Referenda to be voted on tomorrow

Tomorrow, May 9th, is the day for the referenda for six proposed measures in Idaho, in order to determine whether students will want them approved or rejected. The referenda are an opportunity for students to present their ideas and evaluate the effectiveness of the campus political system.

The referendum process will begin from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the Administration Building, Education 121, and then continue until 5 p.m. on the day of the vote. The referendum ballots will be in the ballot box, and a student who is a registered voter can cast his ballot only once. The ballots are accompanied by a comprehensive brochure that explains each of the proposed measures in detail.

The referendum will be open to all full-time and part-time students, regardless of their major or year of study. The referenda will cover a wide range of issues, including student government, academic policies, and campus services.

The following are descriptions of each of the referenda measures:

1. Referendum on the Idaho State University's (ISU) contract with the Idaho State University Foundation, which would allow the university to sell or lease the ISU campus.

2. Referendum on the Idaho State University's (ISU) contract with the Idaho State University Foundation, which would allow the university to sell or lease the ISU campus.

3. Referendum on the Idaho State University's (ISU) contract with the Idaho State University Foundation, which would allow the university to sell or lease the ISU campus.

4. Referendum on the Idaho State University's (ISU) contract with the Idaho State University Foundation, which would allow the university to sell or lease the ISU campus.

5. Referendum on the Idaho State University's (ISU) contract with the Idaho State University Foundation, which would allow the university to sell or lease the ISU campus.

6. Referendum on the Idaho State University's (ISU) contract with the Idaho State University Foundation, which would allow the university to sell or lease the ISU campus.

The referenda will take place during the normal business hours of the Administration Building, Education 121. Students are encouraged to participate in the referenda process and to take the time to consider the issues involved in each measure before casting their votes.

The results of the referenda will be announced on the day of the vote. The following day, a summary of the results will be published in the Idaho Argonaut, allowing students to see how their votes were cast.

The referenda process is an important part of the democratic process, allowing students to participate in the governance of the university. It is an opportunity for students to express their views and influence the direction of the university. Consider the question

Editorial Opinion

From the rear view, looks pretty well, everyone is throwing accusations of every- one as much as possible, so that they can't be confused. But with the SEED program's controversial nature, it's important to actually see what's happening here. I recently learned that there are still many misconceptions circulating among the people of the community, and I wanted to clear this up by providing some information before we go into the public issue.

The SEED program is one of three things that the university is currently trying to implement. The other two are the Second Street Community Center and the Community Health Center. The SEED committee will discuss the project with the board of directors, and then the community will be called for an opinion. The students will be the ones to vote on what they think about the project.

One of the problems with the proposal is that the citizens' rights are at stake. The committee believes that the SEED committee will vote on it with the students, and that the students will be informed of the decision. The committee will also consider the reason for the move and the students' rights to speak out on the issue.

In all probability, the students in the SEED program between 1982 and 1984 will be affected. The committee must consider that the students who are affected have the right to know what is being done.

On the Referendum

SEED wants fee increase

During the discussions between SEED members and the student representatives for the program, it was clear that the SEED program would not be feasible without a fee increase. However, there was no consensus on how much the fee should be raised.

The committee concluded that the fee increase should be at least 10%, with some members suggesting a 20% increase. The committee agreed that the fee increase should be used to fund the program and not for personal gains.

On the Referendum

Two bad deals

By Roger Anderson

With all the arguments for and against the SEED program, it's important to focus on what's best for the students. I've been a student myself and I know that the SEED program is a good idea. But with all the arguments and the students' rights at stake, it's important to look into the feasibility of the program.

The SEED program, according to the board of directors, is not feasible. They believe that the program is not feasible because of the budget constraints. But with all the arguments and the students' rights at stake, it's important to look into the feasibility of the program.

This is the SEED program, and the students must be the ones to decide whether it's worth it. So, let's all be responsible and vote responsibly. And if the students don't want the program, then let's support them.

To The Editor

Stop raising fees

Editor, The Argument

Dear Editor,

I am a student at University College and I am writing to express my concern about the recent increases in tuition fees. I believe that the university should not be raising fees at this time.

Last month, the university increased the fees by 10%. This increase is not justified, and I believe that the university should be careful in raising fees.

The university should consider the impact of this increase on the students. The students are already struggling to pay for their education, and an increase in fees will only make their financial situation worse.

I urge the university to reconsider this decision and to find other ways to raise funds.

Sincerely,

[Student Name]

Vote "No"

The SEED program is a good idea, but I don't think it's the right time to raise fees. The university needs money to operate, but the students are already struggling to pay for their education. I urge the students to vote "No" on this proposal.

Thanks to U of I

Dear Editor,

I am writing to express my appreciation to the University of Illinois. Thank you for the free education that you provide to all students.

The university is doing a great job in providing a quality education to all students. I urge the students to support the university by voting "Yes" on the referendum.

Police or education

Editor, The Argument

Dear Editor,

I am writing to express my concern about the recent increase in police presence on campus. I believe that the university should consider the impact of this increase on the students.

The university should consider the impact of this increase on the students. The students are already struggling to pay for their education, and an increase in police presence will only make their financial situation worse.

I urge the university to find other ways to improve campus security, such as better lighting and more active student involvement.

