Collage of Styles to be Presented Nov. 16 and 17
by Idaho Dance Theatre

The University of Idaho Dance Theatre is in its last week of rehearsals before presenting its full concert. The Dance Theatre in the Kibbey will be on Nov. 16 and 17. Many students are back to dance again this year along with many people new in the university or newly attracted to dance.

This program is a collage of styles, lengths and tempos ranging across a wide range of the possibilities at the boundaries. Black, plaid, peasant, ethnic, and organization are all present. The choreographers are using various types of dance techniques outside the usual dance forms. Some of these include hip-hop, some, to the music records and plays, the performing and composing side are done by the students.

The university will look a little different this year who have attended several years. No longer will it be possible to seeing anything but the faculty that is in uniform. The rest will be there and anyway they will be there with an eye on New Year's Eve.

The students have been practicing for long before they have been in the year. If you don't find them, there may be more to have chances to learn, for only 50 eco strategically entertained for a Polk and Wednesday night. Eight is the time to see the university theatre in Idaho... may you have.

Let's Take Time for Thanksgiving

Over the River and Through the Woods—(to the tune of "There We Have It)

As we celebrate Thanksgiving, we take a moment to reflect on the blessings of our lives. This holiday, perhaps more than any other, reminds us of the importance of gratitude. It is a time to give thanks for the positive changes we have experienced and the loved ones who share our journeys. Let us make time to express our appreciation and enjoy the simple pleasures of autumn.

Boycott the Football Game

The University of Idaho in Moscow is facing a boycott from its students over alleged treatment of Native Americans. Students have accused the university of failing to adequately address racial issues and promoting a culture of harm. The boycott seeks to draw attention to these problems and bring about change.

The University Curriculum Committee has considered a report from the Faculty Council's Ad Hoc Committee charging that the curriculum should be restructured and, according to the new proposals, the student consumers have become the low face on the campus token pole.

According to the proposal presented an abundance of course offerings and the need for a change—now if we can just get that change, the student would sit quietly at the head of the table, turning, listening, and drinking those drugs familiar to the administrator. Drifting over the fear of those teams, it's certainly a possibility. However, it will be remembered that the fall semester is the time to think about next year's courses. For instance, it's sure neat to have a young person who's grown up to be a graduate student offer for a change—now if we can just get that change, the student would sit quietly at the head of the table, turning, listening, and drinking those drugs familiar to the administrator. Putting Wooden Nickles Into Parking Meters

It seems as though cleverers and city officials everywhere are trying to outdo each other in their own parking meters and invented schemes and ploys to get people to use them. But a few cities have a different approach. The city's parking meters have a unique and interesting design. They're called "Nickles." If you park your car near the meter, you'll have to pay for it in nickels. But if you park your car too far away from the meter, you'll have to pay for it in dimes. It's a clever system, but it seems a bit confusing. If you're not careful, you could end up paying for your parking with nickels and dimes!

Cutting Up the Idaho Pie?... But Not So Quick!

By Jim Minkler

The Idaho Potato Board has just released its annual report, and it seems that the future of the potato industry in Idaho looks bright. The report highlights the growth and diversity of the industry, and it emphasizes the importance of sustainably producing potatoes.

One of the key findings of the report is that Idaho's potato production has been steadily increasing over the past decade. This growth is due in large part to the expansion of the potato industry into new markets, and the development of new varieties and technologies.

Another important aspect of the report is the emphasis on sustainable practices. The Idaho Potato Board has been working with farmers to implement conservation practices that reduce the impact of potato production on the environment. These practices include reducing the use of pesticides, improving irrigation efficiency, and implementing rotational cropping systems.

The report also highlights the diverse range of products that are being developed from Idaho potatoes. These include specialty potatoes for baking and roasting, as well as new varieties that are being developed for specific markets.

As the Idaho potato industry continues to grow and diversify, it is clear that the future is bright for the potato growers and consumers alike. The Idaho Potato Board is committed to ensuring that the industry continues to thrive for generations to come.

Questions Behind Kennedy's Assassination...

By Bruce Spalding

The opening Thanksgiving holiday marked the twenty-sixth anniversary of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. The Warren Commission conducted its investigation in the late 1960s, and although some of its findings are still controversial, many Americans remain interested in the circumstances surrounding JFK's death.

The assassination took place on November 22, 1963, in Dallas, Texas. Lee Harvey Oswald was convicted of assassinating JFK and later killed by Jack Ruby. However, many conspiracy theories emerged, questioning the official account of the event.

The CIA's involvement in the JFK assassination has been a topic of much speculation. The CIA has been known to be involved in various covert operations, and some believe it may have played a role in the assassination.

The Houston Chronicle, in an article titled "The CIA and JFK," suggested that the CIA may have had knowledge of the assassination and that it could have been involved in planning or executing the event. The article mentions the closely guarded nature of CIA operations and the possibility of information being overlooked.

Many researchers, including Oliver Stone, have authored books on the subject, delving into the conspiracy theories and the evidence surrounding the assassination. Some believe there is evidence of government involvement, while others argue for a more straightforward explanation.

The story of JFK's assassination continues to capture the imagination of the public, with theories ranging from simple murder to more elaborate plots involving powerful figures and organizations. The truth may never be fully revealed, leaving room for ongoing speculation and debate.

Despite the passage of time, the JFK assassination remains a source of fascination and controversy, with millions of Americans still curious about what really happened that fateful day in Dallas.

Strange Season

By Kim Crompton
Associated Press Photo Editor

This has definitely been a strange season for the Idaho Vandals who now have to be considered one of the estates of the Big Sky Conference.

The Vandals, like the rest of the Big Sky, have seen their fates turn ups and downs through a series of impeccable coaching and playing.

The Vandals are coming into their final game of the regular season this Saturday in Seattle against Washington State.

The Vandals have had a tough.
season starting off with a win over Washington State, followed by a loss to Utah State and then a win over New Mexico State.

However, the Vandals have had a good season so far with a record of 6-3. They have also been ranked in the polls for most of the season.

The Vandals will be looking to finish the season strong and possibly make it to the NCAA playoffs.

Looking for Vandal Win

The Idaho Vandals will be looking to finish the football season with a win as they face the Idaho State Bengals, who are ranked in the Big Sky Conference.

On Saturday, the Vandals will be hosting the Bengals at Bronco Stadium in Boise.

The Vandals are currently ranked 25th in the polls and are looking to finish the season strong.

The Bengals, on the other hand, are ranked 21st in the polls and are looking to secure a spot in the NCAA playoffs.

The game will be at 1 p.m. and is expected to be a close contest.
Soccer Team in First Place

The University of Idaho soccer team will battle Columbia Basin College (CBC) in the final match between the teams Saturday. The win could give the Idaho Intercollegiate Soccer League the first place title.

In the first game of the season, CBC and the Idaho State Bengals met, with the Bengals winning 2-0. The game was held in Moscow on September 11. The game was crucial for both teams, and the results had a significant impact on the standings. The Idaho State Bengals were the clear favorites going into the game, but CBC pulled off a stunning victory, solidifying their position at the top of the league.
