No Trespassing For Smokers

The north half of the Vandall League would be smoke-free. The lower part of the Sunbelt Hall would also be an area.

The co-op regulations would remain in effect wherever smoking in the designated areas was prohibited. As far as enforcement of these regulations, the board would rely on peer group pressure, as opposed to staffing an employee to monitor behavior in the halls.

The regulations would also affect the Dining Halls. In the current state of the regulations, the ban would result in the loss of the vending machines in the hall. The new regulations will be in effect immediately, so no smoking will be allowed in the vending areas.

Senate To Talk Revision

A special meeting was held to discuss the amendment to the Senate. The meeting was held on the 14th floor of the Student Union.

Faculty Council members, along with representatives from the A.S.U.I., the A.U.S.C., and the A.U.S.C. executive board, were present at the meeting.

The proposal to amend the Senate's current rules was discussed. The amendment would allow for the creation of a special Senate committee to discuss the amendment and make recommendations to the Senate. The amendment would also provide for the creation of a joint Senate-committee to discuss the amendment and make recommendations to the Senate.

The amendment was passed unanimously by the Senate.

Vandals: The Idaholla

The Vandals have become a major headache for the Student Union. Vandals have been leaving their mark in various places on campus.

JFK: JFK's weeds have been growing rapidly, and some people have been planting seeds in the area.

Cycling: Bike riders are being charged for parking their bikes in the garage. Some people have been using the bikes for personal use.

Art and Verse: A special poetry and photography event was held on campus. The event featured many local poets and photographers.

Next week, the A.S.U.I. will hold a meeting to discuss the proposed amendment to the Senate's current rules. The meeting will be held on the 14th floor of the Student Union.
University Officials -- They Sidestep Army Boots

The typical Archie Barker type in America finds humor in the liberalism of the public relations department of their alma mater. His mirth is further increased by the fact that he is a student of the University of Iowa, where the Liberal Arts College, with the exception of the Department of Industrial Arts, is a completely liberal organization. And the liberal arts is the one place in the university where he can find some peace and quiet.

The liberal arts is the one place in the university where he can find some peace and quiet. It is a place where he can study the liberal arts, take liberal courses, and have liberal friends. And it is also a place where he can find some peace and quiet.

And it is also a place where he can find some peace and quiet.

A group of students at the University of Iowa have been protesting against the army's use of their campus as a training ground. They have been picketing and demonstrating, and have even occupied the campus. The administration has been trying to get rid of the protesters, but they have been successful in their efforts.

And it is also a place where he can find some peace and quiet.

Car Pool Announced

Guillotine supplies will be getting fewer and more expensive in the coming months. Consequently, Boise State will not be able to get through the spring season without running into transportation problems. There are a couple of ways to speed up this operation, but none of them are as easy or as effective as the federal highway fund that can be used to transport the athletes.

The next best thing is to pool a car, or pool two or three pairs of legs. The next best thing is to pool a car, or pool two or three pairs of legs.

SUMMER OF '73

We knew we were losing each day by heaven. Some with better wheels dropped right in these horns, under heavy loads, where we felt cramped with snow. From all directions, looking, searching, everlasting talk on paying for them. As we sped down, one of the bullets hit us and took down with two that covered our head, and then we crossed with this one to find our way.

THE WAY SEASONS DO

I should have remembered you better,
I should have painted with all your summer pages
in a book I would never read.
A high noon's sleep,
do a manly black, moody
looking, large and dark,
the color of smoke, some have weather in thin leaves
in the way someone does.
I should have remembered you perfectly.
I should have saved that day we were a bower and put it in a Tappanware dish
in the dark of my sideboard.
I should have rearranged you,
but necessity has a way
of bringing us to desperation
and telling others at the last.
Arguments to the dreamless Seasons:
too long to live, too soon to die
in front of the mirror that seems too late.

I have no Architect's sketch of what to make her standing there
look smart enough
to melt the snow.
I should have remembered you perfectly.
I should not have saved
in front of my door
the heat and smell
of dry leaves
for the remaining turning of a fellow page.

I remembered you
the way someone does.

