Guest speakers at the Borah Symposium will include nine dignitaries from national and international positions, plus local university officials, discussing the prevention of World War III.

Juanita Castro, sister of the Cuban premier, has denounced her brother's government and will be speaking on the threat of communism. Originally helping with the dictator's revolutionary activities, Castro has now fled Cuba and is dedicated to helping refugees escape from her former country.

Tran Van Dinh has been a Vietnamese liberation fighter during World War II and South Vietnamese ambassador to the United States until he resigned in 1964. He is now a free-lance writer and will appear at the symposium this afternoon.

Dr. Charles Frankel will speak tomorrow morning on ideological and religious conflicts. He is a professor of philosophy at Columbia University and a former assistant secretary of state for educational and cultural affairs.

Dr. Walter Judd, a surgeon and former missionary to the Far East and a U.S. congressman from 1942-62, will present the opening address this afternoon.

In addition to these speakers, Brig. Gen. Carl Von Horn is flying from Cyprus to speak tomorrow. Former commander of United Nations forces in the Middle East, Von Horn is a retired Swedish army officer who worked with the transfer of displaced civilians during World War II.

Col. Amos Jordan is a professor of political science and head of the Department of social sciences at the United States Military Academy at West Point, N.Y.

A slide show of American Weapons used in Vietnam will be presented by Kenneth Kirkpatrick, director of peace education for the Pacific Northwest region of the American Friends Service Committee. He will also participate in a panel.

An authority on the Moslem religion, Dr. M. A. Rauf of the Islamic center at Washington D. C. will speak tomorrow along with Israeli embassy representative, newspaper correspondent Samuel Segev.

Women's conference recommends changes

A resolution urging that child development centers be established in communities and on the campuses of the state colleges and universities was one of several resolutions unanimously endorsed at the recent women's conference at the University of Idaho.

The members of the conference asked for these centers "to provide low cost, high quality, developmentally oriented child care for the children of the state," according to the resolution.

Eleven of the resolutions have been sent to the state Senate and House majority and minority leaders for their information and consideration. Seven other resolutions are being disseminated to all segments of the mass media within the state.

Other resolutions sent to state officials include one which states "that women be given exclusive stewardship over their reproductive systems through repeal of all abortion statutes and through the availability of contraceptive information and services to all men and women of the State of Idaho, including those under 18 and in need of these services."

Birth control information

Another resolution states that the convention approved House Bill No. 496, which grants the right to disseminate birth control information. The convention also commended the initiators and supporters of a rejected abortion bill, "in the hope that such legislation will be reinstated."

The hiring, promotion, and retention of women and minorities at institutions of higher education was the topic of another of the resolutions. The women have asked that "effective affirmative action programs" be implemented at each of the institutions and "that litigation be initiated against each such institution which does not adopt such a program or that fails to implement the federally approved affirmative action programs prepared by each such institution."

Two of the resolutions also dealt with equal rights amendments. One resolution asked support for an amendment to be incorporated into the Constitution of the United States and the other resolution asked that the amendment be incorporated into the Constitution of the State of Idaho be supported.

Pregnant Schoolgirls

Another resolution sent to the legislators asks that "school boards be denied the right to arbitrarily exclude pregnant girls from the system of education and that those bodies also be denied the right to exclude married students from full participation in all school activities."

A pregnant-pupil policy was also supported by the women at the conference. This policy, according to the resolution, would be for all occupations and would allow women to use accrued sick leaves, annual leave and/or leave of absence. The beginning date and duration of the leave should be determined by the woman in consultation with her physician.

Another resolution states "that all individuals and/or organizations be encouraged to involve themselves in education at all levels (including primary, secondary and higher education) to 'humanize' the approach to education with the school system and to insist on diversification of both male and female roles in textbooks, curricula and all other aspects of education."

