The announcement recently that the ASCU will have a new program director is a step towards the new ASU's development.

Dale Hill, ASCU program manager, has been hired to replace the current program director. Even his assistant, Mrs. Richard Portwood, has been in the position for several months. Hill is an experienced director with experience in various capacities.

Whether the new woman director will be able to handle her new responsibilities is to be determined. But the new director has been approved by the University Student Senate.

The changes have been made, according to Hill, due to the fact that the position has been vacant for some time. He added that he hopes to have the director in place until the end of the academic year.

The ASCU is complex and involves many committees, and the new director will be responsible for these various committees, classes, and organizations to have meetings.

The new director will have to come up with new ideas to make sure that the ASCU is functioning properly.

"Christmas shopping for un-expected gifts..."

Bob, you're doing too much shopping. You must have spent all your money on gifts for your friends. You must have forgotten that the best gift you could give them is your time."

Bob sighed. "Well, I guess you're right. I'll just have to think of something else."

"How about taking them out for a nice dinner? That's always a good idea."

Bob smiled. "That sounds like a great idea. I'll do that."

"And don't forget," Mike added, "the most important gift of all is your love and affection. That's the best gift you can give."

Bob nodded, grateful for his friend's advice.

The End.

New Job Should Bring Relief

On Music Box

Apparatus on the Black Box television set at 4 a.m. on the morning of Christmas Day proved popular. The box can support a phone, a radio, and a television set. President Mike Caves and Residence Counselors.

Also on the program from KWSU are Dean Samuelson, playing and singing for the audience.

Immediately after the Music Box party, it was announced that the "Progressive Nanny" had been selected.

Dean Samuelson Stresses Problems Facing Psychology Major

"The problem of stress is a serious one, especially for psychology majors," Dean Samuelson said at a recent meeting of the Psychology Club.

Dean Samuelson stressed the importance of mental health, and the need for students to seek help when they are feeling stressed.

"It is important to recognize that stress is a normal part of life," he said. "However, when stress becomes overwhelming, it can have negative effects on our health and well-being."}

Geologists Attend Meet

High school girls who are interested in becoming geoscientists should be aware of an upcoming meeting on this topic. The meeting will be held on Thursday at 4 p.m. at the University of Idaho.

On the Way to Scotland

A group of students from the University of Idaho will be traveling to Scotland this summer to study geology. The trip will include visits to various geologic sites and museums.

CFLU-CPU Effort Hailed Success

Approximately 80 truck-loads of trash were hauled to the CPU-SNITF by students from the University of Idaho. The effort was led by President Mike Caves and Residence Counselors.

"We are very proud of the students," Caves said. "Their efforts were not in vain. We were able to make a difference for the community and our planet."

Cougars Take Win Over Idaho, 9-0

Play Here Today

PULLMAN, Wash. — Washington State's Cougars was a tale of two halves yesterday in a meeting here Monday in a meeting at Pullman's famous sports arena.

In the first half, the Cougars were the better of the two teams, holding their lead from the first half. They continued their lead with a series of baskets and free throws, but in the second half, Idaho pulled ahead to win by a score of 9-0. The final score was 21-12 in favor of Idaho.

The coach of the Cougars said, "We were not prepared for the second half. We played well in the first half, but in the second half, we made mistakes that allowed Idaho to gain the lead. We need to work on our defense and execution in the second half to improve our overall performance in future games."
