Senate requests stadium guarantee

by Kieni Kondo

A resolution requesting that President Hartung place sufficient funds for multiuse recreational facilities into a reserved reserve account was unanimously endorsed by the ASUI Senate Tuesday evening.

Reviewing the history of the athletic complex, ASUI President, Mary Ruth Mann voiced concern that unless about $300,000 is reserved specifically for the underseating, the students will be denied recreational benefits by those who would cite "budget and time priorities." Previous elimination of multi-use towers and replacement of permanent seating in the stadium were given as examples and justification for this resolution.

Currently, the underseating can't be installed because 3M Corporation apparently won't guarantee the Tartan underseating until it is built. No money is available for a roof at this time.

Board of control

A bill setting up an athletic complex improvement control was sent to Governor operations committee.

Revised Code of Conduct still isn't completed and Ms. Mann criticized some Senate members for inactivity and lack of cooperation. Another rewrite session is being held before the next Senate meeting and if enough work is done the Code may be completed by then.

After much debate, the Senate defeated a bill requesting a $78.00 appropriation to allow two students to accompany Ms. Mann to the alumni meeting this weekend in McCall.

Ms. Mann felt there was a need to present some positive programs to the alumni and wanted Ron Harris of the student-alumni relations board and Clive Strong, assistant of the campus visitation program to help develop relations for the students at the meeting.

A request for transfer of $900 from the ASUI general reserve to pay expenses for a concert by Cheyenne February 4, 1972 was defeated. However, it may be possible to have this group appear on a percentage basis.

A reminder that the Rainier ecology presentation would be the same week was voiced by Senator Robie Russell. Senator Elligson felt that more time should be given the Senate to consider similar expenditures in the future.

Academic board passes

Student complaints on academic matters may now be heard.

A Faculty Council Ad Hoc committee had presented a proposal for the Board early in November, 1971. At that time, however, objections were raised by Professor Robert Jones of the law department who expressed concern that the law school would lose accreditation if a board were given the power to review course requirements at that time. He proposed an amendment exempting the law school and graduate school from review by the board, and the matter was tabled pending further review.

In the adopted proposal, the Board cannot change an action of the Faculty of the College of Law, and will not consider appeals with respect to admission to the University, its Graduate School or the College of Law. Normal procedure to be taken by a student dissatisfied with an institutional action is a request for reconsideration within the original department and divisional authorities involved. Generally, only after completion and review of decision at these levels would the Board consider an appeal.

Faculty Council okays 12 sabbatical leaves

Faculty Council approved sabbatical leaves for twelve members of the university faculty.

The purpose of the sabbatical leaves is to increase the faculty member's usefulness to the university. The university has three classifications for sabbatical leaves. Each of the classifications involves research and study intended to result in publication or in an invention. Area A is given to those who wish to take a "refresher course or a program of study, work or travel designed to keep the individual abreast of the latest developments in his area of specialization. Area C is given to those professors working toward an advanced degree.

Under classification A, Dwight S. John Dixon, Jim Guthrie, E. J. Chavez, R. J. Kearney, and William R. Hall will be on leave under plan B for the entire academic year of 1972-73. Edmund E. Tytki and F. D. Johnson will be absent during next fall's semester. Duane J. LaTourneau and John Pepper will have their sabbaticals during the spring semester of 1972-73.

Yvonne H. Burton will be on leave for the fall semester next year. Blaine Linford will be on leave for the spring semester of next year. Both will be working under classification C.

The membership of the University Curriculum Committee and Faculty Council's Committee on Committees were changed by the Faculty Council. The UCC membership now includes two ex-officio members and ten voting members. The new policy allows members to be recommended by Faculty Council's Committee on Committees instead of by the individual colleges. The new method will attempt to put a working group together, according to Dr. Siegfried Rolland.

Membership for the Faculty Council on Committees was changed to allow for more experience on the part of the committee. The new structure will also work on the problem the present group has with length of terms and chairmanship.

