Turnout for election nets
374 freshmen, Mah leads

Wednesday, 214 freshmen turned in ballots at the U of I Student Union. Bill Hill President, Jere Schulte, TKE, was elected Vice President, and Matthew Alph, was elected to the Student Senate. The new administration is already on the job, having agreed to sponsor a speakers program this spring. The new executive officers of the Student Union are: President, Bill Hill; Vice-President, Jere Schulte, Treasurer, Matthew Alph and Secretary, Kurt Paz. The new officers are to be installed at the spring meeting of the Student Union next month.

The immediate past President of the Student Union, Stephen Elder, a three term president, said these elections represented a new beginning for the Student Union. He added, "Our continuing challenge is to maintain a balance between the student body and the administration." He went on to say that the Student Union has been able to work closely with the administration, and that the new administration is already doing a great job.

The election results indicate that the Student Union is well on its way to accomplishing that goal. The new officers are well respected and have already shown their ability to work effectively with the administration and the faculty.

One-halffundred   citizens take part in Moratorium

For the second time in four years, people gathered in Washington, D.C., to demand a halt to the Vietnam War. This time, the Moratorium Day demonstrations were more widespread and more peaceful than previously.

At the Vietnam Moratorium on the National Mall, there were about 100,000 people, including many students and peace activists. The crowd was more diverse than in previous years, with people of all ages and backgrounds participating.

In addition to the main event on the Mall, there were smaller events in other parts of the country, including Iowa State University, where there were about 250 people.

The Moratorium Day was organized by the War Memorial Association and the American Friends Service Committee, two groups that have been involved in peace activism for many years.

The organizers of the Moratorium Day event in Iowa City said that they hoped to draw attention to the human cost of the war and to call for an end to the conflict.

The event was peaceful, with no incidents reported.

Carter discusses fee increase with University students

Stanford University students have been discussing the possibility of a $350 increase in tuition fees, which would bring the total cost of tuition to $750 per semester. The students have been protesting the fee increase, arguing that it would be a burden for low-income students.

The students have been meeting with the university administration to discuss their concerns. They have been calling for a moratorium on the fee increase until the university promises to provide more financial aid.

Many students have been expressing their frustration with the university administration and the decision to increase tuition fees. They have been calling for a moratorium on the fee increase until the university promises to provide more financial aid.

Iowa State University Prof. Mike Jordan for impeachment at Moratorium

The Iowa State University Professor, Mike Jordan, has been called for impeachment at the Moratorium Day event in Iowa City. The event was organized by the War Memorial Association and the American Friends Service Committee, two groups that have been involved in peace activism for many years.

SPEAKER

I wonder how many of us actually take the time to think how important our college education is. For most of us, it means receiving a diploma in June, so we can go on to get jobs in a higher wage scale. But the real significance of a college education is that it provides the intellectual skills which will help us to function in society. I suggest that we spend more time thinking about the significance of our education rather than just preparing to leave college and start looking for a job.

The student body is becoming more heterogeneous and diverse, and we need to be aware of this. A college education is a means of equalizing the social status of individuals. It is a way of creating a level playing field for all students, regardless of their background or social status.

The student body is also becoming more aware of the political and social issues of our time. We need to be aware of this and to use our education to help us to understand these issues and to take an active role in shaping the future of our society.

We need to be more aware of the importance of our college education and to use it to its fullest potential. A college education is a means of personal growth and development, and we need to take advantage of this.

Sincerely,

Hare publishes "The Black Scholar"

Dr. Nathan Hare, chairman of the black studies program at San Francisco State College and a speaker at last week's conference, has just announced publication of the journal "The Black Scholar," an all-black journal devoted to the discussion of black problems.

The first issue of the magazine is already on the stands in many black communities and is being sold for 25 cents a copy.

"The magazine will be a forum for the black voice," Hare said. "We want to make it a place where black writers can express their thoughts and feelings about the black experience."

