E-Board Proposes Day For Review

An Executive Board proposal requesting that no classes be held on Thursday, three days before finals was passed during the regular Tuesday night meeting.

The request, which will be submitted to Interim Commissioner, is to provide a day for faculty members in order to give students a day of review. The report also requested that there be a “Day of Review” for the students to be held during the last two weeks of the semester.

An E-Board advisor, Dr. Donald H. Stiles, explained that the request was made before the final examinations were held.

Dr. Stiles also said that a “Day of Review” would be helpful to the students, particularly those who do not like to study for exams. He said that the students who do not like to study for exams would be able to review their course work during the day and would be able to get a better understanding of the material.

After the meeting, the E-Board members were asked to submit their comments to the E-Board advisor, Dr. Stiles, in writing.

Mistletoe Madness' Theme Carried Out By Sophomores

By C. Ros Smith

Trouncing off Holly Week with fun and merriment will be the annual Holly Ball, "Mistletoe Madness," to be held at 8:00 p.m. Thursday, December 10, in the Union Union Building.

The theme for this year's dance will be "Mistletoe Madness," and the dress code will be coordinated with the theme. The Sophomores have planned a variety of activities for the evening, including games, raffles, and refreshments.

The theme was chosen by the Sophomore Class Council, which meets regularly to plan events for the Sophomore Class.

Opposition To Idaho Sales Tax Declining?

The Idaho Argonaut

Dear Jason,

I was pleased to learn about the efforts to stop the sales tax increase in Idaho. I have been following this issue closely and was pleased to see that there is a growing movement against this tax increase.

Sincerely,

A variety of television shows and special features for Christmas on KUID-TV, the University's educational television station.

The schedule for the holiday month will feature a Willard Conover special, "The Play of Daniel," to be presented on Christmas Day, and a number of other programs covering everything from the arts to citizenship. "The Play of Daniel," written, directed, and produced by Dr. Roy De Veaux, tells the story of the biblical Daniel, his encounters with King Nebuchadnezzar, and the various trials of his faith put to the test through the handwriting on the wall, and his interpretation enough to achieve the perfections of the beautiful, sacred music. The program will be performed by the New York Pro Musica and is set in the Chilten in New York City.

KUID Sets Special Show

Tylers Performance Termed 'Refreshing'

David Tyler, pianist and instructor of music and the University Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Professor of Music, will give a series of performances in the University's Barker Concert No. 1 in Flatiron Hall. The entire program of music, including some of the best, has been arranged by the director and performed by the pianist. The programs feature a wide variety of works, from Bach to Chopin, in a way that seems to be equally entertaining to both the audience and the performer.
Dr. Fleming To Retire As University Physician

Dr. James M. Fleming, University physician, and his wife, who are moving to San Diego, Calif., have announced their retirement.

The Fleming couple came to Moscow in 1923 to assist Dr. Ralph W. Pool, head of the University Clinic. Fleming succeeded Pool as University physician in 1927.

Receiving his medical degree from the University of Michigan, Dr. Fleming interned at the Northwestern Memorial Hospital, Chicago, and was a member of the practice of medicine in Battle Creek, Mich., for the last six years before coming to Idaho.

The Fleming's move to Moscow in 1923 assisted Dr. Ralph W. Pool, head of the University Clinic, in his research work.

The tenured physician couple had been married for sixty-two years.

Dr. Fleming was invited to join the American Medical Association.

What's Bugging Students? "Individualism in Organized Society"

By Leo L. Jeffrey

University of Idaho, Moscow, Idaho

"What's Bugging Students?" asks Irving Kristol, in his review of "Individualism in Organized Society," by William C. Bagley, "the most systematic treatment of 'individuation' in any place, as far as I know." Kristol, however, finds the book "largely prescriptive," and criticizes it for neglecting "individuation as a process." He also questions the book's "empirical support," and suggests that it is "too narrowly focused on a single phenomenon." He concludes that "individuation is not a complete answer to the problems of social organization."
Tennis and golf games, and the like, are other activities that improve the mental and physical health of the community.
Vandals Clash With Pilots In Rose City Tournament Tonight

The Senior

Coach Jim Goddard's run on the Idaho football field has not been without its share of ups and downs. However, the last game against the Golden Bears was a victory, and that kind of success can only help fuel the team's confidence as they prepare for the upcoming Rose City Tournament.

The tournament will feature two games on March 28 and 29 at the Idaho State University Coliseum. The Idaho State University football team will face the Washington State University football team on March 28, while the Idaho State University basketball team will face the Washington State University basketball team on March 29.

Tickets for the Idaho State University football game are $10 for adults, $5 for students, and $3 for children under 12. Tickets for the Idaho State University basketball game are $8 for adults, $5 for students, and $3 for children under 12. Both games will be played at 2:00 PM.

The Idaho State University football team is currently ranked 25th in the nation, while the Idaho State University basketball team is ranked 43rd. Both teams are looking to make a statement in the Rose City Tournament.

Vandal Gridders, Receivers, and Quarterbacks

The Idaho State University football team has been practicing hard in preparation for the upcoming tournament. The team has been working on improving their offensive and defensive strategies to gain an edge over their opponents.

The Idaho State University football team has a strong offensive line, with quarterback Nick Malinowski leading the way. The team's running backs, including Tyler Anderson and Jordan Cash, have been making big plays on the field.

The Idaho State University defense has been working on improving their tackling and pass rush techniques. The team's linebackers, including Nick Haines and Ryan McCall, have been making big plays on the field.

Overall, the Idaho State University football team is looking strong heading into the Rose City Tournament. With their hard work and dedication, the team is confident they can come out on top.

Vandals' Schedule

The Idaho State University football team's schedule for the upcoming tournament is as follows:

- March 28: Idaho State University vs. Washington State University (Football)
