Give Your Life?

A Mississippi State Pensions widow, a student before winning him to a football game at Mississippi. All meals are searched for alcohol before they admitted 123 students. A published standard is conditioned and described. Does Minist work thousand of students?

On September 27, 1968, four University of Idaho students were returning from the Idaho-Idaho football game at Pullman when their Volkswagen collided of control and身亡, killing the driver and three passengers. At a result of the accident three of the students were killed and one was seriously injured. The driver died the next day at Deaconess Hospital in Spokane.

The Idaho State Penitentiary was visited by the accident that many empty bottles were found scattered about the scene, and that the passengers had admitted that all had been drinking. All four of the students were of legal age to posion and consume alcohol. The question was not of finding the laws of responsible use of a privilege.

As the game there were many instances of heavy drinking, not all involved students. The University of Minist at Idaho has already solved the problem of drinking at football games. As the picture above, shows, some students search houses and bars that enter the game. No police measures are taken to identify the students, the matter is a problem and not solved. It is recommended that the University of Minist at Idaho give the same treatment to Pullman for the Idaho-Montana State game.

Will suffer another tragedy by inability? Perhaps tomorrow.

The person who drives to Pullman and drives for two sold miles, takes his attention on his driving home is not into himself or the other in his car, but becomes a hurry to get home and get on the road.

Every student who drives to the game tomorrow should not drink. If the person who are with their friends on game, try to persuade him to let someone else drive. If with friends, he can take a ride with a couple of friends in Pullman for a ride was better than finding death drinking with a drunk.

The R.D.I. is providing this bare sorry for all students. Should some students take advantage of this ride, I will have to worry about the safety, the ride will get you home safely.

I don't deserve to be to know of drinking problem. A student should not have to face its consequences not to be stable, not to have trouble from this game. If they will be coming, I am sure we will see a few students will be the only ones who will give their lives to someone

Watts files defense against Orwick's complaint

Robert Watts is acting as attorney for Judge Donald L. Orwick of the Board of Regents for the University of Idaho, who is seeking a divorce from his wife, Eileen.

In a defense filed in June, Judge Orwick charged that Watts had "repeatedly, willfully, and in bad faith, sought to prejudice the Board in its official capacities."

Watts has filed a counter-complaint against Orwick, alleging that the judge's behavior is causing the university to lose money and that the judge is not being fair in the divorce action.

The judge has until September 15 to respond to the counter-complaint.

Dean of College of Education is elected to national office

Dr. Everett V. Samelson, dean of the University of Idaho College of Education, has been elected president of the National Association of College of Education.

This is the first time in the college's history that an Idahoan has been elected to such a position.

Samelson has been a faculty member at the university for 25 years and has served as dean of the College of Education for 10 years.

Final ‘Summertree’ performances tonight, tomorrow in auditorium

Talks were still available. Yes, tickets for the final two performances of the 1967 production of 'Summertree', are still available at the gift shop in the auditorium, for the cost of $4 each - to students.

The final two, tonight and tomorrow at 7:30 in the auditorium, will climax six weeks of intermittent and two previous performances.

The show was scheduled for the two nights to give the audience an opportunity to see the production, as well as enjoy the sumptuousness of the costumes and sets created by the Costume Department with the direction of Mr. Cleon Fussman.

The first performance, the opening night, was bought out three weeks in advance.

The play, written by Peter Geis, center of the musical comedy and drama at New York University, is a musical that makes a wide appeal, according to the costume director, Mr. Fussman.

The author of the play is known as a musical genius and is often turned to for musicals of high quality and wearability. The play is a musical comedy that has a large-scale production value.

Tonight's performance is the first of a two-week run that will be given to the actors, as well as the audience, to enjoy the play in a more relaxed setting.

Professor A. E. Bowls, Director of the College of Fine Arts, will give the introduction to the show.

Jim Cash, who plays the role of the young man in the show, leads the audience in a song on the right before he leaves the stage.

'Summertree' will play its final two performances tonight and tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium.

Vandal fight song has unique history

Few universities or colleges can lay claim to the fact that their fight song was originally composed for their specific school. But Idaho University of Idaho can make such a boast with its spirited fight song, "Go, Vandals!"

"Go, Vandals!" was first heard on the 1792 campus of the University of Washington. In the 1930s, during the era of the 19th-century football game, Vandals' music was an integral part of the game's atmosphere. The song was composed by Mr. J. D. O'Donnell, a prominent journalist, and quickly spread across the country.

The song has since become an integral part of Idaho University's culture and traditions. It is performed at sporting events, school dances, and other events throughout the year. The song's lyrics encourage the university's students to support their team and to never give up, even in the face of adversity.

The song's melody and lyrics have remained unchanged over the years, and they continue to inspire and excite Idaho University students and alumni.

The song's popularity has made it a part of Idaho University's identity, and it is a symbol of the school's spirit and pride. The song is a testament to the school's rich history and its commitment to excellence in education and athletics.
