The next meeting plans may be modified somewhat from the current year, according to ASUI treasurer, Mary Rich, and student council. The Board of Regents has yet to approve the budget, but Miss Rich discussed the proposals that have been made.

The major change in the creation of a snack bar is the assortment of the Wallace Union, and there will be many different meats and cheese types. The same will be true for the meat and potato line.

The other major change is the increase in the flopping fee. This will be $0.50 per ticket, and the price of tickets will change from $0.50 to $0.75 per ticket. If tickets are purchased early, the price will be $0.50 per ticket. The additional charge in $0.50 per ticket. The price of tickets will change from $0.50 to $0.75 per ticket.

WITH CHANGES

Senate passes budget

The ASUI senate last week passed the proposed bud- get submitted by its finance committee after lengthy deliberation and compromise.

The specific amounts of these changes were not revealed at the board meeting.

Finance Committee Chairman Chris Smith formed the budget proposal submitted to the Senate in a "Grand" of the committee members.

The proposal submitted by the finance committee was the result of hours of labor. That budget was reduced from $8,000,000 to $5,500,000 with the assistance of financial advisor Dr. Charles Dentler.

Over budget cuts included elimination of $8,000 for Holy Week, reduction of ASUI vice president's salary by $100, and a $100 cut to the Student Union. Additional items cut from the budget include $25,000 for office supplies, $3,000 for office supplies, and $2,000 for office supplies.

The total ASUI budget for next year is $24,000,000, of which $18,000,000 is allocated as expenses and $6,000,000 will go to the general reserve. The $6,000,000 may come from a proposed income of $19,000,000 from student fees, and $2,000,000 from other proposed income including the Associated Student Union and other sources.

In the communications area a cooperative budget of $8,000,000 was agreed upon for the year, while the delivery of the Idaho Argonaut was accepted on a contingency basis for the budget of $11,000. The Argonaut will have to meet all expenses, and the surplus of $3,000,000 will be used to reduce the deficit of $2,000,000.

Goodbye Columbus (and Moscow)

"If you were the Argonaut editor and this was your last editorial in your last paper, what would you say?"

I would depend on what kind of an editor I'd been and what kind of a paper I'd put out.

Suppose you were the current editor—what's his name?...

I'd make a vow never to open my big mouth again and clear out of town as fast as possible.

I can dig that.—KIRK

The Draft—Unfinished

As the semester draws to a close, the future of the Selective Service is once again the concern of the University community. The Selective Service System is the inevitable byproduct of the Vietnam War, and it is a system that we must all come to terms with. The draft is a symbol of the failure of the war, and it is a symbol of the failure of our government.

Your questions answered

Q. If Congress was willing to end the draft, or to end the draft... What do you think would be the best way to do that?

A. We want to try to think of a law that will be constitutional.

Q. Why do members of the professional military often keep their own draft records?

A. They want to think that they are not making a mistake.

Q. What was the last day of the last time that you ever heard blood curdling noises in the street?

A. It's not that I've heard them, but I've heard the stories.

Q. Who would say that the last draft is to be as good as the first draft?

A. It's going to be great in a few years. But Richard Nixon was not President Nixon, and the British had given up the '60s as a decade of peace.

Q. Why are the draft men not "amelaiah" or below the national parks line, like young men's services are?

A. A problem for Princeton is an excellent part of the American value system. What are you, a Commie or something?

Q. You would think that the national service would be a good vote for the draft?

A. Not what you like the idea of citizens serving the government, instead of the other way around. But certainly it's work in progress.

Q. What would you say about the national service being better than the last draft?

A. Yes, if you can make it a job, but I think you can make it better than the last draft. It is not too late for you to try to change your mind about the Selective Service System.

Q. How could the military get the men for the national service?

A. If it is going to be a job, and staying out of similar trouble, you might think of paying the federal government, why?

Q. What would you do if someone tried to rape your grandmother?

A. I'd chop her.

Dear Editor:

I believe that the changes brought about by the draft have been greatly overrated. I don't believe that you can do anything to change the draft other than to change the draft.

The latest draft is going to be better than the last draft. If you're going to have a draft, you might as well have the best one possible.

role in our society and the major aspects of the profession is now offered by the University of Idaho fall semester 1971.

The Intercollegiate College of Engineering at the University of Idaho is

"Engineering for a Technological Society."