An ad hoc committee was also approved to look into the petition for reinstatement of Larry S. Finnman, student.
Civil Service applications due

The Civil Service Commission must receive applications to take Civil Service tests to qualify for summer employment by February 2, Idaho Senator Frank Church said recently. Those filing applications by that date, Church said, are eligible for the March 11 tests, the last that will be given this year. "Each year," Church said, "there are approximately 150,000 young Idahoans who are eligible for the 15,000 available summer jobs. There will probably be even more applicants this year, making the competition even stiffer."

Details and applications are contained in Civil Service Commission Announcement Bulletin No. 414, "Summer Jobs in Federal Agencies." The bulletin is available from college placement boards, most post offices and the Civil Service Commission offices in Idaho.

Forestry tours invited

An open house was held Wednesday night for the forestry building. According to, Dean of Forestry, John Ehrenregeth, the primary reason for the open house was to create better community relations.

"Our forestry building," commented Ehrenregeth, "is the finest and most unique in the country. The building is part of community property and as such all are invited to tour the building."

Nightline adds hours, begins nutrition service

As of Feb. 1, Nightline, Inc., the crisis telephone service in the Moscow area, will expand its hours to 2:30 p.m. to 2:30 a.m. and add a dial-a-nutritionist service.

"The number of calls received by Nightline telephonists indicated a need to increase our hours — and we felt we had enough volunteers to handle the expansion," explained Corky Bush, Nightline coordinator.

Volunteers needed

"More volunteers are needed, however, especially townspeople," Ms. Bush noted, adding that applications are available at her Intercultural Programs Office at the Satellite SUB, at Talisman House and at the Presbyterian Church.

Eight senior dietetics majors will provide the Nightline Nutritional Service.

They will be aided by university dietetics faculty and the Moscow Dietetics Association. The latter, an organization of certified dieticians, will provide continuity during university vacation periods.

Individuals may call the Nightline number, 902-6230, with a question on nutritional problems. They may leave their telephone number and first name in order to receive an answer the next day, or they may call back themselves for the answer.

Telephone nutrition services have proven successful in seven major cities where they have been tried, according to a student spokesman for the project.

Students may change to option

Persons may change from the pass-fail option to the regular credit option or vice versa, if done before Feb. 9, Matt Telin, registrar, said today.

"Changing this type of course is just like changing other courses," he said.

A person who has signed up to take a course pass-fail may change this to regular credit by filling a drop-add card. He would drop the pass-fail option and add, or take up, the regular credit, Telin said.

A person who wishes to change from regular credit to pass-fail must go to his dean's office and file a pass-fail form.

Until Feb. 9

This must all be done in the regular three week period, according to Telin. This period ends Feb. 9. After this time a petition must be filed to change the course and few of the petitions are granted, according to Telin.

The University of Idaho catalog states "A student may add or drop a pass-fail option course in the same manner as a regular course. A student may change his option from pass-fail to regular course classification or vice versa if he does so prior to the last date for change of study list without having a grade recorded."

Confusion exists

Some confusion on whether the option can be changed or not has arisen because of a statement on the petition form. The form states "I am aware that a change in registration to a regular grade basis is not permitted."

According to Telin, the form was made up about three years ago.

"The present catalog is the policy," Telin said.

Regulations

To qualify for the pass-fail option, a student must have junior standing and at least a 2.0 cumulative grade point average. The course must be the only one taken this way in the semester and it must not be in his major field.

For more information on the pass-fail option, Telin suggests that students check page 51 in the catalog.

The Politics of pollution
by Bill Meyer

Handbook of Power Tools

Before we get into the more substantive items today, we thought we would say a few words about where we’re coming from & where our heads are at.

It seems to us that there are essentially three areas which lead to political action. One is not to look at it all—to divorce yourself of it completely; as Ken said, “to turn your back on it and say ‘it’.” Okay, if that’s where you’re at we can’t argue with you. If you’re watching the impact of things being done without the actions of others, then you’re doing just fine, thank you, and don’t need any help. You have probably found total individual freedom.

But there’s damn few places in the world anymore where you even have a chance at.

A second view of politics is that politics is where it is at & everything political is right and cool; that the present state of affairs can’t be improved upon. We won’t argue with this viewpoint because it is absurd.