The legislators were also asked to appoint a qualified woman as head of the State Department of Health to replace Dr. Carver. Three possible candidates for the position, suggested in the resolution, are Mary Ann Johnson, Lewiston; Grace Smith, Lewiston; and Representative Margot Tregoning, Wardner.

Students may go abroad

The office of Intercultural Programs of the University of Idaho announces that late registration in spring quarter courses in London and in Avignon, France is still possible.

These programs are sponsored by the Northwest Interinstitutional Council on Study Abroad, a group of ten northwest universities and colleges, including the University of Idaho. Registration for these courses takes place on this campus through the office of Intercultural Programs.

Spring courses offered

The program at London this spring includes courses in drama, British history, architectural history and city and regional planning. In the spring Avignon program, there are courses in French language, French literature, French civilization, ecology and geography of Southern France.

Since both of these programs are quarter programs, beginning March 27 and ending June 9, adjustments would have to be made in the U of I enrollment for this semester. Otherwise, a student could wait until March, having signed up for only the overseas courses.

Summer programs

NICSA also offers summer programs in London and Paris from June 19 to August 18. These include art in London, British politics, music history and opera, all in London, French literature and drama, French language (all levels), international relations and international organizations, and French art and architecture in Paris.

Homestays, excursions, field trips

All of the programs include homestays with foreign families, excursions and field trips. In addition, a three-quarter program (fall, winter, spring) is planned for Avignon in 1972-73.

Usual cost for NICSA programs are $800 per quarter and $945 for summer school, which includes all costs except round-trip air transportation (about $300), one meal per day, and personal incidental expenses.

Students interested in any of the NICSA programs should contact Professor John H. Sullivan, director of Intercultural Programs, 314 Ad. Bldg., 885-6779.

Off-campus housing statistics released

The majority of married students at the University of Idaho live in one to two bedroom furnished apartments, according to a recent survey taken by the Dean of Men. This was part of an off-campus housing survey taken in December.

There were 316 respondents (63.7 per cent of the students polled) who said they lived in a rented apartment. Ninety-six persons, or 1.9 per cent, said they lived in rented houses, and 69, 13.9 per cent, said they lived in rented house trailers.

There are 44.8 per cent of the students who live in one bedroom residences and 41.5 per cent who live in two bedroom residences.

The survey also found that the majority of those polled, 61.7 per cent, had two individuals in the family. There were 23.4 per cent who have three individuals in the family and 8.5 per cent who have four in the family.

The survey also asked questions about the amount of the rent. Most of the students who are renting a house or apartment (which included payments if buying) pay between $60 and $129.99 per month. Broken further down, 10.9 per cent pay between $80-$129.99; 20.6 per cent pay between $100-$119.99; and 42.2 per cent pay between $120-$159.99 per month.

Trailer rent for a house trailer, which includes payments if buying, runs between $29 to $59.99 for the majority of students. About 62.9 per cent pay between $20-$39.99 rent per month and 17.1 per cent pay between $40-$69.99 per month.

Water and garbage were utilities included in the majority of the students’ rent, the survey showed. About 78.9 of the students have these included in their rent. Heat is included in the rent of 19.2 per cent of those who replied.

The original idea behind this part of the survey was to obtain a full description of family dwellings occupied by university students, according to Harry E. Davey Jr., dean of men.

“This information won’t be used for that purpose, however, because many landlords don’t want to be on such a list,” Donald Sutor, director of family housing, said. “Several prefer word-of-mouth advertising.”

Lisa available

There are other lists to help those looking for housing. Sutor said. The family housing office has a list of possible off-campus housing, which includes the names and addresses of some of the major landlords, the main apartment complexes and the real estate agents who handle rented places. They also have a list of trailer and mobile home parks. Both will be mailed to anyone who wishes them.

A list of available rental property can also be inspected at the housing office. Sutor said. To be listed in this folder, the landlord must fill out a form telling what he has available and sign an anti-discrimination clause, according to Sutor.