The course is a part of a study by a group of representatives from The College of Letters and Science and the College of Engineering and the College of Agriculture and Biological Sciences and was

"Engineering for a Technological Society."

"We want to give students who are not engineers a chance to know what engineers do, how they do it, and what the problems are they face with in solving these problems." - Frank D. Hoffmeister, professor of electrical engineering and director of the College of Engineering. He will teach the course.

This course is designed to help the new student understand the nature and popullar engineering and the basic problems of the engineering sciences. The course will be offered in the fall of 1971.

Drink a can of Mountain Fresh Rainier And step on it.

Rainier’s 12-ounce cans are now recyclable aluminum.

And they’re worth money. Just bring your empties to a Rainier wholesale distributor.* He'll pay you to get it back. How much? ½ a cent a can... 10¢ a pound... $10.00 a hundred pounds or $200.00 a ton.

But look at it this way, you'll not only be making money, but by helping recycle a valuable natural resource, you'll be reducing litter and solid waste.

And at the same time you're enjoying the Mountain Fresh taste of Rainier.

By the way, you don’t really have to step on the empties. They’re just easier to haul around flat.

Vietnamese able to take over

South Vietnamese forces should be able to take over the coastal fighting in Vietnam this year, according to Nguyen Cao Ky, economic attaché with the South Vietnamese embassy in Washington, D.C. As was on campus Monday and spoke of removing economic and financial problems, South Vietnam hopes to continue to receive economic aid.

"We're told," he said, "that the United States will simulate what we hope to maintain good relations. South Vietnam will continue to receive economic aid."

Inadequate

The government of South Vietnam hopes the future role of the United States in the country will be that of a friend.

"I hope the military involvement will end soon," he said. "This is a historical problem of the war, so it won't be material, but I hope it's soon." He added that the future years will see a combat supply cut of aid, but not be.

It is very difficult, he said, to predict the state of the Vietnam. South Vietnamese and American economists have formulated a program economic plan, but it is very flexible. Concerning the plan and all other aspects of the country's future, the government would like to be made in any situation that should arise from the situation.

History discussed

He said Monday evening included a discussion of the history of the country, the hopes for the United States and Vietnam for the Vietnamization program and economic problems.

As said he enjoys the opportunity to represent the Vietnamese to American audiences. He has been speaking to area schools as part of a program Americans for Peace and Freedom (APF) program sponsored by the State Department and the South Vietnamese embassy.

"We find it valuable to have a speaker such as Mr. Ky," said Roger Raymond, former that can be received in the United States.

"It's also a chance to show that we're here for a short time. They don't have the chance to see one who has lived all his life as a Mr. Ky."

New grading system will affect frosh, sophs

By Jesse Eason

Freshmen and sophomores will no longer receive T and F's if it is apparent that a poor grading system will be used by the University. The University will give out with it will be eliminated.

The University has made no commitment as to whether or not it will offer the course to those who have not been successful in high school. The system, according to those in favor of the change, is more accurate and will make it easier for those in favor of the change to admit the same.

Area of confusion on the question is changing many students' minds.

Almost all critics are working in an information vacuum with so little information still lacking that no decision will be made.

"If this is a change that will change many students' minds," one critic said. "I've been hearing so many contradictory things about what exactly the grading system will be used for."

The new system, as it stands, is to give a grade of A to those who should have received a B or F. Those that are currently in the system will continue with the same system. The system is to be utilized on an individual basis. The system is to be used in all areas of the University.

Longyear and George Wray, both of Boise, have been working on a project to create a model for a new type of building. They are using the latest technology and computer programs to design a structure that is both efficient and aesthetically pleasing. The model will be presented at a conference in Seattle next month, where it will be discussed by experts in the field.

The project is part of a larger initiative to promote sustainable architecture and design in the region. Longyear and Wray believe that their work will help to shape the future of the industry and inspire others to think creatively about how we build and live in the world.

The painting of nude figures is a common theme in art, often used to explore themes of beauty, form, and emotion. In this particular painting, the artist has focused on capturing the essence of the human body through the use of simple lines and a limited color palette. The figures are depicted in a realistic manner, with attention to detail in their expressions and postures.

It turns into a pretty penny.

Like magic, right before your very wide, open eyes, your Rainier White Label distributor* will turn your ordinary Rainier beer bottle into a pretty penny.

A lot of pretty pennies if you’ve got lots of bottles. Like, Site for a case of 24.

