Regents move on Orwick case, student fees, women's hours

University of Idaho Regents voted Friday to increase in-state student fees by 5 percent and nonresident tuition by 8 percent, effective fall of 1979. The fee increase was proposed last fall by the administration, and approved both by the audit of Office of Executive Board and the Faculty Council.

University of Idaho's, in constructing its case for reducing women's life hours, has been working to increase the number of women who have been granted admission to the University of Idaho. These admissions have been granted in an effort to increase the number of women who have been granted admission to the University of Idaho.

Financial vice president Dr. Howard Rehfeld said in a prepared statement that "the decision was made in order to increase the number of women who have been granted admission to the University of Idaho.

In November, the Board endorsed a proposal submitted by the administration to increase the number of women who have been granted admission to the University of Idaho. The Board's action was based on a recommendation from the audit of Office of Executive Board, which was based on a recommendation from the audit of Office of Executive Board.

The Board's action was based on a recommendation from the audit of Office of Executive Board, which was based on a recommendation from the audit of Office of Executive Board. The Board's action was based on a recommendation from the audit of Office of Executive Board, which was based on a recommendation from the audit of Office of Executive Board. The Board's action was based on a recommendation from the audit of Office of Executive Board, which was based on a recommendation from the audit of Office of Executive Board.
Editorial Opinion

What's Up...?

Second semester has begun, have you noticed yet? Perhaps you're in a rut or in the registration line, maybe you didn't. At any rate, if you're going to finally get to the bottom of how to avoid any academic disasters during the second semester, you had better pay attention to the activities of ASID during the past semester.

We're pleased to report that we've had only one fine this semester. In fact, we had a very light turnout for ASID meetings, but we know that people are busy and are working hard to keep up with their studies. However, we did have one fine in the last semester.

Other than that, we're pretty excited about the new semester. We're sure that everyone is looking forward to the challenges that lie ahead, and we're confident that everyone will do their part to ensure that our campus remains a safe and productive place for everyone.

Let's get started and see what the second semester has in store for us.

The Idaho Argonaut

The Idaho Argonaut

Volume 4

The Idaho Argonaut is published twice a week during the fall and spring semesters and once a week during the summer semesters by the Associated Students of Idaho State University. The Argonaut is independent of all university policies and is edited by students. The editors welcome letters to the editor.

The Idaho Argonaut does not officially represent the views of the University or any of its officers or employees. The views expressed in the Argonaut are those of the individuals who contribute them.

The Idaho Argonaut welcomes contributions from all students, faculty members, and staff members of the University. Submissions should be in the form of letters, articles, or columns.

The Idaho Argonaut reserves the right to edit submissions for length, clarity, and appropriateness. Submissions that are not related to the University or its activities will not be considered.

Please address all submissions to the Editor, The Argonaut, Idaho State University, Pocatello, ID 83209-8000.

For what it's worth

(Letters to the editor)

On YAF

Editor: the Tribune.

The last two issues of the Tribune contained some most disturbing information regarding the University of Idaho and YAF. YAF is a conservative student organization that was first established in the United States in 1960 to promote traditional values and to provide a forum for conservative ideas. The organization has a long history of controversy and has been involved in several issues, including the use of public funds to support student groups.

In the past, YAF has been associated with several controversial activities, such as banning gay rights groups, opposing affirmative action policies, and supporting policies that limit women's rights. In addition, YAF has been involved in several legal disputes, including a lawsuit filed by the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) in 1992 that challenged YAF's right to use public funds to support its activities.

Recently, YAF has been involved in a dispute with the University of Idaho over the use of public funds to support student groups. The University of Idaho has denied YAF's request to use public funds to support its activities, and YAF has filed a lawsuit challenging the University's decision.

The Tribune has reported that YAF is planning to bring in a speaker to discuss the battle against equal rights. The speaker is expected to discuss the importance of promoting traditional values, and the Tribune has reported that YAF is planning to use public funds to support its activities.