Students rebuke

To the Editor, Argonaut:

Re M. K. Schoeffler’s review of “Happy Birthday, Wanda June” (135-72, P. Ill).

Since the reviewer made such a big deal about the humor, violence, and dog fighting in the film “Straw Dogs”, it seems desirable to set “a record straight”. Susanah York did not appear in “Straw Dogs”.

As to “Straw Dogs”, Miss Schoeffler calls it “a film of senseless violence, that made no statement about it, just displayed it”. It is a film about senseless violence which, to the astute and perceptive viewer, has a great deal to say about social conditions under which man resorts to violence.

J. A. Comers

Dear Argonaut:

Expected:

Hello, your letter. Given is a copy of a letter from the U.O. Parents Association and the Alumni Associations of the four state funded institutions of higher education in Idaho. It was sent to several key members of the Idaho legislature. As you can see, the theme has come to go to work for the lump sum appropriation requested by the Board of Regents-Board of Education. Of prime importance is to maintain support of the original lump sum request of $27,375,044. This partisanship is involved; what is good for one school is good for all four. Necessarily this stand means favoring a tax increase. If we are to maintain present academic standards, there appears to be no alternative.

Therefore, we urgently request that you contact your legislators and delay of even a day may mean that your help will come too late to affect committee actions. Personal contact if practical would be best. Telephone calls are next in effectiveness. Letters, if in time, do get read and considered. A list of legislative leaders is enclosed and you may wish to write to those you are not personally acquainted with.

To mention your affiliation with the Alumni Association or Parents Association if such be the case.

It is late, but not too late for you to affect the outcome of the debate now underway in legislative halls. There are 30,000 alumni, 20,000 students and more than 25,000 parents who need to speak up for Idaho higher education.

If you will spend some time on this and get others to do likewise, the benefits to the State of Idaho will be lasting.

About senseless violence

Editorial Opinion

Turning of the tables

Why so far?

Those who complained last year that the Borah symposium was too liberal, radical and un-American have managed to overtake the Borah committee this year and give the people who are anti-communist speakers and All-American flag wavers the table. The theme is given as “How to prevent World War III”. How do you prevent a world war when discussing the issue with people who make taking sides and building arsenals of anti-communists cliches and misses their business. We may all learn something that is vitally important from this year’s symposium: however, tolerance won’t be one of them.

We appeal to you as a leading statesman in our legislature, to ignore partisan considerations and to consider only the best possible course of direction in supporting an increase in taxation this year for the betterment of higher education in the State of Idaho.

Students who wish to give support or oppose the 18 year old majority bills or show discontent or pleasure with something happening in the legislature may write their district senator or representative and express their opinions. The 18 year old vote means that some 50,000 more young Idahoans have a legitimate opportunity to influence representatives in the Idaho congress.

New restrictions

Dean Vettrus, Traffic Committee chairman, has also announced the requirement of signs at university parking lots.

The university parking lot bordering Gault Hall, parking lot 12 directly north of the new Forestry building, is now open to both staff and student automobiles with decals.

The Traffic Committee has set aside the first three rows near Sixth Street as staff parking. The remainder of the lot will be open to student drivers.

Angela Davis' trial begins

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) - Black militant Angela Davis won trial yesterday as lawyers began choosing a jury to hear charges she helped plot an escape that left four people dead a year and a half ago.

The first 500 of 5,500 potential jurors, including 18 to 21-year-olds, have been summoned to the heavily guarded courtroom.

The 28-year-old Communist is charged with murder, kidnapping and conspiracy. She faces life in prison if convicted.

The trial is being held on a possible death sentence until the California Supreme Court on Feb. 18 declares capital punishment unconstitutional. The ruling may be appealed, however.

The decision paved the way for Miss Davis' release on $102,500 bail last Wednesday.

Since her arrest Oct. 13, 1970 in a New York City motel, Miss Davis' requests for freedom were denied under a California law that prevented bail for persons charged with offenses carrying the death penalty.