You see, we now put our Mountain Fresh Rainier in recyclable bottles. We re-use them (after we inspect and sterilize them). This allows us to help reduce and control the problem of litter and solid waste, now threatening our environment.

So, when it makes your white, your Rainier beer bottle becomes recyclable. Make the bottles worth more money. This reduces your beer drinking costs.

And just in case you’re not convinced, keep your own bottles and use them for the next 6 months. That’s 6 bottles. It’s a small price to pay for a world of clean drinking water.

*Rainier beer bottles are recyclable.

Truly the Turkey of the Year

Really there was no contest. The twelfth annual Turkey of the Year award goes hands down to University of Idaho financial-administrative vice president Sherman F. Carter. Carter, the man who so typifies that clean-cut, All-America bashful attitude we've come to know and love, also has the special ability to put student money where his mouth is.

In a year of financial depravity, when the bite of student fees and tuition really hurts, Dr. Carter uttered the now famous words, "It's fiction to worry unbury where the money goes."

He then went on to explain fees and why they are skyrocketing. "Because the Regents deem it necessary." And if that isn't enough, when speaking about the athletic complex students are funding but haven't seen yet Carter said, "We need a big enclosed area. We need it because there's not a heck of a lot going on here."

Good going Sherman. And to you — here's a big Turkey — we wouldn't think of giving it to a better, more deserving individual.
Good lord! What happened to the clock in the UCC? Have you seen those fancy cupcakes things over the counter? Well, maybe you have, but if you haven't gone to class since spring semester like you maybe haven't even heard about them. Let me tell you, I went to class yesterday, because I knew this wasn't my favorite, and I wanted to be sure to see who was about here in the next whatever. As anyone who's been class-todays and promptly looked at the clock to see if I hadn't been there to early so, I left, and here was this strange looking cups cake thing sitting on the counter.

Then I heard all the other clocks ticking. Obviously I was nothing left in the room. Where the hell did that time go? I remember my cellphones were ringing at me.

The teacher said, "That's it," but I didn't care since I didn't like his normal anyway. I got out of my apathy and that really was the last time that I thought about those hours, whatever it was, that I left. I don't know if it was easier later or if I left when I was a little hair on the head, I don't know. She didn't finish, Dr. whoever had entered the room.

The guy that was trying to keep everything he had in the student council until the next year. He was dressed like you from reading those lovely clocks. My friends who didn't know who were in the there, those Rhode island students and that, too, have been ripped off in a single day (though they?"

"I also heard that the "Gobble" whatever they are, was created by the men in the making. The main problem about the clocks was that it was expected for the hands marking and "guilty responsible" to lie, and the wonderful error... Oh, we could toss them. Whatever the clock."

Rumors not true

Everybody denies all

Yesterday, President E. Doberding, President of the University of Idaho, said that the rumors that have recently been circulating around campus about a rift between the president and his top assistant, Dr. C. Ott, administrator and financial vice-president, were definitely false, that he is having no difficulties with any of his top aid and that he is confident that he has the support and trust of all his administration.

The rumors apparently got their start when a man that taught English, John Hatcher, who is also a member of the university's Board of Regents, called the president and the vice-president one night last week to tell him of the perks he felt were being offered behind the administration. The man, who, in this story, has not been positively identified, struggled for a short period, then split up with me walking into the new year's eye and just waiting for the old year's grace. The man was telling me, you see, something like, "I call you to come running into my secretary, you see, could something is... I take in the fact that some 3,000 members of the student body and staff at the university have been given the opportunity to write their stories around campus and have them be read in the paper that they printed the entire Board of Regents and the faculty of the university economics department. At this point, we're apparently believing the discussion, and not only the stories arranged around campus but also the support of the university economics department.

K MARKS THE SPOT where the GIANT MONSTER recently landed his first known attack on a human being: Lake Latah. The student, who is still unidentified, disappeared without a trace.

A University of Idaho student, identified by his hometown as "B.D." and age as 19, was killed in this incident. It occurred at 1 p.m. on the afternoon of the 14th. The man was not a part of the Rego Family, but was a regular visitor to the area.

The body was found in a small jetty near the middle of the lake. It is believed that the man died from shock and exposure to the cold water. The exact cause of death is still unknown.

The incident caused a great deal of concern among students and faculty. The university has set up a task force to investigate the matter.
