On the Calendar

The University of Idaho calendar includes a variety of events, such as lectures, concerts, and sports events. The calendar is an important resource for students, faculty, and the community, as it provides information about upcoming events and activities.

In other news, the university has announced plans for a new facility that will be built on the campus. The facility is designed to provide additional space for academic programs and student services. The project is expected to be completed within the next few years, and it will help to accommodate the growing student population.

These are just a few of the many events and activities that take place at the University of Idaho. For more information, please visit the university's website or contact the office of student affairs.
Goldwater's Chances Look Slim; Nixon Might Be Next GOP Nominee

by Jason

IDIOY BOX

Dear Jason,

Arthur Kaneko, a candidate for the "Asu In" student government, writes in response to your article "Goldwater's Chances Look Slim" in the "Asu In" last week. Mr. Brown writes pre- viously artículo for the "Asu In".

This week's "Asu In" is a possible future Asu In member of the paper.

Pros and cons analysis of why Nixon might or might not be the next GOP nominee.

No one has actually accomplished anything with the student body. The student body is a joke, a waste of time, and an embarrassment to the university.

Who Did What?

How can individual members of the university student government be held accountable for their actions?