Thirdly, one might view politics as, rightly or wrongly, here to stay—as a necessary evil. We tend to accept this viewpoint (but not without many hours mulling over the attractiveness of the first view of politics). Even so, I don’t have to agree to accept this viewpoint because it is here to stay.

We don’t mean to have to accept it in its present state. We mean, when you have any large-scale, easily apparent, and basically desired political organization. A bee-hive has organization. A school system has organization. Man has organization.

Okay, we hope there’s agreement on the need for politics (otherwise, you wouldn’t be reading this & we needn’t be writing it). But what we find unacceptable is the present condition of politics. It is as poisonous with unnatural坐在 its bowels as any river. It is as bony and abrasive to fastidiousness as any day in Los Angeles. And it is as offensive to the nose as all the pulp mills in Tacoma.

There are essentially two types of definitions of politics. One type, developed by political scientists, deals with “allocation of values”, or “who gets what, when, and how”, or “the possession of force accepted as legitimate”. These are all good, valid definitions in a clinical, academic, and empirical sense. But it’s sometimes misrepresent the fact that “politics” has another, more ominous definition, and this latter definition happens to be the one you and I have to endure every time a politician opens his mouth (especially in an election year).

Distort, distort, distort

Here is the fundamental fact about politics in this country: to gain power you have to get elected. To get elected you say “what it is that you have to do”. You have to be noncommittal, master double-talk, and sometimes distort, distort, distort.

Dr. Bryant’s performance was much too long. He should have acknowledged protest in Pittsburgh and ended it there. It was a waste of time to try to appeal to us because we just go on letting Humphrey tell us that he would already have us out of Vietnam. It rests on us because we let Nixon tell us he will stop inflation, and then increase funds to the military in his budget later on each year. It rests on us for not calling bullshit when bullshit is present.

In Boise

Excuse us a moment while we climb down off your soap box...

...Now, a look at some more of the things happening in the legislature at the moment.

SB 1340 — this is a bill making expectant mothers or delivered mothers under 21 years old eligible for special education in 30 states. This bill passed the Senate already. It reduces from 21 to 18 the minimum age at which a person may serve in the armed forces.

There’s another interesting bill in the making. Senator Wm. Crockham (Repub., Caldwell) and others are about to introduce a bill into the Senate calling for a popular vote on whether abortions should be legalized in Idaho. If this motion carries, it will appear on the ballot in the election in November of this year.

Finally, an interesting thing is happening in regard to the Human Rights Commission in this state. It all started with the suspension from school of three Pocatello high school students because their hair was too long. The Idaho Human Rights Commission sided with the three long-hairs and the case is now on a court docket. What is incredible is that the upshot of this is that one legislator (Russel Fogg, Idaho Falls) is introducing a bill to abolish the Human Rights Commission: Good! Of conservative Idaho. One paper described the legislator in what we think are rather apt terms: “It is hardly conceivable that Fogg would advocate such legislation. The length of his hair is approximately the same width of his bill.” (Bill Hall, Lewiston Tribune, 1-23-72)

Thanks are extended to all the citizens of the community who did assist during the crisis, but special thanks go to those students who last week and suffered the physical anguish of wading through waist-high water to help others carry “their prized possessions’ to higher ground”. Within minutes of the initial warning, there were volunteers, boats, etc. waiting and available.

This ‘call to duty’ did not stop on the first night. Volunteers from many organizations and individual students who offered their presence to assist in the clean up. The problems of the Idaho evacuation are paramount on Friday and Saturday, yet, the cooperation of everyone made the job relatively easy. It is time for us as a body to realize where we are and where we are going. It is hoped that this individual effort to help was need, as represented by the ASUI, is truly the “sign of the times”.

Thank you again ASUI,

AGSU\I candidates looking for independence

Elections for the Graduate Student Association of the University of Idaho are scheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday February 1. Candidates are vying for positions of vice president, secretary, and treasurer of the organization. A presidential candidate, Steve Grabowski, a graduate student in fisheries, is running unopposed.

