The GOLDEN FLEECE

As I mentioned in Thursday's column I think that AMUL elections could be revised in a manner that would benefit the University at a greater cost to the students. This is not to say that the current system is not fair, but it certainly does have some problems.

The first problem is that the current system is very complicated. It is a long and involved process that is difficult to understand for most students. The second problem is that the current system is very expensive. It is a costly process that is not necessary for the university.

The third problem is that the current system is not inclusive. It is not open to all students and does not allow for everyone to participate.

The fourth problem is that the current system is not transparent. It is difficult to understand how the process works and who is responsible for each step.

The fifth problem is that the current system is not efficient. It is a slow and cumbersome process that takes a long time to complete.

The sixth problem is that the current system is not fair. It is a system that favors certain groups and does not allow for everyone to have an equal chance.

The seventh problem is that the current system is not equitable. It is a system that does not favor all students equally and can be a source of conflict.

The eighth problem is that the current system is not efficient. It is a process that is slow and does not allow for quick decisions to be made.

The ninth problem is that the current system is not fair. It is a system that favors certain groups and does not allow for everyone to have an equal chance.

The tenth problem is that the current system is not equitable. It is a system that does not favor all students equally and can be a source of conflict.

In conclusion, I believe that the current system of AMUL elections is flawed and should be revised. It is a system that is not fair, not efficient, and not inclusive. It is a system that does not benefit the university and its students. I urge the administration to consider revising the system and making it more fair and efficient.

Idaho Trackmen Open Season
In Meet At WSU Tomorrow

The University of Idaho opens its spring sports season tomorrow at Pullman when Coach Bill Surley’s track team contests the Washington State invitational meet.

The outlook is bright for the Vandals, mostly strong, retreating the "tremendous improvement" strawberry in last week’s college meet. Dick Marrow, who placed second in the 800 meters to Decatur, Mont.; Curt Flithcher, who will move from the 600 to the 1,000 meter event; Don Andrus, who will run in the shot; and the Idaho mile relay team.

The Idaho 400 yard relay, comprised of Crossman, Williams and Stewart will be competing against Hawaii team, and Washington State team composed of the three relay teams.

Meeting two of the vandals Louis and Washington State has been a regular feature of the Idaho meet. So far said.

On an overall basis, it looks as if the Washington State team will have the strongest team, closely followed by Hawaii. The runs are:

The three teams will run on the Idaho track.

Meetings on the University of Idaho track will be held on Tuesday and Thursday each week.

MEETING THE BOMB — Tom Morris (center) and Paul lavender, two Idaho football players currently training for spring practice next month, must next head coach Don Andrus. The coach met with football prospects yesterday.

Andrus Meets With Football Prospects, Two Assistants

The Idaho football prospects met yesterday afternoon with new Vandal head coach Don Andrus yesterday afternoon for introductory meeting to explain spring practice which starts Monday.

Announcing the meeting, athletics were John Ebersteiner and Dick Marrow. Andrus reviewed and outlined instructions. Another meeting, Steve Novotny, had requests.

Andrus has been working on an Idaho team this spring a few weeks. He's been in the practice field and the Idaho. Andrus may come from Washington or Idaho.