The magazine will be published monthly and will cover a wide range of topics, including politics, economics, culture, and history.

The first issue includes articles on the black experience in America, the black family, and the black community. It also features a column by a prominent black author.

Hare hopes that "The Black Scholar" will become a leading voice for the black community and a resource for black students and scholars.

Canadian students protest U.S. blast

Canada -- Canadian students and faculty members at black universities and airport terminals across the country are demanding an end to the United States' military operations.

The students are protesting the U.S. military operation in the southern part of the country, where they say it is causing destruction and suffering.

They are also calling for the United States to withdraw its military forces from the area.

In Montreal, Quebec, a group of black students and faculty members held a rally in support of their Canadian counterparts and called for an end to the U.S. military operation.

In Toronto, Ontario, a group of black students and faculty members held a protest march to the U.S. embassy in support of their Canadian counterparts.

The students are demanding an end to the U.S. military operation and are calling for the United States to withdraw its military forces from the area.

The students are also calling for the United States to apologize for the damage caused by the U.S. military operation.

ROTC enrollment down on campus

At Stanford University, ROTC enrollment is down by 20 percent. Part of the reason for this is that many new students have stopped enrolling in ROTC to take the military training part of the ROTC program.

Stanford University officials say that the drop in ROTC enrollment is due to the fact that the ROTC program is no longer seen as a necessary part of the college experience.

"It's not that students don't want to serve in the military," said Stanford University spokesman. "It's just that they don't see it as a necessary part of their college experience."

The drop in ROTC enrollment has been seen across the country, with many colleges and universities reporting a drop in ROTC enrollment.

Pass-fail option clarified

To supplement the information in the 1969 catalog relating to the pass-fail option (IAP in page 95), the following clarification is inserted for the benefit of students and faculty members:

CLASSIFICATION OF PASS-FAIL OPTION

1. Grades: Grades under the pass-fail option are reported in the same manner as grades in courses taken at regular rank. The grades are listed as "P" or "F". A "P" grade indicates that the student has passed the course; a "F" grade indicates that the student has failed the course.

2. Excluded From the Pass-Fail Option:

-熙 (Eng. Hlth., English Composition.
- Preparatory courses.
- Interdisciplinary subjects.
- Independent reading, research, or seminar work.
- Some courses that are listed under "option, etc."
- The College of Forestry, Wildlife, and Range Science.

Other courses specifically required in the student's curricula. This group includes courses specified by title or number in the major program of studies as printed in the catalog. (For example, the requirements in the College of Letters and Science include the criteria specified in the catalog. For the student's major, the courses are interpreted as being on the "major field" and may not be taken for the pass-fail option.)

3. Functions:

- Courses taken to fulfill the College of the Humanities curriculum requirements and major requirements.
- Classes in the College of Letters and Science.
- Graduates and upperclassmen, full-time.

4. Professional Courses For Tucker Fellows

5. Students who plan to work for the Master's degree with a thesis.

6. Business and Economic Students

Traditional pajama parade Monday,

Girls living groups making out

By Doria Desler

In traditions and planning, the spirit will again head the Pajama Parade in the fall. The parade, sponsored by the Student Council, will be held on October 14.

All the freshmen's women's living groups are participating in the parade with each group wearing matching groupings. The girls will don the group settings, make their own group settings, and will then parade through the parade route.

The action will begin at 9:30 p.m. sharp. Pajama groups will not be permitted to enter the parade route without being announced. The parade will not be delayed in any way so the groups will be in the order in which the girls from each group originally planned.

This event is sponsored by the Student Councils of the Theta and Epsilon Delta sororities.

Women discuss healthful living classes

A program sponsored by the Associated Women Student Council, concerning the importance of healthful living, was presented to the student-body last Thursday evening. Among the speakers were Miss Beth M. Brown, the Physical Education Department, and Miss Bonnie J. Curry, the English Language Department.

