Indian Minister Says “China, Paper Tiger”

An article with no text.
In the United States we are spoon-fed on the benefits of competition. Few of us would argue the need for competition in our capitalist business world.

But we turn to competition for entertainment and to promote our projects. It's the competition that we like in athletic events. We find it exciting to "beat the Joneses.""

Then why are some of us still concerned with the chastity that seems to be an inevitable by-product of competition? I don't think.

Writing on The Wall

During the last three days some of us have seen writing on our walls.

Writing that read:

"Give blood now, if you can't give blood, sign up anyway." And penciled in: "No questions asked.

"1 and 1/2 competition for another trophy or for a pinstar filled with colored water that matters."

Wine's Competition

At least the competition led to another record and crowds of students again had to be turned away. When the drive-in met the box-office line. Pitkin, the seasonal manager, said: "It was an exciting day."

Another interesting feature was the Brown Bag race. The Brown Bag, a 500 yard handicap, was won by the Pitkin. The Brown Bag race was won by the Pitkin. The Brown Bag race was won by the Pitkin. The Brown Bag race was won by the Pitkin.

"Bloody Well"

"If you find that we are above the median or we may find that we are below the median, we will have more to study and to do." The tests will remain anonymous, Kaus stated.

Butch, the oft-supposed mountain lion, appears to be a lot more than an overgrown house cat—but not the type of beast capable of protecting an image of pet.
