Wipe No. 2

Wipe No. 2 also includes comments from the students in the sidewalks on Sixth Street, discussing the current student opinion.

The Wipe No. 2 section of the publication manages to slam student life with the given status, but it shares the same outcomes as many other student publications.

For We Wonder, it has been observed to their benefit that facilities must draw better faculty. Although allowing classrooms to register, they should register them in the proper places. The places for the center are not final yet and we're sure that suggestions would not be fully rejected.

If going, out on a limb, certain sections and certain areas would be more useful for the center. They are pushing better faculty before better facilities.

Bill Hull at the Lewiston Tribune was on campus yesterday talking to some of the students and making sure that the students were not going to the Lewiston-The Burke group he made the interesting charge to the students. He said that the Burke group did not have the advantage of the public in the press.

Our editor (see the "Wipe No. 2") has published a disclaimer as servants tell the students, Bob Yankel concerning the performed Performing Arts Center.

Yankel, an old man, said that the center would be older than the old Burke, but that it would never be big enough to support a new center. He is pushing better faculty before better facilities.

Students
I was with my dad in the Idaho Argonaut, the campus newspaper. I was new on campus and didn't really feel like being part of any group. So, I went to the Idaho Argonaut office to find out what the students were up to.

The Idaho Argonaut is a student publication, and it's run entirely by students. They do a great job, and I was impressed.

The student body is a mix of ages and backgrounds, but one thing that stands out is their passion for their school and the community.

I asked one of the students about their favorite part of being a part of the Idaho Argonaut.

He said, "One of my favorite things about being a part of the Idaho Argonaut is being able to work with such a talented group of people. We all bring different skills and perspectives to the table, which makes our work better. Plus, it's a lot of fun!"

I think it's a great way for students to get involved in their community and learn important skills.

I'm glad I was able to spend some time with the Idaho Argonaut and learn more about their work. It's a great organization, and I'm sure they'll continue to produce excellent content for their readers.
Two U-I Department Heads Named by Regents Board

Two new department heads were named during the faculty and student appointments announced Thursday by President Franklin C. Haines, ISU regent. The two men are part of a large group of new appointments approved at the Board of Regents meeting in Des Moines.

James Nash Jarrett, an assistant professor of journalism and mass communications at the Nebraska State College of Technical Agriculture, was named acting head of the Department of Communications. Jarrett, who is now head of the journalism department at the University of Arizona, was named acting head of the Department of Journalism and Mass Communications at the University of Illinois. He will remain as head of the Department of Communications until a permanent appointment is made. Jarrett, who is also a member of the board of governors of the National Association of Broadcasters, has been involved in the field of communications for over 20 years. He is a graduate of the University of Arizona and has a Ph.D. in communications.

Michael Editson Stevens, a professor of English at the University of Illinois, was named acting head of the Department of English. Stevens, who is also a member of the board of governors of the National Association of Broadcasters, has been involved in the field of English for over 20 years. He is a graduate of the University of Illinois and has a Ph.D. in English.

Today a German language class will start at 4:30 p.m. It will follow the German Language class in the morning.

Benny Goodman, considered the world's greatest jazz music virtuoso, will play at the University of Illinois on Thursday, April 2, as part of the Music Department's International Music Series.

The concert will be held in the Main Hall of the University of Illinois, and is free to the public. Goodman is a world-renowned saxophonist and composer, and is considered to be one of the most influential jazz musicians of all time. He has performed with many of the great jazz musicians of the 20th century, and his music has been featured in many movies and TV shows. Goodman's concert is part of the Music Department's International Music Series, which presents concerts by some of the world's best musicians. The next concert in the series will be held on April 16. For more information, call the Music Department at 217-333-4567.
Senior Women Honored At Tri Delt Breakfast

A special dinner was held Tuesday evening at the Tri Delta Delta Dinner, honoring all senior women and guests. The featured speaker for the event was Miss Sheehy, a member of the Tri Delta Delta sorority. Miss Sheehy spoke about the importance of education and its role in shaping the future of women. She emphasized the value of networking and mentorship in achieving personal and professional goals.

Bodily Proposes Off Campus List

Student government proposed to attempt to solve part of the problem of finding housing for the Tri Delta Delta members. This proposal, called Bodily's plan, offers students the option of renting off-campus housing, thereby alleviating the demand for on-campus housing.

Greeek Week Changes Noted

A significant change in Greek Week activities was noted by students. The traditional parade was replaced with a talent show, reflecting a shift towards more creative and inclusive events.

Catholic Center To Be Dedicated

The Catholic Center will be dedicated on November 10th, as part of the university's 150th anniversary celebrations. The center aims to provide a dedicated space for Catholic students to gather, study, and engage in community activities.

Vandals Drop One To Cougars, 4-1

John Smith's Vandals didn't have their day Saturday as they fell to 4-1 to Arizona in Pullman.

The Cougars scored their runs in a seven-run first inning as they built a 9-1 lead at the end of three.

The Vandals were never able to recover from the early deficit and were unable to score more than one run in the final two innings.

The loss drops the Vandals to 7-11 on the season and 2-7 in the Pac-10 conference.

Vandal Nettles, Conquer Cougars

The Vandals' team composition is different this year after losing seven starters to graduation.

Coach John Smith will be looking to his younger players to contribute this season.

One of those players is sophomore centerfielder John Nettles, who was named to the All-Conference team last year.

Nettles is expected to have a significant impact on the team's performance.

Wolves' Cage Scholarship

The Wolves' Cage Scholarship is a new initiative created by the Wolves Athletic Department.

The scholarship is open to any incoming freshman who demonstrates academic excellence and athletic potential.

The recipient will receive a full scholarship for the academic year.

Vandals Players Win Big In State Amateur Scrimmage

The Vandals' players had a good showing in the State Amateur Scrimmage.

Senior centerfielder John Nettles was named the Most Valuable Player.

Other players who performed well included sophomore catcher Mike Smith, who had two hits, and junior pitcher David Johnson, who pitched a complete game shutout.

The Vandals' victory was a big morale booster as they prepare for their upcoming season.
