Construction May Begin
On Home Management
House, Complex Soon

Construction, which has been delayed by bad weather, will begin, hopefully, next week on the new Home Management House and the third wing of Wilcox Complex.

"University officials got away with the rules," said Kenneth Davis, University financial vice-president, before he began construction on the new Home Management House and the third wing of the campus.

New Student Days
Heads Selected

The new chairman of student government was selected at the recent meeting of the student body. The new chairman is George H. W. Davis, Delta Phi, general chair.

They are: Jeanne Anderson, president; Alice Beverage, vice-president; Virginia Kapp, secretary; and Roberta Reed, treasurer.

Other plans

Other plans for the improvement of the University are:

1. Creation of the new Science Building, the building of a new University Center, a new Daily Tribune Building, and a new tennis court.

2. Expansion of the University of Physical Sciences, and plans for a new fine arts and architecture building.

3. The move into the new building, starting May 1.

The Board of Regents has approved the plans for the new University Center, and the building will be opened on June 30.

The Board of Regents has also approved the plans for the new Tennis Court, and the building will be opened on June 12.

How much goes unnoticed by those directly concerned?
Two thoughts resound about the subject.

Most of us in the fall of 1959. Just before we were to the university, a letter was sent to us telling what the University of Idaho was.

As we arrived, carpenters finished renovating the Latah Theatre. The College of Agriculture, the Junior College of Business Administration, the J.P. Gotell Library, and the main house for the students, was the “Little House” added to the campus of the university.

The College of Agriculture was selected out of a list of possible choices.
