Freshman hours move to Regents for approval

The proposal on file for freshman hours is one in a series of changes under consideration by the Board of Regents. The proposal was approved Monday by the Board of Trustees of Idaho's State Colleges and universities. The proposal will be reviewed by the Board of Regents at its next meeting on February 5.

Walker said the hours could be granted to certain groups of students, such as those with disabilities, economically disadvantaged students, or those who have limited access to transportation. Walker added that the hours would be similar to those granted to nontraditional students, such as those who have been out of the workforce for a while or those who have been homeschooled.

 pleasing Walker, who has served as the president of the University of Idaho for five years, said the proposal was developed in collaboration with faculty and students, as well as with representatives from other universities.

The proposal will now be reviewed by the Board of Regents, which will make a final decision on whether or not to approve the changes.

Mining industry representative explains White Cloud policy

One of the key issues facing the mining industry today is the impact of environmental regulations and policies on mining operations. This week, a representative from a major mining company spoke at the Idaho State University about the challenges they face in complying with these regulations.

"Our operations in White Cloud are impacted by a variety of factors," the representative said. "We are committed to minimizing our impact on the environment while maximizing our production levels."

The representative discussed the latest trends in mining technology and the challenges faced by companies trying to comply with environmental regulations.

Work-study funds approved by federal education office

The federal government has approved funds for work-study programs at Idaho State University. The funds will be used to provide opportunities for students to gain work experience and earn money while they are attending school.

"We are excited to be able to provide these opportunities for our students," said the representative from the federal education office. "These funds will help us to provide more opportunities for students to gain valuable work experience while they are attending school."

The funds will be used to support work-study programs at the university, which will allow students to gain work experience in a variety of fields.

University of Idaho students will greatly benefit from these funds," the representative said. "These funds will allow us to provide more opportunities for students to gain work experience while they are attending school."

The program is designed to provide students with valuable work experience while they are attending school, and to help them to gain the skills and knowledge they need to succeed in their future careers.

The world of student journalism is a diverse and multifaceted one, with countless stories and experiences to tell. From the challenges of academic pressure to the camaraderie of student life, every story is unique and contributes to the rich tapestry of student journalism. Here are some highlights from a recent issue of our university's student newspaper:

Missions in scholarships go begging

NEW YORK, N. Y. - With Federal funds being cut to entails and hundreds of thousands of dollars to schools, numerous college students are wondering where to turn for help in meeting their educational expenses.

There is no one answer to be found in knowing where to look - and it can help, in some instances, if a student has participated in research, to contact his professor, who can usually provide a wealth of information. In many cases, it will be necessary to look for additional sources of funds.

Other college scholarships are awarded for academic excellence. These often go to students who have participated in training programs in areas where there is a need to fill a career in the field of work and who have participated in preparing for missionary work. These scholarships are often in the form of a stipend or a grant, and the student is responsible for paying all other costs as well.

In the end, the total cost of college can be overwhelming, and it is important to seek out all possible sources of financial aid. This can include scholarships, grants, loans, and part-time jobs. By taking a proactive approach to financial planning, students can be better prepared to meet the challenges of college and beyond.

SUB game room offers much for recreation

The game room, which is a self-supporting organization that opened in the present time, the game room has twelve tables, two number tables, two canoe-meadow tables, two number tables, three canoemen tables, and several pin ball machines in the direction of Pete Wallenberg Building. Various organizations affiliated with the game room include: a bowling league, billiards tournament, bridge tournament, and CHECKMATE. These organizations and tournaments are selected on a competitive basis, and it is believed that some of leagues and tournaments will be open to the public for the coming year.

Subway Game Room also has outside activities, including walking tours of the campus, meetings, and various other events. The various groups interested in participating in these activities are:

- Bowling League: The bowling league is open to anyone interested in participating. The league meets on Fridays at 7:30 p.m. in the Subways Game Room. The league is divided into two divisions, and the winners of each division are awarded prizes.
- Billiards Tournament: The billiards tournament is open to anyone interested in participating. The tournament is held on Saturdays at 10 a.m. in the Subways Game Room. The tournament is divided into two divisions, and the winners of each division are awarded prizes.
- Bridge Tournament: The bridge tournament is open to anyone interested in participating. The tournament is held on Sundays at 2 p.m. in the Subways Game Room. The tournament is divided into two divisions, and the winners of each division are awarded prizes.
- Checkmate: Checkmate is a game played in the Subways Game Room on Mondays and Wednesdays at 7 p.m. The game is open to anyone interested in participating. The winner of the game is awarded a prize.

Students named Gonzaga regents

Gonzaga University Tuesday announced appointments of three faculty members and three students to serve in two-year terms as regents of the university, effective immediately.

The appointments are in line with a recent decision by Gonzaga officials to develop a broader cross section of student regents among register members of the Board of Regents. The new slate of appointees will take their seat at the next meeting of the regents in December. Gonzaga officials are urging students to consider serving on the Board of Regents.

The new handicaps to the selections, however, are the appointment of a student and faculty to student a year and the appointment of a faculty member to the student board.

