The Golden Fleece

Nakedness?
By Chris L. Smith, Editor

The Golden Fleece turns one year old this month and the anniversary is being observed by a number of people who think it is a good thing. The idea of the Golden Fleece is to promote naturalness and to bring attention to the fact that nakedness is a natural state.

The Electorate:
The University of Idaho is populated by an odd breed of creature. You see them everywhere, but if you look at them closely, you will realize they are not really people. They are the Electorate, and they are everywhere.

The Electoral College was established in 1789 to help the United States in its early years. It was designed to ensure that the presidency would be decided by a direct vote of the people. However, the Electoral College is now seen as outdated and unnecessary.

The Electoral College was established in 1789 to help the United States in its early years. It was designed to ensure that the presidency would be decided by a direct vote of the people. However, the Electoral College is now seen as outdated and unnecessary.

The Electoral College has been abolished in several states, but it remains in place in some states. The Electoral College system is often criticized for being contrary to the democratic ideal of one person, one vote.

The Golden Fleece is an organization that promotes naturalness and nakedness. It is a group of people who believe that nakedness is a natural state and should be encouraged. The Golden Fleece was founded in 1980 and has over 100 chapters across the United States.

Pigeonholes are for the birds...

When I was a boy, one of the games that I played was to look for the most efficient way to put my things away. I found that pigeonholes were the best way to organize my games. I even used them for my paper clips and rubber bands.

I have since learned that pigeonholes are useful in many other ways, such as organizing mail and files in an office. In fact, pigeonholes are so useful that I have dedicated an entire book to the subject of pigeonholes.

One college more does not make more bananas. It is the same as with the other institutions. It will make no difference how many "regular" colleges there may be. If they are all good, why should we have any more? If they are all bad, why should we have any more? If they are all indifferent, why should we have any more? If they are all the same, why should we have any more? If they are all different, why should we have any more? If they are all the same, why should we have any more? If they are all different, why should we have any more?

Playtex invents the first-day tampon

(Was the inside out to show you how different it is.)

Outside it is soft and fit (unembossed). Inside, it is a "sealed" tampon, with a special protective device that keeps it from leaking on you first day. Your worst day? In every way against that standard tampon kind... when the Playtex tampons were more absorbent. Actually 50% more absorbent than the leading regular tampon. Because of it's patented, snugly fits to your body. It's broader. Designed to protect every inch of you. Of course, if you're a first timer, it's almost sore.