JFK Returns

Returns One decade later, "JFK" returns. On Wednesday, November 7th, the nation will have a chance to revisit the events of November 22, 1963, as actor Robert Redford, in the role of President John F. Kennedy, makes his way through the turbulent events that led to the nation's most publicized assassination. The film, directed by phiên D. Day, is a dramatic reenactment of those critical moments, offering a vivid and respectful portrayal of the iconic leader and his family. Like the original film, "JFK" explores the mystery and controversy surrounding the death of the President, raising questions about the role of the government and the media in shaping public opinion.

Where is the Hunchback?

By Richard Taylor

Dr. Hornocker, with a presence that is both approachable and commanding, takes center stage as the noted laryngologist. His calm demeanor and deep voice are a testament to his expertise and dedication to the field of throat health. In his practice, Dr. Hornocker has been known to use a unique form of therapy that involves the use of ancient Chinese medicine, including herbs and massage techniques. His patients often remark on the relief they feel after treatments, and his approach to care is marked by a holistic perspective that extends beyond medical interventions to include lifestyle changes and emotional well-being.

To the Editor:

I was very interested in your article on the need for a new sports facility at the University of Idaho. As a student and an athlete, I fully understand the importance of having access to quality athletic facilities. However, I believe that the proposed project is not the best use of our resources. The current budget constraints make it difficult to justify the cost of such a project, and there are alternative solutions that could address the needs of our student-athletes.

Sincerely,
[Your Name]

In the news:

The University of Idaho announced today that it will be moving its athletic programs to a new facility located on the edge of town. The new facility, which is expected to open in the fall of 2024, will include state-of-the-art training and practice facilities, as well as a modern academic center for student-athletes. The university is committed to providing its student-athletes with the best possible environment to succeed both on and off the field.

The CLASSIFIED section also includes job openings, housing opportunities, and other community news.

THINK DEEP

If you're good enough, you have to be a Navy Nuclear Officer.

The Navy is looking for exceptional nuclear engineers and scientists who can help develop the next generation of nuclear-powered submarines and other critical systems. If you're interested in a challenging career and want to be part of the team that drives innovation and technology, this could be the perfect opportunity for you.

We Are the Loves of Our Life

Gusnswan Makes Water

"Old paint on canvas, as it ages, sometimes becomes transparent. When that happens it is possible, in some pictures, to see the original layers: a primary color, a middle value, and a dark underpainting." The artist, known for his innovative approaches to painting, describes how the evolution of his work has been shaped by the constant interplay of light and shadow. His latest series, "Transitions," explores the beauty of impermanence and the way that time affects the materials we use to create art.

Pong-Pong Agreement Reached

President and Mrs. Williams have reached an agreement that will allow the university to lease the former Williams residence, located on the corner of 19th and Main, to the university. The agreement, which was worked out with the help of a retired professor and a prominent business executive, will provide much-needed income for the university, while also ensuring that the historic building is properly maintained and preserved.

The Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees has approved the lease agreement, and the university will begin negotiations with the Williams family to finalize the details of the arrangement. The university is also considering the possibility of using the building as a center for arts and culture, and is exploring a number of potential uses that could benefit the student body and the community at large.

One Game Spotlight

By Mary Siedowh

Despite an overaggressive overall mix of 3-3, the Idaho football team managed to come up victorious in conference play of 1-3 with 3-1 conference winning.

The Vandals will host the Idaho State Bengals in the third game of the season. Only one other win is scheduled for the Vandals this season. The Idaho State Bengals are 4-1 on the season, and are currently ranked number two in the Northern Division at the halfway point.

Neither of these teams will offer an easy obstacle to the Vandals. However, a win in this game is crucial to keep their home record at 4-1. A loss will mean a 3-2 record for the Vandals, which means only one win left for the Vandals this season.

As Idaho State will host the first game of the season and Idaho State will host the second game, this game will be the Vandals third game of the season.

Boise State

Boise State played the Idaho State Bengals in the second game of the season. Boise State won the game 28-24 and improved their conference record to 5-1. Boise State will play the Idaho State Bengals in the second game of the season.
