The Regents listen

An amazing thing happened last week.

At the Board of Regents meeting last Friday, Dr. John E. Wood, Chairman of the Board of Regents, proposed a bill to provide approximately $70,000 to complete the golf course on the University's campus by extending the existing student fee of 50 cents per semester.

The $70,000 will be used to do certain grading and drainage work to permit the course to open to the public. Dr. Wood, in his proposal, offered the warning that the entire student fee of 50 cents per semester would be insufficient to provide funds for the whole project.

But at the Regents meeting the Business Office presented a bill of $7,226 for paper, which Dr. Wood believed was excessive.

As the result of the Regents' decision, the student fee was increased by 25 cents, making the total fee 75 cents per semester.

The Regents are to be commended for their decision. It is hoped that the student fee will be sufficient to provide funds for the completion of the golf course.

Sincerely,

The University of Idaho Vandals fans may wonder what the fans did that week. They went to Pullman, Wash., a week before the尝试 corresponding to our current college. The weather was as usual, the crowd was as usual, but only 3,510 fans showed up to watch the game. The game, which was a repeat of the previous year's meeting, was played in front of a sold-out crowd at the Memorial Stadium in Pullman.

Among the notable features of the game were the defensive performance of the Vandals, who shut out the Cougars 34-0. The Vandals were led by the outstanding performance of quarterback Ron Benbow, who threw for 307 yards and two touchdowns. The defense of the Vandals was also impressive, limiting the Cougars to just 130 yards of total offense. The game was a complete domination by the Vandals, who outplayed the Cougars in every aspect of the game.

The victory brought the Vandals' record to 5-2 for the season, and they were now tied with Oregon State for the lead in the Pacific Northwest Conference. The win was a confidence booster for the Vandals, who were looking to build on their success in the upcoming games. The Vandals were scheduled to face off against Washington State in their next game, and they were looking forward to the challenge.

In other news, the Idaho State University football team was preparing for their upcoming game against the University of Montana. The game was scheduled for the following weekend, and the Vandals were looking forward to the opportunity to face a tough opponent.

Overall, it was a strong showing for the Vandals, who continued to impress with their solid defense and strong offensive performance. The win brought a sense of optimism for the Vandals, who were looking to build on their success and continue their winning streak.
Urban problems conference scheduled on Idaho campus November 13 and 14

A day-long conference exploring "New and Workable Solutions to Urban Problems" will be held on the University of Idaho campus on Nov. 13 and 14. The affliliate of the American Political Science Association, the Idaho Political Science Association, and the University of Idaho have joined with the American Political Science Association and American Society for Public Administration in planning the conference. The keynote speaker will be Dr. Charles O. Jones, an urban affairs specialist for the State Department of Michigan and a former professor at the University of Michigan. Jones is expected to speak at 9 a.m. on the main campus in the Idaho Union Building.

Folktale and law: Dr. Elmer L. Lean, professor of law and director of the Idaho University's Public Service Center, will be represented at the conference. Lean is expected to speak at 11 a.m. on the main campus in the Idaho Union Building.

A social event for conference participants will be held Wednesday, Nov. 9, at 7 p.m. in the University Union Dining Room.

Glen Yarbrough to appear in concert November eighth

Glen Yarbrough, popular singing star known to many as "the voice of the young in love" will appear in concert on the University of Idaho campus at 8:30 p.m. on Monday, Nov. 13.

Glen Yarbrough is one of the most popular entertainers on the current scene. His popularity stems from his ability to relate to the young audience and his ability to perform in a wide range of musical styles. He has a unique voice that is both powerful and emotive, and his performances are always filled with energy and passion.

Yarbrough's music is characterized by its melodic qualities and its ability to convey deep emotions. His songs often deal with themes of love, heartbreak, and the struggles of everyday life. His voice is rich and expressive, and he has a great range of emotional shading, which allows him to convey a wide range of emotions in his performances.

The concert will be held in the Idaho Union Building, and tickets are available at the box office for $5 per person.
