Abortion legalization gets support at hearing

POCATELLO (AP) - Proposed Amendment to Idaho’s abortion law today received overwhelming support at a public hearing in Pocatello.

More than 60 persons testified before the Legislature’s Council’s committee with several witnesses supporting running about ten to one in favor of legalizing abortion.

The results contrasted with those of a hearing in Boise Thursday when the ratio was about one to one against abortion.

Vandalbasbeats WSU Frosh in Shrine game

The Idaho Vandals football team pulled off a surprise win over the Washington State Cougars Saturday afternoon at the Shrine Stadium. The final score was 10-7 in favor of the Vandals, who had not won a game in the series against the Cougars in over 30 years.

The Vandals started the game strong, driving the ball deep into Washington State territory. The Cougars responded with a field goal, but Idaho answered with a touchdown early in the second quarter to take the lead. Washington State tied the score with another touchdown before halftime, but Idaho regained the lead to go into the break with a 10-7 advantage.

In the second half, the Vandals defense held Washington State to just a field goal, while Idaho's offense was able to extend their lead with a second touchdown. The defense held firm in the final minutes, preserving the win for the Vandals.

Coach Rich Seefried was pleased with the effort from his team, saying, "We knew we had a chance to win this game. The defense stepped up big, and the offense played well when it needed to."
Teacher designs metals for humanities awards

The first metals for metals in Idaho Arts and Humanities were designed by Melvin Carter, a sculptor and jewelry artist of the University of Idaho. The metals were inspired by the Six Nations, a group of Native American tribes who have a long history in Idaho.

Carter was chosen as one of the artists for the Six Nations project, which is a collaboration between the University of Idaho and the Six Nations. The metals are made from recycled materials and are designed to be used in a variety of ways, including as jewelry, sculptures, and other artworks.

The metals are intended to represent the rich cultural heritage of the Six Nations, and to highlight the importance of preserving this heritage for future generations.

Several pieces of the metals will be on display at the University of Idaho's Art and Design Center, where visitors can learn more about the project and the artists involved.

For more information, please visit the Six Nations project website at sixnationsproject.org.
