is too preoccupied with work, whether it is for campus, community, or personal enjoyment.

For Mrs. Maye, a resident in Greeley, Colorado, exhibiting her work in the recital hall, has been the high point of her week.

The student artist has little time for frills, whether it is for campus, community, or personal enjoyment.

If You Sniffle And Hack And Honk Blame Yourself Says Campus Doctor

These sniffles and runny nose are symptoms of a cold, and the reason why you are feeling so horridly down.

Dr. P. H. Freling, associate professor of medicine, said that the sneezing and coughing are due to the formation of a common cold, and that the symptoms vary from person to person.

Dr. Freling also advised the students to keep up their personal hygiene, to wash their hands frequently, and to stay out of crowded places.

He warned that the symptoms of a cold can be very serious, and that it is important to seek medical attention if they persist.

Dr. Freling emphasized that the common cold is caused by a virus, and that there is no cure for it. However, there are steps that can be taken to prevent the spread of the virus, such as washing hands, covering the mouth and nose when coughing or sneezing, and staying away from crowded places.

He cautioned that the symptoms of a cold can be very similar to those of other illnesses, such as influenza, and that it is important to seek medical attention if the symptoms persist or worsen.

If you are feeling unwell, it is important to rest, stay hydrated, and seek medical attention if necessary.

This week the student of the month for March is the recipient of the Student Artist of the Month award. The recipient is chosen by the faculty and staff of the school, and is selected based on their overall academic performance, extracurricular activities, and leadership.

Student of the Month is a recognition program that is sponsored by the school's student government and is intended to recognize outstanding students who are making a positive impact on the school community.

If you or someone you know is a student at the school and would like to be considered for the Student of the Month award, please contact the school's student government for more information.

Greenfield Exploring Sound At 11

During the morning, Greenfield High School will be the site of an exploration of sound. The event will be held in the school's auditorium, and will feature a variety of activities and demonstrations related to sound and its effects.

The exploration will include a presentation by a sound engineer, who will discuss the science of sound and its applications in various fields, such as music, science, and technology.

There will also be hands-on activities, such as experiments that allow students to explore the properties of sound, and a demonstration of the pitch-pipe, a musical instrument that can be used to teach the basics of sound and its effects.

The event is open to the public, and is free to attend. No reservations are required.

The exploration will begin at 11 a.m., and will last for approximately two hours.

Students May Gain Game Information

Students at the school will have the opportunity to learn more about the world of gaming and game development. The event will be held in the school's library, and will feature a series of talks by professionals in the gaming industry, as well as hands-on activities and demonstrations.

The event is open to all students, and no reservations are required.

The program will begin at 11 a.m., and will last for approximately two hours.

Students may also have the opportunity to engage in discussions with professionals in the gaming industry, and to ask questions about the world of gaming and game development.

The event is free to attend, and no reservations are required.
A New Morality

Charles Van Doren and thirteen other TV quiz contestants, indicted last week by a New York grand jury on charges of perjury and fraud, have been deservedly castigated in some quarters for their moral and social aberration. To denounce these men, however, is not to make them into monsters. It is much more reasonable not to make them into monsters. It is much more reasonable not to make them into monsters, but to realize that circumstances do not always permit of a certain kind of morality, and that men and women may sometimes be forced to compromise their principles because they happen to be in circumstances that make it impossible for them to act otherwise.

Categorically Van Doren and company are not under any circumstances being made scapegoats; they are just being shown up. A New York newspaper has been full of stories of Van Doren's interview with a New York State prosecutor. The prosecutor revealed that Van Doren had been employed as a ghost writer to prepare their thesis. It is obvious that there were three causes of this situation: the plea-bargain deals, the personal honor and strength of character and insidious group pressures. The ethics of the case are not in doubt. The father of all men is an impure man, and all men are impure. The guilt of the group is in its failure to understand that it was possible to act otherwise.

Of course our society does not applaud these acts; nevertheless, it needs to understand them. We must understand them if we are ever going to stop them.

Dear Editors:

The Associated Press, which is supposed to have reported the news, got the story all mixed up. It said that Van Doren was found guilty of perjury and fraud. He was not. He was found guilty of having been employed as a ghost writer. The reason for this is that there is a great deal of difference between perjury and fraud, and the two are not the same thing.

The 1980 Vandal football season has concluded and with the conclusion comes the release of the final team scores and individual statistics. Mike Sheehan, Bill Vail, and Buck Brown, who all had significant contributions to the team, will be missing from the lineup next year. Rick Dobkins was named the Most Valuable Player, and he will be sorely missed by his teammates.

The Idaho Vandal football team is currently preparing for the final game of the season, and they are looking forward to the opportunity to play against a strong opponent. The team is motivated and determined to put forth their best effort and come away with a victory.

Idaho Harriers Are Fourth

Smalley Report

On Nov. 15, the Vandal harriers participated in what Coach Smalley termed “the best meet of the season for us,” when they placed third in the Outdoors Cross Country Championship meet at Stanford University in California.

In this “three-way race,” Mike Smalley placed second, Morthead placed third, and Ron LaRocque, who had been injured and只能 walk for quite a long time, left LaRocque. Douglas was moved out of second place by Larry Wilson. The other two Idaho harriers, Larry Wilson and Jerry Lawrence, placed third and fourth, respectively.

The harriers are excited about the upcoming season and are ready to take on the challenges that lie ahead. They are training hard and are focused on achieving their goals. The harriers are confident in their abilities and are ready to compete at their best.