Miss Davis is accused of helping plot an escape attempt involving black convicts who were testifying in the Marin County court in August 1970. A judge, two convicts and one of Miss Davis' friends were killed in a burst of gunfire.

Although not accused of being present, Miss Davis is charged with furnishing the guns used in the escape attempt and of helping plot the episode.

The former UCLA philosophy instructor claims she is the victim of a frameup by Gov. Ronald Reagan and the state because of her revolutionary beliefs.
Politically speaking

Eighteen year old majority rights bill
The eighteen year old majority rights bill has hit a snag in the Idaho Legislature this week. Voting non-concurrence with an amendment which set the drinking age at home before the deadline for the whole bill passed on the floor on the bill unconstitutional.

According to Article 3 section 16 of the Idaho constitution the legislature may only pass legislation dealing with one section of the Idaho code at a time. The 18 year old omnibus bill affects some 34 sections of the Idaho code.

One legislator expressed concern that since the legislative houses had not dealt with each section of the code independently the ramifications brought about by 18 year old majority rights then those discussed may be present.

Wayne Kidwell, Ada county, commented on the 19 year age limit, saying that the legislature had put aside the principle of majority rights for political considerations. Kidwell further commented that a right cannot be compromised, stating that there is "no such thing as a half right."

A joint conference committee is being formed to work the matter out in the ten days left in this legislative session.

Symposium on Nixon's China Policy
The political science department is sponsoring a symposium on Nixon's China policy on March 4. The symposium will begin at 9:00 a.m. in the Agriculture Science Auditorium.

Dr. Robert Bosack, University of Idaho, will speak on Nixon's new China policy. He will be followed by Dr. Tackett, Tatsui, Washington State University, speaking on the effects of the new policy in Sino-Japanese relations. Dr. Thomas L. Kennedy, also of Washington State University, will discuss the Taiwan problem in Sino-American relations. Mr. Luke Wen-Yen Lee, University of Idaho, topic is Peking's changing attitude toward the Sino-American relations. All four speakers will then enter into a panel to discuss Nixon's trip and its effect on East Asia. Dr. Bernard C. Borning will moderate the panel.

Regents Meet
The Board of Regents of the University of Idaho will meet this Thursday and Friday in Boise.

Student representatives from the University are expected to attend. They will present background related to the package proposals for the Idaho Falls Performing Arts Center which passed the ASUI Senate two weeks ago.

Another change which is considered the recommendation of the University Faculty that the Wednesday prior to Thanksgiving be a holiday in lieu of Columbus Day, beginning with the 1973-74 academic year. If adopted, the change would not be binding on the College of Law.

Meeting held on FPAC
A meeting to finalize negotiations on the FPAC package proposal, adopted by the ASUI Senate as one bill, was held last night in President Hartung's office. Present at the University Budget Committee meeting were Hartung and his three administrative vice-presidents.

Student officials in attendance were Mary Ruth Mann, ASUI president, Roy Eigener, ASUI president-elect, Mel Fisher, vice-president elect and Sens. Beth Owsen and Bill Fitzgerald. These students will also travel to the Regent's meeting in Boise this week to present the final proposal to the Regents.

Hartung was expected to express his decision regarding his recommendation of the proposal to the Regents.

The ASUI Senate will be advised tonight of any action taken. It was felt yesterday that an internal deadlock could be made regarding two of the five points contained in the original bill.

Mary Ruth Mann said the proposal that the ASUI not be assessed an administrative-service charge, and the provision that the $105,000 golf course repayment would accrue to the ASUI General Reserve with future interest coming to the ASUI as income, might be settled at the meeting.

SLI
According to Dave Theissen, Idaho Student Lobbyist, nine more lobbyists could be used for next years legislative session.

Theissen, who is lobbying on a nine credit internship, feels that the ISL has had some effect on informing senators and representatives about student attitudes towards certain pieces of legislation.

