Regents reject Bill of Rights, approve PAC

3-phase construction program

- Approved for dramatic center

A 3-phase construction program for the Performing Arts Center at the University of Idaho was announced yesterday by President Ernest W. Hartung.

The board of Regents approved the construction plan over the weekend after a series. Bill pending legislation gift raised the total of funds available to nearly $10 million.

The first phase of the complex will cost approximately $7 million and will include a stage house, theater with a seating capacity of 1,000, theater shop, and a variety of student theater facilities.

Scheduling and architectural studies will be conducted at Idaho Falls on March 11.

Phase three, to be added in the future, will be designed as an additional workshop, theater facilities.

Phase two will include a multi-use concert with a seating capacity for 1,000 persons, three classrooms, a gallery, library, and other areas.

Senate story corrected

Last Friday's Argonaut incorrect in reporting that the ASUI Senate had approved an appointment to the four-student faculty committee. The four candidates, that weren't approved at last Thursday night meeting were Carlos Adams, Betsy Bowers, Doris Cunningham, and the RTOC Affairs Committee. Appointment to these committees will be considered at the next meeting tonight.

Where are the violent radicals?

A prime example of the backlash without cause is the student statement on rights and responsibilities. This document was presented and reviewed by members of the Idaho State faculty and body for four years before it was adopted for approval by the faculty and the Board of Regents. The document has the approval of an overwhelming majority of the general faculty of the University, the faculty council and the provost. This Academy has been well studied, political scientists, and teachers. It is the position of the Idaho State faculty and body to defend the Constitution and the rule of law. Despite this period of time and cooperation between teachers and faculty at the University, the Board of Regents refused to pass the statement, following a statement by a member of the faculty to reform the statement. Then, during the recent Octobert, the Regents established a committee to further reform the AK. The time needed for study will put up opposition of the full benefits beyond the November general elections.

In this manner the statement of student rights and responsibilities has been used to get political mileage out of an issue which does no one bad at the UI. The Idaho Academy is being upheld in its efforts to make us see the author's political cause. He is telling students in violence as an end to an election. If the voter finds out who is really violating the system, Robson may be in trouble.

Value of yelling section

Editor, the Argonaut

As an ardent of the University of Idaho, a college graduate and a Livermore Expressman for the last ten years, I should like to express some of my observations with your photographs.

I was an Idaho graduate. September 25th, 1961, comes across my desk and I take a look at the following page. I find the picture a so-called "revolutionary" who is himself the fruit of the country side within this case.

Whoever is a student that is to be studying at any one time, is covering both the cases or any but alcohol, smoke and also to get political mileage out of an issue which does no one good at the UI. The Idaho Regents is being upheld in its efforts to make us see the author's political cause. He is telling students in violence as an end to an election. If the voter finds out who is really violating the system, Robson may be in trouble.

Therefore, I find the picture a so-called "revolutionary" who is himself the fruit of the country side within this case.

May tragedy denounced

WASHINGTON (AP) — A presidential task force has denounced the Ohio Supreme Court's final decision in favor of students and students-only of State University and its extension campuses.

The Commission on Campus Unrest condemned the violent actions of some students, labeling them intolerable, but said that the confrontation "was not a danger which culminated in lethal form."

Bergquist discusses dreams at Psyche Forum

Dreams, he said, serve three functions: (1) to help us sleep, (2) to help us dream, and (3) to help us live. He suggested that it was the last of these functions that was most important to his research. He was particularly interested in dreams that occurred during REM sleep and their role in problem-solving and creativity.

Bergquist also discussed several theories relating to dreaming. Some authorities believe dreams serve to resolve problems and conflicts. Others believe dreams are a way to release tension. Still others believe dreams are a way to explore the unconscious. Bergquist suggested that dreams serve all three of these functions, depending on the individual dreamer.

One theory that Bergquist presented was the idea that dreams are a way for the mind to solve problems. He suggested that dreams often occur during times of stress or conflict, and that the mind may use dreams as a way to work through these problems.

Bergquist also discussed the role of dreams in creativity. He suggested that dreams can provide new ideas and insights, and that many great works of art and literature have been inspired by dreams.

Finally, Bergquist discussed the role of dreams in emotional health. He suggested that dreams can provide a way for the mind to process and resolve emotional issues.

In conclusion, Bergquist suggested that dreams are an important and complex phenomenon that deserves further study. He encouraged students and researchers to continue exploring the mysteries of the dream.

Bengals control Idaho at Minidome contest

The Idaho Vandals dropped their fourth straight game of the season in the Idaho Bowl. Bengals Saturday night in the ISU Millionat at Pocatello. 38-10, Idaho.

In the first quarter, the Vandals put on a solid show of offensive potential with little effort. Idaho's defense was nothing to be admired. The powerful Idaho offense outscored the Idaho defense 7-0 in the first quarter.

The action began when Carlis Harris, strong right end, returned a punt 4 yards for a touchdown. Idaho's New Year's offensive potential during the first quarter was reflected in their offensive potential during the first quarter.

A slight scoring page to go deep in Brussels territory. Vandals, who did a good job replacing them at quarterback, threw a 15-yard pass to Billy who was stopped on the three yard line. Vandals were forced to punt after a failed attempt at a field goal.

In the second half, Vandals, who had an outstanding defensive performance in the first half, were stopped in the Idaho defense by the Vandals.

The Vandals, 28 points up, kicked the extra point to make the score 28-0.

The new swimming center at the University of Idaho opened officially with "an atmosphere which is very compatible with enjoyable swimming," according to Chad Hall, University swimmer.

Classes are being held in the new pool all week, and other activities are scheduled to begin throughout the week. Varsity swimming and water polo practice start today in the new center.

Commenting on his experience, Chad Hall said, "I am having a lot of fun. Even though the pool is new, we are having a lot of fun."

The pool is located in the Student Union Building on the University of Idaho campus. It is the largest pool in the state of Idaho and one of the largest pools in the United States. It is also the only pool in the state that can be used for both swimming and diving.

The pool is 25 meters long, 12 meters wide, and 3 meters deep. It has a maximum depth of ten feet, and a maximum depth of six feet with a maximum of five feet and one-half feet of water. The pool is large enough to hold the entire University of Idaho swimming and diving team.

The pool has a capacity of 1,500 people, and is the largest pool in the state of Idaho. It is also the only pool in the state that can be used for both swimming and diving.

The pool is equipped with state-of-the-art equipment, including underwater viewing windows and underwater speakers. The pool is also equipped with a retractable roof, which can be opened or closed depending on the weather.
