Frosh Give Key Words As Twist, Tug, Treasure

Frosh Week will begin this afternoon with the announcement of the first clue in the annual game of "Frosh Week," which is sponsored by the Frosh Week Committee. The announcing of the clue will take place at 3:00 p.m. in the Union's basement. The clue will be placed on an envelope, which will contain a note and a small prize for the first person to solve the clue. The prize will be a book of the winner's choice.

The Frosh Week Committee is responsible for the organization and implementation of Frosh Week activities. The committee is made up of upperclassmen who volunteer their time to plan and execute the various events.

The clue will be posted on the Frosh Week bulletin board in the Union's basement. The bulletin board is located on the first floor, next to the elevators.

The first person to solve the clue will be notified by the Frosh Week Committee via email or phone. The prize will be delivered to the winner's residence.

The Frosh Week Committee encourages all students to participate in this fun and exciting event. The committee is looking forward to seeing everyone at the announcement of the clue and hopes that many will be able to solve the puzzle.

Antic-Climax Group Formed

A new organization called Antic-Climax has been approved by the Student Senate. The group, whose purpose is to foster a sense of humor and lightheartedness on campus, will be led by President John Smith. The group will hold meetings on a regular basis and will organize events throughout the year.

The group's first event is scheduled for next week, when they will host a talent show in the Union. The show will feature a variety of performances, including music, dance, and comedy. The group hopes to attract a large crowd and is looking forward to a successful event.

The Antic-Climax group is open to all students, and members are encouraged to participate in the group's activities. The group's meetings will be held weekly, and interested students are welcome to attend.

Andros Arrives, Enlarges Staff

Two More Football Assistants Chosen
As Coach Plans Spring Grid Practice

New Vandals head coach Don Andros promised the reformation of the second and third members of his football staff last week.

Named were John Easterbrook, a former Illinois quarterback, and Steve Mass.s, a football coach at Oregon Coast Junior College in Newport, as Andros’ first assistant to be announced.

Easterbrook, a 24-year-old graduate of Cnrry-Grimes High School, was expectcd to arrive last Thursday. He arrived by a minor youths assistant in southern Idaho.

Easterbrook, a five-year-old son of a football coach at Carquinez

in the Vandals to win.

The Idaho Vandals

completed their most successful

basketball season in school history, winning the Idaho State University, 64-55, for a 13-13 season record.

Chuck Whalen, bumped by an ankle injury in the final game of the season, scored a total of 18 points during the season for an average of 6.5 points per game.

The junior forward was injured in the first half of the Montana game. He scored only 3 points in that game, but was able to play in the other games.

The Vandals played in Idaho State in Idaho Falls, Idaho, and in all conference play except for the Idaho State game.

Coach Joe Cignaretti said he had been impressed by Idaho State’s winning percentage this year. Their overall winning percentage was

.500, and they were second in the conference in scoring.

One of the Vandals’ greatest strengths was their ability to play good defense. They were able to hold opponents under 30 points in 10 games.

Chuck Whalen received the Most Valuable Player award.

Each member of the Vandals was given a special gift of $10,000 for their contributions.

The Vandals’ Lino Parks

were presented with a gold coin,

which they will be able to redeem

at halftime of the next home game.

They were awarded the

Jay Game award for their contribution and the Coach Cignaretti award and a $100 check for the coach.

Coach Whalen received the
