Coeds’ Off-Campus Visits Recommended To Prexy

Dr. John W. Molsfeld, chairman of the Off-Campus Activities Committee of the Student Council, said that the committee is recommending that the Student Council approve the following proposal.

The proposal provides that all members of the Student Council and all off-campus organizations be invited to participate in the Off-Campus Visits Program. The program would be open to all students who are registered at the University of Idaho and who have obtained permission from their parents or guardians.

According to Molsfeld, the Off-Campus Visits Program would provide an opportunity for students to visit off-campus locations and to experience different cultures and lifestyles. The program would also provide a means for students to build relationships with their peers and to strengthen their academic and personal development.

Molsfeld said that the Off-Campus Visits Program would be administered by the Off-Campus Activities Committee of the Student Council, which would be responsible for selecting the locations and for coordinating the visits.

Flowers and Immaturity

Over $200 worth of flowers have been contributed and are extremely dedicated to their task of realization. The vandals were eaten at the small concrete circle in the drive in front of the Idaho Interclub Building.

The action is immature and certainly unappreciated. The University President has said that if he thought it was a good idea he would donate $1000 in payment to those who damaged the 42 cement columns pulled out of the area. It was burned on one occasion by some oilskins. Concrete barriers have been found and will be cut off wherever possible. It seems to be our only defense, for our facetious vandalism to the drive might prove fatal to those who dare to venture on the other side.

When Will the Decision Be Made?

As an editor of a college newspaper whose University is dependent on its student body for funds, I have been concerned with the implications of a decision made. The question is, who is the person who is going to help others to continue their education?

Education - A Key to Progress

As a student, I have had many opportunities to reflect on the value of education. The idea of education as a key to progress is by no means a new concept. However, there are many who believe that education should be available to all, regardless of their background or socioeconomic status.

Idaho's Campus 'Loyalty'

At the heart of any university lies a sense of loyalty. This loyalty is fostered by the sense of community that exists within the campus. However, in recent years, this sense of loyalty has been challenged by external forces. The University of Idaho is no exception.

The Idaho Argonaut

A hand-bound volume of the Idaho Argonaut is a collection of student-generated content, which includes articles, poems, and stories. These works are the result of a collaboration between the students of the University of Idaho and the local community. The Argonaut is published annually and is available for purchase at local bookstores and online.

Jim Metcalf's Campus Perspective

A beach night is nothing like a beach night, except that the sand is wet and you're wearing a wet suit. You can't sit on the sand, and you can't drink alcohol. But you can still have a good time. The beach is a great place to relax and enjoy the outdoors.

The GoldenFleece by Jason

Sadder but wiser Man. . .

I feel like Cernot’s scumbag master . . . "sawdust sores".

Sawdust became a very enjoyable time in my life—un-dergraduates, as I recall, were having a hard time. We were not as well educated as we are now, but I do remember the old days.

I have been proud of our Argonaut staff this week. We have had a great deal of fun and also been able to help the student body. In fact, we have been able to help them more than we ever expected or thought possible.

Your nose, although I have found I have never lost it, has always been very bad. I have been known to have a good sense of smell, and in fact, I have been known to have a very good sense of smell. I have even been known to have a sense of smell that is somewhat unusual.

I look back over the forty years and more of our term as . . .

Cautious, But Thorough . . . and Fair

He has worked continuously with the University since 1965 and has worked his way up to President of the college through the ranks. He is a college administrator. He is known as a wise man of administrative skill. He is a man who can make the right decisions.

In the fall of 1965, the student body consisted of about 1200 students. The college was in danger of closing down due to lack of funds. Therefore, it was decided to raise funds by selling raffle tickets.

Who Will Be the Next President?

When the decision is made, the new president will be faced with many challenges. One of the most important challenges will be to ensure that the university remains financially stable. The university is highly dependent on state funding, and any significant cuts in funding could have a negative impact on the university's ability to provide quality education.

Backfires From Loyalty Oath Law Rated As Top Arg Story of Year

By NEIL MIVICK Associated Editor

The Hollywood movie, "Backfires," with the tag line, "Our loyalty oath isn't all that aye," has been a favorite among students at the University of Idaho. The film depicts a student protest against the loyalty oath law, which was later ruled unconstitutional by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Finally, in March, the U.S. Supreme Court voted to uphold the loyalty oath law, which requires all students at public universities to take an oath to "uphold and protect the Constitution and laws of the United States and the Constitution and laws of the State of Idaho." The decision was made in a unanimous 5-4 vote, with Chief Justice Earl Warren writing the majority opinion.

The movie received mixed reviews, with some students applauding its message of resistance and others criticizing it for its portrayal of the legal process. Despite the court's decision, the pledge remains a topic of debate at the University of Idaho and other colleges across the country.

Merit Citations, But...

The Outstanding Senators have been named, as we have the Silver Lioness and the Blue Caps. They are sponsored by the Idaho Senate and the Idaho Association, respectively. These awards are given to recognize outstanding performance and leadership in student government.

The Silver Lioness is presented to the student who has demonstrated exceptional leadership and service to the University of Idaho community. This year's recipient is Sarah Thompson, a senior from Moscow, who has served as president of the Student Government Association and has been involved in numerous campus organizations.

