Because of his interest in the continuing medical education committees and the medical student program, Dr. Sandy appears to be leading the role as a politician and a more active role in the Medical Regional Program.

While the site plan prepared by the Idaho Medical Society, two medical students from the Salt Lake City district spent four weeks in the city during the summer of 1962 as a result of the experience. The project included:
1. To give the opportunity to participate in the care of patients under faculty supervision, in private practice, in their offices and in hospitals.
2. To have the opportunity to attend medical staff and various executive meetings associated with the activities of the hospital.
3. To provide continuing education in the community to the benefit of medical students.
4. To provide professional potential for students without a medical degree to participate in the hospital by bringing students to this hospital.

The two任期s I have served as communications chair, here at ASUI, have been amazing.

The ASUI Constitution, E-Board, and the rest of the ASUI has been amazing, and I would like to continue that excellence through my third term.

Eclipse viewers warned to take adequate care

Viewers and photographers of the partial eclipse of the sun scheduled for May 10 are urged to take adequate precautions when viewing the phenomenon, according to estate attorney Emmet Kodak. (See above.)

Mr. Kodak, a seasoned eclipse-watcher who has been tracking the sun's movements for over two decades, said that extreme caution is needed when viewing the eclipse, especially for those with sensitive skin or eyes.

He advised that viewers wear protective eyewear, such as eclipse glasses or a certified eye protector, and avoid prolonged or direct viewing of the sun, even during the partial phase of the eclipse.

Mr. Kodak also warned against using cameras or telescopes to capture images of the eclipse, as this could lead to permanent damage.

He emphasized the importance of taking adequate precautions to ensure the safety of all viewers, especially children.
