Wilms meets Nixon at D. C. Conference

The “President in Presidents Conference” — members of the NAS Administration, presidents of leading American universities and their consortia attended by Mr. Nixon, are photographed with John F. Kennedy, President of the University of Chicago; during the conference's last day in March 1966. At the back is Robert C. Byrd, chairman of the Senate Special Committee on Education and Labor, and in the center is Senator John A. Mccain. The President of the University of Illinois, Joseph L. Eichler, is at the far end of the table.

During our classified schedules, December 1965.
This conference enabled the students government presidents of the National Association of State College and University Presidents to confer with the Office of Education and Labor, the National Association of State College and University Presidents, and the federal government in higher education.

It was a modest conference, "a President Wilson stated. "It was possible to bring the campus to the table."

The 1965 conference was held in the Project 2060, a federal government in higher education. The project was given a new, more prominent role in the nations post-secondary education system.

The purser strings in student hands

The Idaho State University administration, in an effort to make the purser strings, has started giving them to student workers. The purser strings are used by students to hold their purses while they are working at their jobs. The administration also hopes to make the strings more visible to help reduce the number of lost purses.

The purser strings are made from red and white plastic, and they are given to students who work in the university's on-campus dining halls. The administration hopes that the strings will help students keep track of their purses and reduce the number of lost purses on campus.

The purser strings are made by a local company and are available in various colors. The administration hopes that the new strings will be popular among students and help reduce the number of lost purses on campus.

Another high-ranking University of Idaho official has been fired, joining a growing list of top administrators who have lost their jobs. This latest firing is the latest in a series of high-profile departures from the university, which has been under pressure to make changes in its administration.

Students at the University of Idaho, President Birks announced his decision to fire the vice president for student affairs, who had been working at the university for 18 years. The firing staff had not previously been mentioned in the news or in any official university statements.

The vice president for student affairs is responsible for overseeing a range of student services, including counseling, career services, and student conduct. The university has faced criticism in recent years for its handling of student conduct cases, and the move to fire the vice president for student affairs is seen as a step towards addressing these concerns.

The firing follows a series of high-profile departures from the university, including the firing of the university's chief of police and the resignation of the university's provost.

Students and faculty members have expressed concern about the university's ability to effectively manage its operations. The university has a history of financial difficulties and has been criticized for its lack of transparency in financial matters.

The firing of the vice president for student affairs is the latest in a series of high-profile departures from the university, and it is likely to continue to draw attention to the university's management and operations.

Landlords prepare for Berkeley rent strike

The Berkeley rent strike has been in the air for some time now, and landlords have wound up in time to prepare for it. Special "radical clauses" have been added onto many standard leases in the area for full contingent. The radical clause demands the tenant waive certain civil rights under California law joined to the landlord's lease for use in repairing building equipment.

Other sections of the radical arrangements are over the tenants rights.

Two-bedroom apartments in Berkeley are between $75 and $80 per month. The onediem rents between $85 and $90 per month, and apartment conditions in the east part of the city and toward the Oakland area are generally poor and in disrepair.

State senators planning legislation to increase benefits under G.I. Bill

State senators Frank Church and Len B. Jordan will introduce legislation in Congress to give members of G.I. groups more liberal educational benefits under the G.I. Bill than would otherwise be available.

Company legislation has already been introduced in the House of Representatives, but the Senate version is similar.

The proposal would allow the G.I. to be extended to the number of credits of training time they underwent prior to publication last year in company, educational benefits under the G.I. Bill.

Such prolongation of training time is now allowed under present law for regular sized courses, but not for extended courses.

PROCLAMATION

The year 1989 is the Centennial Year for the game of collegiate football in the United States. The first game of football was played 100 years ago this year on September 21, 1889, when Princeton and Rutgers met on what we now know as a gridiron. Football in Idaho started in 1893 when the University of Idaho started its intercollegiate season with a 60-0 victory over the football team from the Pulman Agricultural College.

WHEREAS this being the official football Centennial Year as proclaimed by the National Collegiate Athletic Association and
WHEREAS this national event is such an educational, emotional and physical part of our college campuses in Idaho, and
WHEREAS the great state of Idaho is deeply proud of its NCAA affiliated teams, its junior and various high school teams, and all other college teams, and Idaho great pride in their accomplishments on the gridiron, and
WHEREAS the University of Idaho and the Idaho State University football teams will meet on September 21, 1889, the same date as the 100th anniversary of intercollegiate football,

NOW THEREFORE, I, BOB SABLESON, Governor of the State of Idaho, do hereby proclaim the week of September 21-27 officially as in Idaho and do hereby urge all of Idaho's citizens to enter the theme of this great week of celebration as the State of Idaho pays tribute to the great game of intercollegiate football.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the Great Seal of the State of Idaho, at Boise, the Capital, the forty-ninth day of August in the year of our Lord, Nineteen Hundred and Sixty-nine and of the Independence of the United States the One Hundred and Nineteen-Plus.

The first intercollegiate football in the United States was held in New Brunswick, New Jersey on November 6, 1869. It consisted of Rutgers and Princeton.

Rutgers won 6-4, under its own rules, but Princeton refused the offer a week later by winning 6-4 at Princeton, under Princeton rules. The Rutgers faculty withdrew, leaving Princeton to register the win and establish intercollegiate football.

Early football games were limited to the Harvard style. However, early versions of the Canadian sport, where the ball was carried, were also played. This type of game rapidly outstripped the soccer-like game in popularity, and in 1871 Harvard, Princeton, Yale, and Columbia formed a league. This has since become the Ivy League, with adopted uniform playing rules based on the Harvard style. However, during early days of football, the rules were constantly changed. The two most important changes in making the game what it is today was the establishment of the scrimmage rule, and hence the line of scrimmage, in 1880, and the introduction of the forward pass in 1906.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association, better known as the NCAA, also came into being in 1906 and under its guidance, the game reached a form very nearly like that of today by 1912. Football came to the University of Idaho in 1893 when the University played the Spokane Athletic Club and lost, 8-10. Idaho's first year of football did result in a winning season, however, as it defeated Washington State twice, then Washington Agricultural College in the only other two games of the season.

In the following years the fortunes of the Vandals sagged, as they didn't have another winning season until 1900 when they defeated Washington 12-6 in the only game of the season. Since those days the luck of the Vandals has varied with the coach, the players, and the strength of the opposition. In the University's first clash with what is now Idaho State University in 1929, the Vandals set the trend by winning over Idaho State 41-7.
