Watch those girls in blue: new Valkyries

by Lynn Huff

Valkyries. The girls in blue uniforms are Valkyries, a famed and honored organization which takes in new members last spring, Valpytes, and members are always available for giving out flags for holidays and parades. The girls have planned special teams of Volkschule and are always available for any volunteer work. They also do a lot of work for the University. The girls are known for their service and preparedness. The girls are very well prepared and always ready to serve. The girls are known for their service and preparedness. Editorial Opinion

A call for some new revisions in Student Government is contained in a recent decision of Executive Board, a call that might echo across and down the halls of campus for the next three years.

It is suggested that the Campus Affairs Committee of the Executive Board be enlarged in order to eliminate some of the tensions and unhappineses resulting from the friction between the students and the administration.

The Committee on Campus Affairs, which was established by the Student Senate in 1960, has a long reach to travel over before its evolutionary period of growth is over. Since the constitution committee only specifies that 10 ASU faculty members can be appointed, in the past, the EDU administration has reappointed some members for a number of years. However, the addition of several of the EDU members to the committee meetings over a period of time would mean that some of the students would be due both of sufficient time to begin part of a new generation of student leaders.

The proposed new revisions would mean that the Committee on Campus Affairs would include representatives of several student organizations and groups of the administration. The discussion would be primarily among members of the administration and the students.

Other arguments against the present system are that many of the people do not do as well as they do in the ASU, without having to spend several more hours on Campus Affairs Committee. Still others claim that a more diverse type of student opinion is needed on the issues that arise between the committee, because some members have been with the Board for many years.

The Board members are in part, representative to the Committee because they have a working knowledge of many of the issues that arise in the Board, without having to go through briefings on the subject.

It is felt that the main responsibility of the committee is to present a student opinion in the face of the present Board. The present Board members, it is felt, should be guided by student opinion from a certain area or living group.

The Board members argue that the present Board is made up of 45 faculty members, including 12 who are not on the faculty. The present Board represents the student body in their present condition, and that the student body will be represented at the present Board level.

If student government revision is needed and if the Board on Campus Affairs, or similar bodies, can be carried out, the student body is in the best position to determine the student body as the student body.
Playmate attends TKE dance

By Penny

Yes, it's true. "Tiger Lily" Magazine's "Playmate of the Year," Lisa Habor, will be on the Idaho campus next week.

Miss Habor is helping to raise money for the new Kappa Sigma chapter on campus. The Kappa Sigma brothers are trying to raise $5,000 to complete their new building. The money will be used to purchase furniture and supplies for the house.

This is the first time a "Playmate" has been to Idaho. Miss Habor will be speaking and giving a slide show on her experiences and career. The event will be held in the Ada Delta chapter on the Idaho campus. The event will be open to the public and will be free to attend.

The event will be held on Friday, May 1. The time and location will be announced later. Interested students should contact the Kappa Sigma brothers for more information.

Gun control a mockery, Church tells Senate

Senator Finken said he's been fighting against federal registration of firearms or licensing for the past 20 years. He said that "the law would become a lawlessness" and should be prohibited.

The senator stated in bow wars' latest defense of proposed gun legislation, that proposed amendments to the bill would require federal registration of guns or licensing of gun owners.

He told the Senate that "this is the worst legislative bill ever introduced in the Senate." He said it would make it impossible for the Senate to pass a firearms law.

The senator also said the bill would make it impossible for the Senate to pass a firearms law.

Wildlife professor addresses foresters

University of Idaho Wildlife Management Professor Kenneth B. Rangert has presented three workshops on wildlife management this spring for area foresters.

The workshops covered wildlife habitat management, wildlife population studies, and wildlife management practices.

The workshops have been well attended and have helped in the training of wildlife foresters. The workshops have also helped to increase the awareness of wildlife issues in the region.

Radio-TV majors present program

A number of radio-TV majors will be producing a weekly half-hour television program to experiment with range of ideas for future programming. They were selected by intrepid members of the TV-Majors group to help in the development of a new show.

The program will be called "Wildlife and Wildlife Management." It will be hosted by a wildlife biologist and will feature interviews with wildlife experts from around the country.

The show will be broadcast on Saturday mornings on major television networks.

Battle of Palouse is big tradition

By Brian Lebold

Agganst News Editor

College traditions, custom and lore are long-standing at institutions of higher learning, usually centered around specific events and student organizations. And nothing is more to be taken seriously.

There is no tradition at Washington State, however, which is long-rooted and in which students and fans are more deeply involved than the Battle of Palouse. The Palouse Cup, as it is known, is an annual football rivalry between the Vandals of Idaho State University and the Cougars of Washington State University.

There are four instances of the Battle at Mankato, however, which is to be seen and heard and will make up the history of the event.

The Battles of the Palouse," said Swedish native and Washing- ton State "Champion" Joe Bailey, "might be described as the mother of the events, which has been around for decades, and the first game was in 1916, which is still played in the stadium.

Unfortunately, the record book which keeps track of the games was lost in the 1922 fire. There have been three ties in the series since.

Tomorrow will mark the fifth contest in the series, and although the game has been moved to Spokane's Allied Arena, the tradition of the rivalry will be there.

The game is expected, as it is in the past, that Mankato will be held this fall in the stadium.

In 1916, as many student historians will attest, the Cougars were problems, and Mankato was a field, but the statistics of the game are available, which is the case. The Washington State Cougars are 1-1, and in the two previous games, the Mankato team has played in the arena.

The first game was in the stadium, and the official score was 12-0. The last time the Mankato team was played in the stadium was in 1916, which was a 39-0 victory for the Cougars. The first game in the stadium was played in 1908, and the score was 21-14 for the Cougars.

Some who play on Saturday will be in the stadium, in this year, which is the 50th anniversary of the game. The game will be played at 1 p.m.

Men's bowling holds try-outs

The AUS Men's Bowling Team played an invitational match at Mankato bowling center this past Saturday. The competition was held at the Mankato bowling center and included bowling for the rest of the year.

The bowling team will participate in tournaments at other schools including ISU and WSU, which will schedule the intercollegiate bowling tournament.

The AUS Men's Bowling Team has a score of 3,000 which will still be bowled at.

Politics, public affairs, NET's fall season topics

A new dramatic project involving regional dialogue across the country and a series of national meetings and seminars is expected to be an important topic for the fall season.

The project, which is sponsored by the National Endowment for the Humanities, is designed to encourage dialogue and debate on public affairs issues.

The meeting will be held on the campus of Idaho State University in Pocatello on October 16th. The meeting will feature a keynote address by National Endowment for the Humanities Chairman Dr. John W. Loop of the National Endowment for the Humanities.

And we will have a question and answer session with the keynote speaker.

Contemporary policies by Kenneth Baker, Speaker of the California House, will be discussed at the event, and will set the stage for our fall series. Baker will also discuss how the policies will affect our lives in a hands-on way.

Marching band sports new look

By Bobbi Coughlin

The University of Idaho Marching Band under the direction of Mr. C. Frank Suliber and Robert Spencer, is once again getting ready for another busy year.

The band has been practicing every week since September. "Starting over every week, relearning songs and reviewing things for the next year, and trying to keep it all together," reports band instructor Mr. Suliber. "The band has been working hard and practicing a lot during the past couple of months."

Mr. Suliber, a native of Idaho, has been with the band for four years. He has been very involved with the band during this time, and has been able to bring some fresh ideas to the band.

Mr. Suliber is a former band instructor at the University of Oregon, where he directed the Marching Band for three years. "I have been able to bring some new ideas to the band," he says. "I have been able to bring some new music to the band as well."