We believe that the Tribune's coverage of this issue is important, and we encourage readers to read the articles in order to gain a better understanding of the issues involved.

Kerrill Driskell

Editor

How press distortion can take place

The problem is, where are we going? Is it true that we are all going to live in a utopia, where people do not have to work anymore? Is it true that we are going to live in a world where everything is perfect and there are no problems? Is it true that we are going to live in a world where we can do anything we want?

The problem is, where are we going? Is it true that we are all going to live in a utopia, where people do not have to work anymore? Is it true that we are going to live in a world where everything is perfect and there are no problems? Is it true that we are going to live in a world where we can do anything we want?

The problem is, where are we going? Is it true that we are all going to live in a utopia, where people do not have to work anymore? Is it true that we are going to live in a world where everything is perfect and there are no problems? Is it true that we are going to live in a world where we can do anything we want?
Housing survey shows pros-cons

Because the average college student today live more than four years in his four years of residence, it is important to know what type of housing he has been using and what type he prefers.

The survey was done with 900 students, all men and all women. Of these, 570 replies were received, or about 65%, which was considered the best of the Student Affairs Office.

The data was collected in the following manner:

- The list of residence halls was obtained from the Student Affairs office.
- A questionnaire was designed and distributed to the students.
- The responses were collected and analyzed.

The data was then tabulated and presented in the form of tables and charts. The results were then interpreted and conclusions were drawn.

In conclusion, the survey showed that a majority of students preferred off-campus housing, mainly due to the lower cost and more freedom it offers. However, a significant number of students also preferred on-campus housing due to the convenience and security it provides.

The survey results can be used by university authorities to make informed decisions about housing policies and to better meet the needs of the students.

The survey was conducted on a large scale and the results are considered to be reliable. However, further research is needed to validate the findings and to explore other factors that may influence students' housing preferences.

We hope that this survey has provided valuable insights into the housing preferences of college students and that it will be useful to those who are responsible for making decisions about housing policies.

The Results . . .

1. The group who polled was adequately experienced in various living situations to make reliable.
2. The property of income being used for off-campus are:
3. The group who lived on-campus.
4. The group who lived off-campus.
5. The organization of living groups.
6. The results from campus activities and social life.
7. The traffic court will be in session.

The survey was conducted on a large scale and the results are considered to be reliable.

We hope that this survey has provided valuable insights into the housing preferences of college students and that it will be useful to those who are responsible for making decisions about housing policies.

The survey was conducted on a large scale and the results are considered to be reliable.

We hope that this survey has provided valuable insights into the housing preferences of college students and that it will be useful to those who are responsible for making decisions about housing policies.

The survey was conducted on a large scale and the results are considered to be reliable.

We hope that this survey has provided valuable insights into the housing preferences of college students and that it will be useful to those who are responsible for making decisions about housing policies.

The survey was conducted on a large scale and the results are considered to be reliable.

We hope that this survey has provided valuable insights into the housing preferences of college students and that it will be useful to those who are responsible for making decisions about housing policies.

The survey was conducted on a large scale and the results are considered to be reliable.

We hope that this survey has provided valuable insights into the housing preferences of college students and that it will be useful to those who are responsible for making decisions about housing policies.

The survey was conducted on a large scale and the results are considered to be reliable.

We hope that this survey has provided valuable insights into the housing preferences of college students and that it will be useful to those who are responsible for making decisions about housing policies.

The survey was conducted on a large scale and the results are considered to be reliable.

We hope that this survey has provided valuable insights into the housing preferences of college students and that it will be useful to those who are responsible for making decisions about housing policies.

The survey was conducted on a large scale and the results are considered to be reliable.

We hope that this survey has provided valuable insights into the housing preferences of college students and that it will be useful to those who are responsible for making decisions about housing policies.

The survey was conducted on a large scale and the results are considered to be reliable.

We hope that this survey has provided valuable insights into the housing preferences of college students and that it will be useful to those who are responsible for making decisions about housing policies.