Highlights of "Messiah" scheduled for Dec. 14

The Proellerian Church Choir, assisted by both the University and Idaho Singers, will present two live performances of Handel's Messiah on December 14th in part of the Christmas Church celebration.

The public is invited to attend both of the special services at 9 and 11. Special guest speakers, Mrs. Gurney, will speak on "The Messiah as a Symbol of the Church."

U-I coed chosen Idaho's Miss Wool 1970 in Boise

Cathy Clemens, Kansas, has been selected to represent Idaho in the Miss Wool 1970 competition. She is currently a student at the University of Idaho.

The contest, held by the National Wool Producers and Idaho Wool Growers, was won by Cathy Clemens, a University of Idaho student. She was selected from a field of 10 contestants, all of whom were students at Idaho State University, Boise State University, and the University of Idaho.

The contest was held on December 11, 1969, and the winner was announced on December 12, 1969.

Mountaineers establish agenda for spring

The Mountaineer Student Council plans to meet Tuesday night at the SUB to establish their agenda for the spring semester. The meeting will be held on December 14, 1969, at 7:30 p.m. The meeting will be open to the public and will be held in the SUB.

The meeting will be held on Tuesday, December 14, 1969, and will be attended by all interested students. The meeting will be held in the SUB and will be held in the SUB.

WASHINGTON IN SEASON OPENER

The University of Washington opened up its basketball season with a convincing 105-88 victory over the Idaho Vandal.

It was the only exhibition game that has broken the 100 barrier for the Huskies, who were victorious in the first two games in the state of Washington.

The Huskies led 51-35 at the half and by 72-50 at the end of the third quarter.

The Vandal fans who did not start in the game made up the majority of the crowd that filled the main arena of the university's fieldhouse.

The Huskies were led by forward Mark Webber who scored 22 points, including 12 in the first half.

Webber was a key player for the Huskies in their 60-38 victory over the Idaho Vandal.

As for the Idaho Vandal, they were led by forward John Miller who scored 16 points, including 10 in the first half.

Summer Job Opportunities Needed

Washington, D.C. — How is the time to apply for possible summer jobs? But before the end of the summer, Senior Sean Church reported this week.

The 16th Senior spent interested young people to make it known to take the required Civil Service examination. "We have to apply," Church said, "so that the summer jobs will be available on the basis of the competition examination. And again this year, for applications for summer "color" summer jobs will be open on the Federal Government will be considered about the students have taken the Civil Service test.

If an application review is required of those on the summer "color" application, it will be required to write the test to be considered for summer jobs. However, to improve on matter, it is possible to have the test again. The examination will be given on those dates, with attorney qualifications for the final examination set by the test.

Senior Sean Church is going to study immediately after the first exam. Church suggested all interested to sign up as possible for the early deadline.

"We think of 120,000 people eligible for approximately 22,000 temporary positions. There will probably be even more applications.

By Jane Anderson

Last week, the National Selective Service Board dropped the civil service examination. People who have the license have to sign up. Besides the license, people have to sign up to get a license. The names of the applicants will be posted on the college's website.

The people classified as least wanted are the following:

1. People who have served in the military (service in the military)
2. People who have served in the reserves (reserves)
3. People who have served in the reserves (reserves)
4. People who have served in the reserves (reserves)

Morality play opening slated for tonight

"Everyone," an all English morality play, is being performed by Fahs students in conjunction with the Campus Christian Center and the Barnes Budske Coffee House. The play will be given tonight and tomorrow night at 7 p.m. in the Barnes Buds, located in the basement of the Center. Student tickets will be sold at the door.

"A play of comedy, "Everyone," presented by the 13th century and present generation of English performers, is based on the rather light and sentimental religion of the time. The production is a humorous and satirical one. The theme of the play is that if you do not want to die, you must do good.

"Everyone" will be presented in an original English version of the 13th century. The costumes will be of the time. It is expected to be a night of entertainment and wit.

Viewers are encouraged to come and enjoy this unique performance.

"Sorry, but I don't believe people are so shallow as to be led by a single incident," Garth says. "I'm a realist. It's not something you hear every day."

"I don't believe that, says Steve Evans, manager of the club. "For some people, it's not something they hear every day."

"But I don't believe in the lottery," says Steve Evans, manager of the club. "For some people, it's not something they hear every day.

The new plan is designed to help people get their money back and stop people from buying lottery tickets.

The drawing will be on the Airplane Seat of the Wyoming Free Press.

Three crime prevention clinics set for Thursday, to focus on, bad check writing, skipping work, bad check writing, skipping work, and bad check writing, skipping work.

On Thursday, three crime prevention clinics will be held. The first will be held at the Campus Christian Center, the second at the Barnes Budske Coffee House, and the third at the Campus Christian Center. All clinics will be held on Thursday, so all the other centers and employers will have a chance to attend.

Two order forms will be available on the first of the month, one each, one at the Wray Drug Store, one at the Wray Drug Store. These clinics will be held on Thursday.