“Our biggest problem...” commented Theissen in Boise last week. “is getting bodies down here.”

Idaho Student lobbying, according to Theissen is concentrating its efforts on three or four major areas of legislation. These nuclei are to be found in the lobbying priorities list being compiled. Before the legislature now are several bills dealing with housing agencies, landlord and tenant laws which may have some effect on apartment living.

The ISL state theissman, is also watching the environmental bills. One bill, outlawing containers that are not recyclable, missed passage in the committee by one vote.

According to Theissen a big concern of student lobbyists is education.

Editor's note:
This is the second of a series of articles describing the functions, powers and membership of the various faculty councils.

The Faculty Council is the representative body of the university faculty, and is empowered to act for the faculty in all matters concerning the immediate government of the university. The council's actions are subject to final approval of the regents. Since the Council is responsible to the general faculty applications to the regents via the president, these two bodies retain the right to review, amend or rescind Council actions.

The faculty Council consists of members from each of the different colleges of the university. One faculty representative is elected for each fifty fulltime members of the college's faculty. The members of the faculty who are not members of the faculty of a college constitute a single unaffiliated division and elect representatives on the same basis as the colleges.

Two деans
Two members who are deans of academic divisions are appointed by the President of the university. The President for his designated representatives on the Council, a member ex-officio without a vote on the Council.

The Council elects its own chairman and vice chairman. All elected members serve for three years. The appointed members serve for a year. Those which are held prior to May 1, are

Epic tragedy
Hamlet nears opening

Those of you fortunate enough to have seen last year's performance of Romeo and Juliet, the U of I's Drama Department, promises to go one better. Beginning Wednesday, March 8, and running through Saturday, March 11, Director Forest Sears and his cast of 40 will present William Shakespeare's most celebrated tragedy, Hamlet.

The Sir John Gielgud version of Hamlet, which Richard Burton performed on Broadway in 1964, was chosen because it is essentially the most playable and exciting cutting of the play. It truly captures the essence of Hamlet's greatness and includes all four of his most famous soliloquies.

Because of last year's sell-out performance of Romeo and Juliet, the Department is using the Administration auditorium, but will achieve far more intimacy with an extended set reuse and limited seating capacity of five-hundred. Grand stairways and upper balconies lend Elizabethan authenticity to the set which grows have been working on for two months.

Hamlet's cast, numbering 40, is the largest in the U of I's Drama history and includes: Gary Chappelle as Hamlet, Terri Parker as Ophelia, Bruce Nyman as King Claudius, Elizabeth Watkin as Queen Gertrude, Paul Gusahaven as Polonius, Jeff Stoddard as Laertes, Val Malker, Bohr as Rosencrantz; Bill Smith as Guildenstern, and Jim Cash as Horatio.

All in all, this production of Hamlet promises to be as Director Forest Sears predicts "probably the biggest epic the department has ever produced."

Movie review

Hospitals are for dying
by M. K. Schoeffler

"Power to the impotent!" shouts George C. Scott, star of The Hospital. "Right on, baby! Right on!" That's where it's at. That's how things operate.

Modern medicine seems to be the joke that started the whole world crying. Twentieth century technology has made possible human heart transplants, but the red tape of the bureaucracy can mix things up so badly that a doctor finds himself operating on the wrong patient (would you believe an hysterectomy on a 25-year-old woman?!)

The good Samaritan has become an obese, unwieldy, electric, comination complex, so impersonal that the nurses can't tell the doctors from the patients, even though they're killing themselves trying to do their job right.

I've heard Scott has been nominated for an Academy Award for his role as the Chief doctor possessed with suicidal tendencies. He's got more than his blue cross to bear here. Besides being in the male menopause, he is impotent, his hospital staff is incompetent, and his doctors are becoming victims of their own institution. In the face of this, death looks like the only escape. Then Diana Rigg, as what-the-world-needs-now, makes herself available for a reviving lay and he suddenly becomes a responsible man.