The survey was conducted on a large scale and the results are considered to be reliable.

We hope that this survey has provided valuable insights into the housing preferences of college students and that it will be useful to those who are responsible for making decisions about housing policies.

The survey was conducted on a large scale and the results are considered to be reliable.

We hope that this survey has provided valuable insights into the housing preferences of college students and that it will be useful to those who are responsible for making decisions about housing policies.

The survey was conducted on a large scale and the results are considered to be reliable.

We hope that this survey has provided valuable insights into the housing preferences of college students and that it will be useful to those who are responsible for making decisions about housing policies.

The survey was conducted on a large scale and the results are considered to be reliable.

We hope that this survey has provided valuable insights into the housing preferences of college students and that it will be useful to those who are responsible for making decisions about housing policies.

The survey was conducted on a large scale and the results are considered to be reliable.

We hope that this survey has provided valuable insights into the housing preferences of college students and that it will be useful to those who are responsible for making decisions about housing policies.

The survey was conducted on a large scale and the results are considered to be reliable.

We hope that this survey has provided valuable insights into the housing preferences of college students and that it will be useful to those who are responsible for making decisions about housing policies.

The survey was conducted on a large scale and the results are considered to be reliable.

We hope that this survey has provided valuable insights into the housing preferences of college students and that it will be useful to those who are responsible for making decisions about housing policies.

The survey was conducted on a large scale and the results are considered to be reliable.

We hope that this survey has provided valuable insights into the housing preferences of college students and that it will be useful to those who are responsible for making decisions about housing policies.

The survey was conducted on a large scale and the results are considered to be reliable.

We hope that this survey has provided valuable insights into the housing preferences of college students and that it will be useful to those who are responsible for making decisions about housing policies.

The survey was conducted on a large scale and the results are considered to be reliable.

We hope that this survey has provided valuable insights into the housing preferences of college students and that it will be useful to those who are responsible for making decisions about housing policies.

The survey was conducted on a large scale and the results are considered to be reliable.

We hope that this survey has provided valuable insights into the housing preferences of college students and that it will be useful to those who are responsible for making decisions about housing policies.

The survey was conducted on a large scale and the results are considered to be reliable.

We hope that this survey has provided valuable insights into the housing preferences of college students and that it will be useful to those who are responsible for making decisions about housing policies.

The survey was conducted on a large scale and the results are considered to be reliable.

We hope that this survey has provided valuable insights into the housing preferences of college students and that it will be useful to those who are responsible for making decisions about housing policies.

The survey was conducted on a large scale and the results are considered to be reliable.

We hope that this survey has provided valuable insights into the housing preferences of college students and that it will be useful to those who are responsible for making decisions about housing policies.

The survey was conducted on a large scale and the results are considered to be reliable.

We hope that this survey has provided valuable insights into the housing preferences of college students and that it will be useful to those who are responsible for making decisions about housing policies.

The survey was conducted on a large scale and the results are considered to be reliable.

We hope that this survey has provided valuable insights into the housing preferences of college students and that it will be useful to those who are responsible for making decisions about housing policies.

The survey was conducted on a large scale and the results are considered to be reliable.

We hope that this survey has provided valuable insights into the housing preferences of college students and that it will be useful to those who are responsible for making decisions about housing policies.

The survey was conducted on a large scale and the results are considered to be reliable.

We hope that this survey has provided valuable insights into the housing preferences of college students and that it will be useful to those who are responsible for making decisions about housing policies.

The survey was conducted on a large scale and the results are considered to be reliable.
$1.25 million Women's Gym open for classes this semester

By Laura Lutton

Approximately 120 women utilized Optional education classes in the new gym which opened in September. Following the gym dedication, Laura Fath, chairman of Women's P.E., The new gymnasium provides visitors with a pair of windows which may be opened for ventilation purposes. P.E. classes involve aerobics and conditioning. Dr. Fath and Dr. John Niehls, chairman of the Physical Education Department, were on hand to comment on the new building.

