Editorial Opinion

Newspaper!

Well, well, well. Again this year the ASU started off with a flying leap and fell flat on its face. Two, not one, articles made the front page. This is not because the students didn't have anything to say, but I'd say because the editor didn't have anything interesting to report. The printer has broken — who cares? The football games — who cares? Students from those institutes, at this time of year, are usually not on the front pages. The students don't really care about the games, and if they did there would be articles on the front pages. This is just a way of getting the attention of the students who don't care about the games.

The Excuses

Thursday night isn't a day that most people think about football. The university has a policy that the football games will be played at 8:00 p.m. This is to ensure that the games are not interrupted by traffic. However, the students don't seem to care about this policy. They can't wait for the next game to begin.

The Humanitarian

Part I

One of the fundamental problems facing educational administrators, faculty members and students today is the problem of how to cope with the policies of the state. The state's policies are aimed at controlling the education system. Many of these policies are based on the belief that education is a basic right of all students. However, these policies can be ineffective and even harmful to the students. For example, the state may force schools to teach certain subjects, which may not be relevant to the students' lives. This can lead to a lack of motivation and a drop in the students' performance.

Montana, Weber win.

The Big Sky Conference never turns off. So it was a logical conclusion when Montana defeated Weber in Monday's second-round game, 74-61, to be the No. 1 seed in Thursday's Montana State Tournament at the Great Falls Civic Auditorium. Montana scored a 20-point advantage in the second period to turn a 25-15 lead into the 45-30 lead it held at halftime.

Montana's "Twin Stylers," all senior starters, combined to score 39 points, and the Bears' defense held Weber to 25 points. In the second period, the Bears scored 10 of their first 12 points to turn a 10-point lead into a 23-point lead.

Living groups all over the University of Idaho campus have undergone remodeling changes. During the last school year architectural architects and contractors were remodeling and changing the houses before the influx of college students to the campus during the last August.

The remodeling and changes in the Delta Gamma house is an example of this. The summer remodeling focused on changing old pillars and hallways into a new flooring system and parallel parking outside the house. For the past year, the Delta Chi's spent over $60,000 remodeling the entire chapter house. All the rooms were renumbered, and the house was renamed. To add finishing touches, the Delta Chi members built a bar downstairs.

New appliances were added to the Alpha Phi house this past spring. Contractors also removed the pillars in front of the house and put in concrete columns in their place. There were also new carpeting, curtains, and a new sewing system added to the stairs leading to the house.

At the Kappa Kappa Gamma house, the doors were completely replaced. New carpeting and furniture were purchased for the house, as well as the garage room. Porch parking was also completed in front of the Kappa Sig house, making Eta Street between Seward Avenue and University Avenue one way.

Girls at Kappa Alpha Theta walked into a new house this fall when they returned to Idaho. All the rooms were upgraded, with the addition of new carpeting, new wood paneling, and a new interior paint system. The living room is complete, with sliding panel doors to a converted dining room. These new Greek letters for Kappa Alpha Theta are excellent new sisters for the house.

Delta Gamma spent money this summer remodeling the study rooms with wood paneling. The SIG's also completed parts of the house and added new furniture. All the living quarters systems were complete.

No remodeling was done of the Phi Delta Theta house this summer, as a new $200,000 house was completed last November. The house will accommodate 18 men, with studs in each room for wardrobes and bookcases from each room. The house has a formal front for two and all informal rooms, the living room with a suspended fire place. Space was allowed in building for a houserends area and the Phi Delta also have cooks quarters for their live-in cook.

Across the street at the Kappa Kappa Gamma house, a new living room with a balcony was completed. The old pillars and hallway, which have been part of the house for years, were replaced. Carpeting was put on the front steps and a new door was installed. The reception hall was replaced and the lounge was remodeled, with girls in the house paying with the interior decorating.

Kappa Alpha Theta has an almost complete face lifting, a project started last spring. The windows were completely replaced, all the rooms were updated, and new smoke detectors were added to the house. The SIG's also added a garage and complete throughout the house. The SIG's also added a game room to the basement.
