CUP Chooses 'Ingo' For Prexy Nominee

The Campus Union Party nominating convention ended Tuesday night with John Johnston, Farmhouse, as the CUP candidate for ASU president.

After three rounds, Johnston agreed to run for the vice presidency and was chosen the party candidate for the 22-man group called on the railroad side election. Delays from the original three-man, then moved that Johnston be accepted unanimously as convention candidate.

The following day, Johnston was unanimously voted on as the new CUP candidate to run against the Dental Union's Richard Hagens.

Johnston's bid for the position comes after his election on the railroad side as the 12 year-old student government's vice president.

CUP President Artie Morley, in his role as chairman of the nominating convention, said: "The students who attended the convention were pleased with the outcome. They are eager to see John Johnston become the new ASU president in 1959."
Planning Helped

So far, the Baseball Life Conference has been a success. However, lacking effect, the project is of relatively little benefit compared to the large numbers of people who have participated.

This is one side of the coin. The other side is that if we are successful, it may eventually lead to more comprehensive changes in the government.

Students Plan TV Program

Students interested in getting on the air have a chance to present their ideas to the executive program, which will include the best ideas and be aired on local television.

This show will be shown at 6:30 p.m. Monday in the student union.

Candidates Statements

Carl Johannesen & Jim Johnston

I am aware of the problems that college students face. We have both done our best to deal with the problems that we have encountered. We have made an effort to get our degree, and the results have been rewarding.

It is important to know that we have been successful in our efforts. It is important to remember that we have been successful in our efforts.

We are the best candidates for the position of vice president.

RHCH Holds Workshop For Opinion Discussions

The workshop was well-received by the students present, who found it to be an interesting and informative discussion.

The workshop continued until late, with many students still interested in discussing the issues.

The incident occurred while Kilgore was attending the annual U.S. Mall celebration, where students of the University of Alaska, Juneau gather to celebrate the end of the school year.

Political Views By Elias Samo’

It seems that we are speaking more about inflation and recession than we are about the problems that face our country.

The situation is not as bad as it seems, but we must take action now to prevent a major crisis.

One of the major problems is the high cost of living, which is a major concern for many people.

The government has taken some steps to address this issue, but more needs to be done.