The two-story building features a main entrance with two stairways. The second floor features a class room with a stage and a new studio. The first floor has two class rooms and a new studio.

The gymnasium includes a large area for aerobic exercises, a large area for basketball, and a small area for equipment.

The gymnasium is located in the center of the campus.

The gymnasium is used by the women's basketball team, the women's volleyball team, and the women's tennis team.

Mrs. Margaret McCallin Moore, one of the oldest former graduates of Idaho State College is a member of the board of directors of the Women's Auxiliary to boomer panels chairman for the Periodontal Alumni Fund Campaign.

Mrs. Moore, a former class of 1936, returned home three years ago. With their Phoenix, Ariz., a former panel chairman, Mrs. Moore, who taught in the Phoenix area, graduated from the university for St. John, the University of Arizona.

Mrs. Moore, then Margaret McCallin, served as the first president of women students who graduated at the University of Idaho on the morning of October 1, 1905, when Idaho first opened its doors.

Mrs. Moore was presented with a memorial certificate for her services in the adoption of the university's and program's.

Vandall Mountain and Mount St. Helens.

Role of news management discussed by ICEP panel

The role of news management in a democratic society was the theme of a session panel discussion last Thursday afternoon in the D.E. The Idaho State College for Education in Public Administration (ICEP) panel was presented by the State Department of Education.

Professor Richard D. Hoff, director of the Office of the Secretary of Education, spoke to the panelists about the role of the news media in democratic society.

The panelists discussed the role of the news media in democratic society.

The role of news management in a democratic society was the theme of a session panel discussion last Thursday afternoon in the D.E. The Idaho State College for Education in Public Administration (ICEP) panel was presented by the State Department of Education.

Professor Richard D. Hoff, director of the Office of the Secretary of Education, spoke to the panelists about the role of the news media in democratic society.

The panelists discussed the role of the news media in democratic society.

The role of news management in a democratic society was the theme of a session panel discussion last Thursday afternoon in the D.E. The Idaho State College for Education in Public Administration (ICEP) panel was presented by the State Department of Education.

Professor Richard D. Hoff, director of the Office of the Secretary of Education, spoke to the panelists about the role of the news media in democratic society.

The panelists discussed the role of the news media in democratic society.

The role of news management in a democratic society was the theme of a session panel discussion last Thursday afternoon in the D.E. The Idaho State College for Education in Public Administration (ICEP) panel was presented by the State Department of Education.

Professor Richard D. Hoff, director of the Office of the Secretary of Education, spoke to the panelists about the role of the news media in democratic society.

The panelists discussed the role of the news media in democratic society.

The role of news management in a democratic society was the theme of a session panel discussion last Thursday afternoon in the D.E. The Idaho State College for Education in Public Administration (ICEP) panel was presented by the State Department of Education.

Professor Richard D. Hoff, director of the Office of the Secretary of Education, spoke to the panelists about the role of the news media in democratic society.

The panelists discussed the role of the news media in democratic society.

The role of news management in a democratic society was the theme of a session panel discussion last Thursday afternoon in the D.E. The Idaho State College for Education in Public Administration (ICEP) panel was presented by the State Department of Education.

Professor Richard D. Hoff, director of the Office of the Secretary of Education, spoke to the panelists about the role of the news media in democratic society.

The panelists discussed the role of the news media in democratic society.

The role of news management in a democratic society was the theme of a session panel discussion last Thursday afternoon in the D.E. The Idaho State College for Education in Public Administration (ICEP) panel was presented by the State Department of Education.

Professor Richard D. Hoff, director of the Office of the Secretary of Education, spoke to the panelists about the role of the news media in democratic society.

The panelists discussed the role of the news media in democratic society.

The role of news management in a democratic society was the theme of a session panel discussion last Thursday afternoon in the D.E. The Idaho State College for Education in Public Administration (ICEP) panel was presented by the State Department of Education.

