Exodus II or Error I?

For the 16,000 Idaho State students just purchased "The I," a literary magazine composed of prose and poetry written by students, the words "Exodus II" have taken on a whole new meaning. The magazine was the second of its kind to be published by the Idaho State University Student Union.

In an effort to make the 36 pages of literature more appealing, the Student Union decided to publish an additional issue, "Exodus II," which captured the attention of students across the university. The editors, who are students, worked hard to ensure that the magazine would continue to showcase the creativity and talent of Idaho State students.

The third issue of "Exodus II" was published in 1972, expanding the scope of the magazine to include a wider range of topics and authors.

The Idaho State University Student Union continues to publish "Exodus" as a way to celebrate the literary achievements of its students and contribute to the cultural landscape of the university.

To the editor:

We are writing to express our concern about the recent decision to implement a new dress code policy on campus. We feel that this decision is not only unfair but also goes against our university's values of inclusivity and freedom of expression.

The new policy stipulates that all female students must wear a specific type of dress, which we believe is discriminatory and unable to be enforced in a manner that respects individual choices and cultural backgrounds. This policy will likely lead to an increase in incidents of harassment and岐视, as well as a decrease in the overall sense of safety on campus.

We urge the administration to reconsider this policy and to engage in open and inclusive discussions with students, faculty, and staff to find a solution that respects everyone's rights and freedoms.

Sincerely,