Dennis Stone, a Ph.D. candidate in chemistry, is seeking the office of treasurer of AGSU\I. Stone feels that the graduate organization should work to improve the situation of graduate students on campus. Graduate students, according to Stone are:

"In the 'twilight zone' between students and faculty. We get the snick of the stick as students and again as faculty," states Stone.

S. E. Thomas, also running for treasurer, is seeking his Ph.D. in organic chemistry. Thomas, proposed a declaration of independence," stating that graduate wants were not always the same as undergraduates.

David L. Kulhavy, who is working for his masters in forest entomology, is seeking the vice president's position. He comments that graduate students should have what he terms a 'grand liaison' at the administrative level to get information from deans and department chairmen to the administration.

Bob Busch, Ph.D. candidate in bacteriology is also running for vice president of the graduate organization. Busch contends that the AGSU should "continue to develop a respected professional profile as far as lobbying goes on or off campus and keep it on a professional mature basis."

Bob Matthews, who is working towards his Ph.D. in math, is seeking the position of secretary.

"We are treated as undergraduates when it is convenient for the university, as in the case of fees and treated as grad students when convenient in the case of having no important privileges," comments Matthews.

Bob Buechnew, a graduate student in geography, is also listed as a candidate for secretary, but was unavailable for comment.

The apple tree returns to u-hut

The Apple Tree'', a musical comedy U-Hut production, will be playing for one more weekend. Crowds of over 70 people were turned away from the popular play for two nights last week encouraging Brent Wagner, the student director of the independent project, to continue the performance at 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. this Saturday and 8 p.m. this Sunday night.

The play is a comical glance at the Garden of Eden. Bruce Hyman, as Adam, plays the stereotyped ''straight'' man; Charlotte Biergardi plays the bothersome intrusion in his paradise; and Russ Cimmonson plays the perfect serpent.

The Apple Tree'' is a unique production. According to Wagner, a senior who is playing the piano as well as directing the play. It is the first student-produced musical and the first musical for the U hut theater.

Wagner has taken on the play as an independent project under the university's directed studies program.

The play is presented with only minimal help from the drama department. Props and stage effects were collected from many sources. All on their own.

Wagner and the troupe have succeeded in a play that is so popular that it's back for repeat performances.

"The Apple Tree" is really a one-act play entitled "The Diary of Adam and Eve," based on a short story by Mark Twain.

For “A” Basketball

In intramurals, the results of the past “A” Basketball competition have just come in. The scores went as follows: Phi Kappa Tau beat Theta Chi in a thrilling game; come from behind, last second forfeited. Tau Kappa Epsilon romped over Pi Kappa Alpha, 39-22. The AKL’s squeaked by Delta Tau Delta, 37-35. The Sigma Nu’s sunk the Navy, 47-39. The Delta Chi’s crushed Sigma Eta, 41-35. Phi Delta bounced Kappa Sigma, 37-14. The Fiji’s made Puffa Puffa Rice out of the Lambda Chi’s by the score... (37-35), we think. And for the big game; didn’t look like Farm House’s day for an upset as they lost to the ATO’s 18-85, a real great game that wasn’t decided until the closing seconds of the warm-up period.

New Moscow nightspot to open

Moscow’s newest college nightspot, Jekyll’s and Hyde’s, will be opening for the first time this Sunday, according to Phil Oliver, designer of the establishment.

Sunday’s opening at 11 a.m. will be the first public look at the $100,000 remodeling job on Main St., the latest addition to Moscow’s list of “20’s bars.”

Advertised as “a restaurant by day, a tavern by night,” Jekyll’s and Hyde’s will cater to businessmen and shoppers during daylight hours. According to Terry Hager, a joint manager of the new venture, minor can also select from the variety of sandwiches until evening hours. Then the lights are dimmed and ID’s are checked.

“At night, we’re going full bore into the hip toppers thing,” Oliver explained as he stood amid the orange carpeting and amber lights of the redecorated building. “We want the place to be very earthy, very real.”

For now, Jekyll’s and Hyde’s will offer pool tables and games, the soft atmosphere, and a menu of sandwiches and steaks. With 11 such Northwest nightspots now underway, Moscow’s Jekyll’s and Hyde’s is the only outlet at this time with the cook-your-own-steak experiment.