The Blue Cap is given to the student who has shown exceptional academic achievement and leadership in student government. This year's recipient is James Johnson, a senior from Troy, Idaho, who has served as president of the Student Government Association and has been involved in numerous campus organizations.

Word of the Week

The word of the week is "merit." Merit is defined as "something done for its own sake, without any consideration of reward or return." At the University of Idaho, merit is highly valued, and students are encouraged to pursue excellence in all aspects of their lives.

Local Stores Plan Event for Summer

As summer approaches, sponsored by the Retail Business Association of Moscow, a local store will host an event to attract shoppers.

The event will feature discounts, free samples, and other promotions. It will be held on Thursday, June 28, from 6-8 p.m., and is open to the public.

For more information, contact the Retail Business Association of Moscow at 208-882-1100.

Coeds Make Clever Announcements

By IRINA KELLOGG

The students at the University of Iowa have been busy distributing announcements that are both unique and clever.

"True love," a blue announcement card with a picture of a ring and the words "True love," was the most popular announcement. It was sent through the mail and included a heart-shaped sticker that could be placed on the card to personalize it.

"Find your love," written in gold letters on a pink card, was another popular announcement. It was sent by students who were looking for a potential partner.

"I love you," written in silver letters on a white card, was sent by students who wanted to express their feelings to their significant other.

"I love you," written in gold letters on a black card, was sent by students who wanted to make a strong statement.

"I love you," written in silver letters on a red card, was sent by students who wanted to make a bold statement.

"I love you," written in gold letters on a green card, was sent by students who wanted to make a colorful statement.

"I love you," written in silver letters on a blue card, was sent by students who wanted to make a cool statement.

Little-Known University Placement Office Faced With More Jobs Than Applicants

By JERRY BROWN

A Placement Office with more jobs than applicants is an unusual situation at the University of Idaho, but one official said it might have occurred because of an unusual situation at the University.

According to Mrs. Emma Collins, assistant director of the Placement Office, they are currently handling more requests than they have been able to meet in the past.

This situation is caused by the fact that the University has been experiencing a rapid increase in enrollment over the past few years. The Placement Office has been unable to keep up with the demand for jobs, and therefore they are now faced with more jobs than applicants.

Mrs. Collins said, "We have been receiving many requests for employment, but we have been unable to fulfill them all. This is because of the increased enrollment at the University."

She added, "We have been unable to find enough qualified applicants to fill all the positions that are available."

SIR,

The President and Fellows of the University of Chicago report:

The University of Idaho is one of the few institutions of higher education in the United States that has been able to attract and hold a large number of able students from the various states and territories of the nation. It is a university that is not only respected in the eye of the public but is also of the highest standing in the eyes of those who are familiar with its work and achievements.

Consolidated, Expanded Facilities Are Greatest Need Of Communications Department In Future

The future of a growing department of communications at the University might be in jeopardy if the administration doesn't modernize its outdated facilities, according to the University Communications Department.

General Managers John Ellis and James Ferris have spearheaded an effort to upgrade facilities in the Communications Building, which is currently under construction.

Consolidated, Expanded Facilities Are Greatest Need

Of Communications Department In Future

The Communications Department is expanding its facilities to accommodate the growth of the department over the next 10 years. The department is currently operating in a building that is too small and outdated. The new facilities will include expanded space for offices, classrooms, and equipment.

The department is planning to move into the new building in the fall of 1982. The new building will be located on the east side of the campus and will be connected to the old Communications Building by a pedestrian bridge.

The Greek Living System at Idaho will Continue To Flourish It

The Greek Living System at Idaho will continue to flourish because of the strong foundation laid by previous fraternities and the support of the university administration. The system provides a unique environment for student growth and development, fostering leadership, scholarship, and social interaction. With the continued dedication of students, alumni, and faculty, the Greek system at Idaho is poised for continued success and growth.

Lindley To Be Emptyed; New Dorm Must Be Open, Maybe More Fraternities

Lindley Hall, housing University seniors for the past 40 years, will be emptied. Mr. Lindley, the last of the series of dormitories on the old campus, will be demolished. The new dormitory, called the Western Dormitory, will be opened for the first time in several years. The move will allow the University to expand its facilities and provide more space for students. The new dormitory will be located on the new campus and will be equipped with modern amenities, including study areas, lounges, and recreation rooms. The move will also free up additional space on the old campus for future development.
Idaho Stickmen 4th I.N.D. Play

Andersen said that "the strategy was to use the whole team, not just one or two players, to get the job done." The Idaho Stickmen played solidly, hitting the bases and driving in runs. They also played strong defense, limiting their opponents to only one run.

In the final game of the series, Idaho Stickmen emerged victorious with a 6-1 win over the Oregon Ducks. The game was played in front of a packed audience, with fans cheering loudly throughout the match.

Idaho Stickmen took the lead early on with a series of well-placed hits and solid defense. The Oregon Ducks tried to come back, but Idaho Stickmen's pitching and fielding were too strong. The final score was 6-1, with Idaho Stickmen winning the series 4-0.

This victory was particularly sweet for Idaho Stickmen, who had been looking for a win over Oregon Ducks for some time. The team celebrated afterwards, with players hugging and cheering.
