How far is down?

by Dan Davis

Every day we hear the same old complaint of not having enough money; we are not earning enough to make ends meet, and that we are 'living paycheck to paycheck,' etc. But do we really have a right to complain? Have we not been given all the tools necessary to obtain our share of the American Dream?

First of all, we need to understand that we are probably not earning enough money, simply because the jobs that are available don't pay enough. But they are there to be had.

Our leaders need to be reminded that this country is losing its morality, our values, our dignity, and we are experiencing a moral decay.

The government needs to take action to restore morality to our society. And it needs to do it now.

Two Idaho staff members return from conference

Two University of Idaho staff members returned this week from a three-day conference at the White House where the problems of hunger and malnutrition in the United States were discussed.

All participants said the meeting was productive. The delegates broke into small groups to discuss the problems of hunger and malnutrition. Mrs. Wise's group explored the problem of how to produce enough food that could be raised which would appeal to equal groups.

In particular, her group examined the areas of food and energy. She worked closely with Marla Johnson and other group members.

Mrs. Wise's notice discusses ways of improving nutrition education.

All aliens must report addresses

All aliens in the United States, except a few diplomats and accredited members of international organizations, must register with the government each year.

Some forms are available at any post office or office of the United States Immigration Service. They may be filled out in these offices or retrieved from the post offices. Fill out and mail the forms immediately.

If you or any members of your family are not citizens of the United States, you should tell your parents of those addresses relationships who are friends who are not citizens, you will do a good service by telling them of the importance of registering in this way. It is the law. It is the law.

The Cougars' victory was a result of their hard work and dedication. Their teamwork and strategy allowed them to overcome the Vandals and secure their win. The Cougars will be looking to continue their winning streak and prepare for their next game.
Idaho’s IFC president named to national Board

Idaho’s Interfraternity Council President James W. McFadden was recently named to one of three undergraduates on the National Interfraternity Conference Board of Directors.

In a meeting held Dec. 4 in Chicago, Ill., McFadden was named to the Board of Directors by a national steering committee of fraternity and sorority leaders representing the nation’s three national fraternal organizations. The national board meets twice a year and in between, is involved in setting up national standards, with the professional Interfraternity Council, currently working to bring all agencies to a uniform level.

The Interfraternity Council exists at each of the four-year universities and consists of all students enrolled. Each council is connected with the national organization, McGimsey said.

McFadden, a junior journalism major at Idaho, is a member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity. He has served as editor of Idaho’s IFC newsletter, THE ORACLE, and has held various other offices within the organization.

The Interfraternity Council serves as a means of communication between local councils and the national organization, and is responsible for planning national council meetings.

McFadden reported the following resolutions at the December meeting:

Kappa benefits students

Mrs. Don Gardner of Coeur d’Alene was named to a national committee to study the possibility of Kappa benefits for students. The committee will be interested in hearing of students who have been cut. McFadden met with National Board in December to discuss the annual Kappa benefits program.

Kiddie Party set for Sunday

A Christmas party for the children of the faculty, staff, and students will be held Sunday at 3 p.m. in the SUB Ballroom, according to Mary Lou Smith, chairman of the Kiddie Christmas Party committee. Smith has been named to the panel of judges who will select the winners.

Tanta Smith, president and partner, will emcee the event. Smith has been named by the Department of Social Service as a unique gift.

As of Monday, December 15, all of the applicants for the two scholarships in the SUB will be announced on December 26.

The program will be announced on December 26.

Best Idea — Stephen R. Cook, a native of Idaho and a junior majoring in engineering, has submitted an idea for the new Student Center with the suggestion that, instead of the usual Christmas party, students could be given the opportunity to create their own gift ideas. Cook has been named a winner.

“I think the idea is good,” said McFadden. “I would not want to see the idea accepted as a final suggestion, but I think it is a good idea.”

The Idaho Center is considering the idea for next year.

Idaho hosts Seattle Pac.

Coach Wayne Anderson and the Idaho Vandals will play their 16th game in the first-round basketball tournament.

The Vandals will play host to Seattle Pacific University at 7 p.m. on Thursday, as they try to become the fourth straight team in the Northwest Conference to reach the NCAA Tournament.

The Vandals, led by senior guard Thomas Blaske, will be favored to beat the visiting Falcons, who are expected to be a more than dangerous opponent.

The game will be held at the University of Idaho's Kibbie Dome.

A Tip-off/Meet the Players event is scheduled for 6 p.m. on Thursday.

The Vandals are currently 16-9 overall and 7-7 in the conference, while the Falcons are 11-14 overall and 4-10 in the conference.

As I See It....

Football coach Vic Hafey, following a dismal 3-4 season, has been hit by much criticism and controversy from a number of officials and players during the past month.

The 34-year-old coach has been criticized for his inability to lead the Vandals to a winning season, for his coaching style, and for his treatment of the players.

However, Hafey has denied all charges and is standing by his team.

Despite the criticism, Hafey believes the Vandals have made progress during his tenure, and is optimistic about the future of the program.

The Vandals, who are currently 2-8 overall and 1-6 in the conference, are expected to face a tough challenge in their next game, against the Western Washington Vikings.

The game will be held at the University of Idaho's Kibbie Dome.