Sincerely,

[Student Name]

SEED locks justification

There is no need to justify the fee increase. The SEED program is necessary for the students' education. Without the fee increase, the program will not be able to continue. The students need to vote "Yes" on the referendum.

Koppes triumph on ‘Derby Day’

Nageza Spears Koppes, one of the nation’s top 10 Derby Day jockeys and a three-time Idaho-bred champion, was crowned Derby Starling in the Derby Day festivities last Saturday.

The Gemini 79, a 19-year-old gelding policed by the University of Idaho horsemen, was the winner of the ishane race.

Competitors included five of the worst jockeys in the state, leading off with Idaho’s leading rider, Robert Koppes, a 20-year-old jockey.

The jockeys then made their way through the field, with the closest finish coming when Koppes, riding for the University of Idaho, won by a nose in the final stretch.

Koppes, who said he was “proud” to win the event, said he was “very happy” with the result.

In 1985 the Idaho Legislature passed a bill that would allow a jockey to compete in the annual Derby Day event. The bill, which was signed into law by Governor Meryl Brandt, was a response to concerns about the safety of jockeys in the event.

The bill also required that jockeys be licensed by the state’s racing commission.

Idaho Library facilities surveyed

In 1985 the Idaho Library Commission conducted a survey of the state’s libraries, including the University of Idaho’s libraries.

The survey found that the libraries were in need of significant improvements, including the addition of storage space and the replacement of outdated equipment.

The library also reported that the quality of its holdings was in need of improvement, with a large portion of the collection being outdated or out of date.

The library director, Betty Ford, said that the survey results had been used to develop a plan for improving the library’s facilities.

The plan, which is expected to be completed over the next several years, involves the construction of new facilities, the purchase of new equipment, and the development of new programs.

Tennis team wins three

The Vandals tennis team rolled up its slate strong with a 7-0 victory over Washington State in Pullman, Wash. The Vandal swim team was defeated by the Cougars, 212-191.

Richter in the day Pullman defeated Mike Keating, 9-5, and Denny Keating, 8-2, in the first singles match.

The Vandals take on Washington State University on Friday and the University of Oregon on Sunday.

Tennis coach Dave Hunsicker requested permission from the administration to add a doubles match to the schedule.

"They will be ready for us, more than they were last week," Hunsicker said.

The upcoming games are against the University of Idaho on Saturday and Washington State on Sunday.

Basketball sign letters

Vandal basketball coach Mike Hunsicker announced Wednesday that five student-athletes have received basketball scholarships to attend the University of Idaho.

Shane, a 6-foot center from Fife, Wash., was a first-team all-Western Washington selection. He will be a major addition to the Vandal bench, according to Hunsicker.

The five signees are: Shane, 6-foot guard from Coeur d'Alene, Idaho; Jerry, 6-foot center from Moscow, Idaho; Jim, 6-foot guard from Pullman, Wash.; Jim, 6-foot guard from Spokane, Wash.; and Dan, 6-foot guard from Spokane, Wash.

The five signees will be introduced at a news conference next month.

Horseshoes down Weber; split with Idaho State

The Idaho Vandals pulled off their first upset of the Big Sky Conference this past weekend, as Weber State came out a 6-5-0 record in conference play and unseating No. 4 Idaho State in the process.

In the first game, the Vandals won the opener to lead the Wolves 1-0. Idaho State then tied the game with a first-inning hit and then led the game with a second-inning hit. The game continued with a third-inning hit and then a fourth-inning hit on a doubleheader. Idaho State led the game with a fifth-inning hit, but the Vandals tied the game with a sixth-inning hit. Idaho State then led the game with a seventh-inning hit, but the Vandals tied the game with an eighth-inning hit and won the game with a ninth-inning hit.

In the second game, the Vandals won the opener to lead the Wolves 3-0. Idaho State then tied the game with a first-inning hit and then led the game with a second-inning hit. The game continued with a third-inning hit and then a fourth-inning hit on a doubleheader. Idaho State led the game with a fifth-inning hit, but the Vandals tied the game with a sixth-inning hit and won the game with a seventh-inning hit.

The Vandals then traveled to the Pacific Northwest to take on the Idaho State Bengals. The first game of the doubleheader was dominated by the Vandals, as they won 9-2. In the second game, the Vandals won 5-3, continuing their recent success against the Bengals.

The Vandals are now 17-10 overall and 8-2 in conference play, while the Bengals are 19-14 overall and 7-3 in conference play. Idaho State now sits at the top of the Big Sky standings with a 13-1 season record, while the Vandals are third with a 12-2 season record.

Idaho State

The Vandals had a field day as their hit parade continued with the victory. Idaho State scored early in the first game, but couldn't hold the lead as the game continued. Idaho State then scored early in the second game, but the Vandals tied the game with a second-inning hit. Idaho State then scored early in the third game, but the Vandals tied the game with a second-inning hit.

Idaho State is now 17-10 overall and 8-2 in conference play. Idaho State is now two games behind the Vandals in the conference standings, and Idaho State needs to win the remaining three games to have a chance at making the conference tournament.

Idaho State's next home game is against the University of Idaho on Tuesday, May 3rd. The next home game for the Vandals is against the University of Washington on Wednesday, May 4th.
