Buchanan Emphasizes Importance of Education

The U of I "Mother of the Midwest," as Buchanan is known, wants the region to become a "real" university. Buchanan lays out her vision for the university in her book "The University of Illinois: An American University in the American Century." Buchanan believes that the university should be more than just a place where students learn, but also a place where they can participate in the community and contribute to its growth. She advocates for more interdisciplinary programs and a stronger focus on research and innovation. Buchanan's ideas are shaped by her own experiences as a teacher, researcher, and administrator at the university. She believes that the university has a responsibility to the community and the world, and that it should be a leader in education and research. Buchanan's ideas have influenced the development of the university and continue to shape it today.

FROM THE PAST — The Idaho marching band showed various formations and marching steps popular in hygiene areas throughout the 18,400 Homecoming fans at halftime Saturday. The band demonstrated the quick step, dance step, and formations like the modern marching-band, concert formation to the crowd. The show was their second appearance this year.

SMILES THAT DIDN'T END — Argonaut cameraman Randy Fruechtenicht caught happy expressions on the faces of these Idaho fans in the crowd Saturday. Looking closely, you may see a couple who look as if they came from WSU.

GOOD GUEST — They are a noisy bunch. Among the most boisterous of the Idaho fans each home game are the crew from Guash Hall. Saturday they brought in their fans until even an old dog.

DRIVE — Rich Naccarato breaks his head and drives into a Cougar defender at WSU's Tax in Nampa. The Idaho fans cheer as his team scores. He led the team in rushing the past two seasons.

SOMETHING TO YELL FOR — From left girls Mary Ellis Fairchild and Melanie Fronkonkloke and yell leader Mike Patterson had something to yell for Saturday as the Vandals broke the one year dry spell since they last beat WSU. As an extra twist, Patterson, a sophomore at the University, transferred from WSU where he playedfresh ball.

FIRST IN TEN — The first Idaho victory over Washington State University since 1954 is pictured on the scoreboard at Notre Dame Stadium. With only one minute and twenty-five seconds left the Vandals had the game in the bag as one Vandal fan said, "I didn't have any doubt after the first minutes of the opening quarter."

OUT OF A HOLE — A pitchout from Quarterback Mike Mansha was the ground as Tom Harris helped the Vandals out of a hole deep in their own territory in the third quarter. The play was a useful weapon for the Vandals as they used it throughout the game.

THUNDER — Big Ray McDonald, the Vandals' biggest threat, rolls from the line to set up Idaho's first touchdown in Idaho, a 28-13 win over Washington State. The picture shows McDonald's roommate Joe Dulson (79) and Ron Porter (59) giving a hand at Cougar John Porter (34) is blocked and Wally Doseyway (55) can just stand and watch.
Naccarato and Lavens Injured, May Not Start

By FRED FREEKMAN
Both the Cougars and the Vandals seem to hit hard in the first inning, but the Cougars hit the hardest as the weather conditions were perfect.

The hard-hitting, however, may have temporarily delayed the progress of two of the biggest stars, Halbrock Hail-Stevens and End Tim Lavens, both of whom are expected to make major contributions to the University of Idaho Battery this year.

Saracen is not with a single shoulder separation and Lavens has a foot problem, but both should be ready in time for the 1:30 p.m. meeting with Washington State.

The Cougars' record isn't as good as the teams' claims. They're 2-7-1 as the weather against Oregon State, their only home game of the season.