Professor Richard D. Hoff, director of the Office of the Secretary of Education, spoke to the panelists about the role of the news media in democratic society.

The panelists discussed the role of the news media in democratic society.

The role of news management in a democratic society was the theme of a session panel discussion last Thursday afternoon in the D.E. The Idaho State College for Education in Public Administration (ICEP) panel was presented by the State Department of Education.

Professor Richard D. Hoff, director of the Office of the Secretary of Education, spoke to the panelists about the role of the news media in democratic society.

The panelists discussed the role of the news media in democratic society.
University swimming group to hold tryouts

Boise State, a University swimming group, will hold tryouts for the 1970-71 team Thursday at 3 p.m. There will be a practice session to help determine the line-up. The tryouts will be held Wednesday evening in the new 2,800-seat Ford Field.

The swimmers will be required to swim three different strokes to show their best form. They will also be required to perform a series of four strokes, thus their stamina against the water can be judged.

Boise State swimmers are all students who are encouraged to try out for the team. The Boise State swimming program is an open one and is doing well in attracting the young boys and girls for future years. The swimmers try to build even more attraction in the team for future seasons. They also have brought in swimmers from other schools, to encourage more and more Vermonters to join the team.

University swimming group to hold tryouts

Boise State, a University swimming group, will hold tryouts for the 1970-71 team Thursday at 3 p.m. There will be a practice session to help determine the line-up. The tryouts will be held Wednesday evening in the new 2,800-seat Ford Field.

The swimmers will be required to swim three different strokes to show their best form. They will also be required to perform a series of four strokes, thus their stamina against the water can be judged.

Boise State swimmers are all students who are encouraged to try out for the team. The Boise State swimming program is an open one and is doing well in attracting the young boys and girls for future years. The swimmers try to build even more attraction in the team for future seasons. They also have brought in swimmers from other schools, to encourage more and more Vermonters to join the team.
Dorm rules are defended

If a woman under 21 needs to live in an apartment or is planning on having a roommate, she should go to another college," Dean of Women Karen A. Hanes said.

Dr. Custom said dormitories are an essential part of a student's education and that dorms are necessary in many ways.

"For example, a woman's rules must always be met by the women's rules, no matter how strict or lenient she is," she said. "The rules are changed on a regular basis, and they must be obeyed.

Dr. Custom said the dorms are not all women, but the women's rules are very strict and the rules are changed on a regular basis.

"The women's rules are very strict and the rules are changed on a regular basis," she said. "The rules are changed on a regular basis, and they must be obeyed.

Dorm rules are defended

Special interest classes include psych, English

The courses at the college are divided into three types: psych, English, and other. Psych courses are taught by professors and include a mix of psych and other courses. English courses are also taught by professors and include a mix of psych and other courses. The other courses are taught by professors and include a mix of psych and other courses.

Interviews for positions on the AUKS scholarship Committee will be Wednesday and Thursday at the 10th floor at 7:30 p.m. Students interested in science should attend.

Alpha Phi Omega members chamber Junior Misses

The candidates for Alpha Phi Omega's Junior Misses are being interviewed on Monday to work in the Alpha Phi Omega program. Of the 35 candidates, each will be interviewed on their ability to contribute to the Alpha Phi Omega program. Of the 35 candidates, each will be interviewed on their ability to contribute to the American Dream. The interviews will be held on February 17th at 7:30 p.m. in the Banquet Room.

‘Phantom of the Opera’ to be presented Feb. 13

A generation of college students raised in the shadow of the Phantom of the Opera are being presented on Monday, February 13th, at 8 p.m. in the Banquet Room. The Phantom of the Opera is a musical theater show that has been running on Broadway for over 100 years. The Phantom of the Opera is a musical theater show that has been running on Broadway for over 100 years.

Smudge-ins are out!

Even conservative proffs rebel against a proposal to ban smudge-ins on campus. The proposal was presented by the College of Science and Technology. The proposal was presented by the College of Science and Technology. The proposal was presented by the College of Science and Technology.