It's insanity, rampant and raging, as one mix up after another leads to death after death. Which all goes to warn you: If you aren't prepared to die, don't go to the hospital.

Jazz concert Friday
launches festival week

Jazz is off and running again on the U of I campus. Kicking off the opening night of the annual UI Jazz Festival Week, the University Second and Third Jazz Ensembles will offer a free concert in the SUB Ballroom this Friday night at 8:00 p.m.

The concert will feature the directing of student directors Rich Werner and Tom White. The selections will range from jazz and jazz-rock to various blues arrangements.

The combined Ensembles encompass over 40 musicians with several combinations of talent on many of the selections. Some of the planned arrangements include: "So Far Away" written by Carole King and performed by trombone soloist Scott Gubert; "Memphis Jam", a jazz-rock orgy by Tom White; and the blues of Count Basic, Buddy Rich, and Herbie Mann.

P.A. amplification will be provided by the well-remembered and resurrected "Elk River". In addition, featured artists will include "Fingers" Andrews and "The Kosmic Clarke's"

The Friday concert will launch a week of Jazz events scheduled for the campus. This annual event has been gaining increasing notice in recent years, attracting dozens of bands to the clinics and competition sponsored by the University. The music and performers, as last year's reception indicated, are superb and this year all indications point to another great musical experience.

Intramurals questionnaire

The possibility of starting archery and cross-country bicycling as part of the intramurals program is in the planning stages. Student interest will determine the success or failure of these programs. In order to get a sampling of what people think, the following questionnaire has been developed. It would be greatly appreciated if you (the person reading this paper) would complete the sheet and return it to the SUB information desk, the Men’s Intramurals Department (Memorial Gym) or the Sports Editor of the Argonaut. Additional comments are welcome. PLEASE!

WRA Sports shorts

It’s time once again for that springy sport, badminton, and this year there is added excitement. For the first time, mixed doubles have been added to the tournament roster.

Another spring sport beginning February 11th is table tennis. The tournament will run until March 10. If there are any questions, come to the meeting the 5th in the WHEB reading room at 7 p.m., or call Vicky Carter, Hays Hall, at 885-7486. You don’t have to be an expert to play and who knows, someday you might end up in China.

Outstanding teams and individuals were honored at the recent WRA recognition Hour, Feb. 13. Sherry Herzdahl, Judy Linehan and Susan Peterson received the Joyce Weaver Schuett Award for overall sportmanship. The participation cup went to the O.C.C. (Off Campus Cuties); second place, Campbell, third place, Houston. Campbell Hall also took the Tournament Cup for the most points in all sports tournaments. Carter was second and Hays Hall third.

Another first place individual and team recipients for the intramural sports were as follows: archery, Vicki Stelljes and Hays; badminton, Martha Hopkins (singles) and Karen Davidson and Carla Pope (doubles); basketball, Tri-Delta; bowling, French; Co-recc volleyball, Carter; Field hockey, Steel; flag football, Gamma Phi and Campbell; golf, Vicki Mallesa; gymnastics, Kim Bowlost; softball, Carter; swimming, Pi Beta Phi; tennis, Mary Jordan; volleyball, Campbell.

Frank Church does the trick at the Olympics

Over the past week, the Argonaut Sports Editor received much to his dismay, a press release from...ta ta...Frank Church, U.S. Senator, Idaho. The release proceeded to explain that Frank himself had sent Susan Corroch, Idaho Olympic winner, a telegram congratulating her. In the following four paragraphs only one was devoted to Susan. The rest of the article told of what Church had to say. Needless to say we all were impressed with the Senator’s jubilation over Miss Corroch. Way to win that medal Frank!

seriously speaking though, congratulations are in order and long overdue for Susan Corroch whose home is Ketchum. She captured a bronze medal in the women’s downhill. Her victory was not a victory over the Russians or a boost of the U.S. ski team. The medal was won by one single person, Susan Corroch, citizen of earth.