Bonnie J. Curry, a member of the English Language Department, discussed the importance of healthful living. She talked about the connection between the body and the soul, and the importance of healthful living.

Dr. Tovey, a member of the University Department of Health and Physical Education, discussed the importance of healthful living. She talked about the connection between the body and the soul, and the importance of healthful living.

Pips Akaa will hold their pledge dance tomorrow evening at the Student Union. The dance will be held in the Great Room in the Student Union.

"We must prepare future students for the healthful living in coming to college and already exist in much of the campus life," said Dr. Tovey.

Las Vegas Days events scheduled for tonight in SUB Ballroom

"Gambling, hot, and girls, will be the prime attractions in the EHS Ballroom when a gigantic Delta event, aptly named the "Delta Film," is to start tonight. The entire campus will be utilize for this occasion, and the entire student body will be utilized to assist with the activities."

The event, which will take place in the SUB Ballroom, is expected to attract a large crowd of students and faculty members. The event will feature a variety of activities, including a film screening, a dance, and a social gathering. The film screening will be followed by a dance, where students can relax and enjoy each other's company.

At 8 p.m., the film screening will begin, and the dance will follow at 9 p.m. The event will continue until 2 a.m., providing ample time for students to participate in various activities. The event is open to all students, and admission is free.

The event is sponsored by the Delta Club, a student organization that promotes social and cultural activities on campus.

Pakistan students elect new president

A Mazmoon Sheikh, a Ph. D. student in geology, was elected president of the Pakistan Students Association during its first meeting of the year.

Sheikh will work closely with the Pakistan Student Council, a new body formed to address the concerns of Pakistan students. The council will work to improve the living conditions and educational opportunities for Pakistan students.

The election of a new president is an important milestone for the Pakistan Students Association, which aims to represent the interests of Pakistani students.

FFA plans barbeque, discuss fall projects

University of Idaho FFA members gathered at the meeting of the year on Oct. 31, where they discussed fall projects and plans for the upcoming academic year.

The meeting was attended by members from various chapters across the state, and discussions centered around project planning and leadership development.

The club also plans to host a fall barbeque at a later date, which will provide an opportunity for members to socialize and enjoy a meal together.

Study abroad? All right!

The University of Idaho's study abroad program is one of the most popular programs offered by the university, providing students with a unique opportunity to explore different cultures and gain valuable experiences.

Other states also offer similar programs, and students interested in studying abroad should contact their respective universities and explore the options available.

"Summertree", a recent Broadway hit by 14-year-old author Ron Cowen, and made into a motion picture by the Northwest Repertory Theatre, opens Thursday, May 24, in 800 theatres coast to coast throughout the United States.

Directed by Drama professor Thomas Cowen, the production will play tonight and tomorrow, and then again May 31. Friyday and Saturday during the Tournament of Thailand weekend.

After being scheduled to play last spring and then cancelled, this cast and director team for the last performance.

Coll in the lead as "The Young Man" is JFANIF, a former repertory player at the University.

The play is a realistic "American" that the play centers, as it is used, between the problems and problems of a relation.

Ron Cowen has written more into the play than just an individual's problems.

Regarding the pressures and complexities of the generation as it faces a crisis in transition, Cowen avoided directing a conventional "protest" play.

He has also used as pattern the conflict between middle-class values of production and society, and his own desires for the release of a career as a social "protest" — a young man is destined to a bitter fate as a result of the conflict.

The play is a series of occasions, some brief and present, in the play may be to puzzle the life together and be "American" in the "American" when he is at the same time an assurance that the play's "American" is at the same time a "poetic" portrayal of the conflict.

Facing up Jim Cash in the role of the young man as a struggle for the kind of story he wants is JFANIF in the role of the father who is filled with paternal love but stifled because his son is too old.

Before Cash is the boy's lover, the poet's father and Cash's mother. Cash is the son of his childhood and middle pueblo.
