Knecht Resigns AD Job; Green New Replacement?
First Woman Appointed in Two Years

"I think the argument should center on the student's idea in money going into the student's bank account," says Mrs. Robert Nelson, vice-president of Student Affairs. "Money can cause a lot of trouble. I think the student should have the money in his own account; it is his own money, not mine."

Some say the money could be used for different purposes, such as travel, books, or scholarships. Others say it should be used to support the school. The debate continues as the issue of student control over their finances remains unresolved.

Who Pays the Student Air Fare?

This winter, students will be paying a new fee to fly to their college campuses. The fee was introduced by the university administration to cover the cost of transporting students to and from campus.

Food Facts and Fallacies

By Phyllis Lloyd

While many students use food as a source of energy, others make mistakes when preparing meals. For example, they might not eat enough vegetables or choose processed foods over whole grains. These mistakes can lead to health problems and affect academic performance.

A statistics summary reveals that the average student eats 30 meals per week, with an average of 1500 calories per meal. The most common mistakes include overcooking, undercooking, and eating too much salt.

Honor of God Subject of Becket Production

The "Honor of God," which ultimately led to the death of Thomas Becket, is the subject of a new production by the Department of Theater Arts.

The play, written by Alphonse Daudet, will be presented Dec. 10 in the O'Neill Auditorium.

"As planning began for the show, we found that there were a number of factors at work in the life of Thomas Becket," says Director John O'Neill. "The most important was his dedication to the church and to the service of God."

Tickets for the production are available at the Holland Union Information Desk.

POCONNOLLY—Dying the union day, the new president of the faculty, administrative and student unions,孢子, speaks at the university's student union building.

"Good morning, everyone. I am honored to have been elected as your new president," says Mr. POCONNOLLY. "I want to thank the faculty, staff, and students for their support and their willingness to work together to improve the quality of education at this university."

We invite you to join us in this exciting new opportunity today and come to the Holland Union Building for a special event.

The Regents in Pocatello
Board Vetoes Increase In Summer School Fees

By Kersten Bird
Associated Press Writer

In a vote yesterday's meeting of the Board of Regents, the Faculty Council and Student Senate proposed an increase in fees for the summer school. The Faculty Council then vetoed the proposal.

The Faculty Council passed the proposal, which would have raised the student fee from the current rate of $20 to $30 per semester hour, to include a one-time fee of $5 for the summer school. The fee increase would have been effective for the summer 1973 session.

The Faculty Council had previously expressed concern over the proposed fee increase, stating that it would be unfair to students who live in the area and who are not able to commute to the university.

The Student Senate also voted in favor of the fee increase, but the Faculty Council vetoed the proposal, stating that it was not in the best interest of the students.

Despite the Faculty Council's veto, the proposal will go before the Board of Regents for final approval. The Board of Regents is scheduled to meet on June 28 to consider the proposal.

The fee increase would have been a significant increase for students, but the Faculty Council felt that it was important to protect the interests of the students.

The proposal would have resulted in a $10 increase in the cost of attending summer school, which would have amounted to an additional $60 per semester hour for a full-time student.

The Faculty Council recommended that the Board of Regents consider the proposal carefully and make a decision that is in the best interest of the students.

Jones and Tenure-
Bad Vibes in the School of Music?

By Ron Scholter
Associated Press Writer

In a recent interview, University of Idaho President Alan Petersen expressed concern about the lack of unity among the faculty in the School of Music.

"There has been a lack of unity among the faculty in the School of Music," Petersen said. "I'm afraid that the bad vibes in the School of Music have been affecting the entire university." Petersen added that he had no objection to the university paying expenses of students.

Despite Petersen's concern, there were few tangible signs of conflict in the School of Music. Faculty members expressed good will and cooperation in their work.

However, some students were concerned about the lack of unity among the faculty. One student said, "I don't see any bad vibes in the School of Music. The faculty seems to be working well together." Another student said, "I haven't noticed any problems in the School of Music. The faculty seems to be working well together."
The Man of the Year

Why not? If Time magazine can run such a competition with the nation, the Argonaut can surely tear out a deserving son in our own little galaxy.

Though they would not affect to the Editor

It's been a bad year for the BSC. They've seen all manner of things happen at the school that had never happened before. Some of it is due to the rez situation and some to the reorganization of the school as well. But it has been good to see the new energy that has been put into the school this year.

A good football team is assembled to be a team that was once very weak. After all, isn't that the American way? Perhaps, but I like to think of making it a different scene. Whatever we may have accomplished, a great deal of work remains to be done.

Last week, we were in the thick of it. We almost lost, but we didn't. We were fortunate. The BSC is a good team. We'll lose and we'll win. But we'll work at it. You'll just have to see it for yourself.

Dr. Robbins, our School President, is a man who knows what he wants. He wants to see his team compete. He wants to see them on the field. He wants to see them win. He wants to see them win for the school.

We're going to have a great year. We're going to have a great football season. We're going to have a great year for the school.

The theatre is in a better shape than it has been in recent years. The plays have been well-received. The actors have done a good job. The theatre people have worked hard. The theatre is a great place to see a play.
Robert "Bob" Smith clearly has his work cut out for him. The former Colorado attorney has chosen to compete for the Board of Regents seat vacated by the late Idaho Chamber of Commerce President Glen Swartley, a Republican. Smith has won a seat on the Board of Regents, which oversees Idaho State University, and will now work to assemble a majority on the board to support the new president.

Smith, a member of the Republican Party, was elected to the Board of Regents in 2017. He currently serves as the chair of the board's finance committee and is a member of the audit committee. Smith is a retired professor at Idaho State University, where he taught law and government. He has a long history of involvement in state politics, having served as a member of the Idaho House of Representatives from 2010 to 2014.

Smith has been active in Republican Party politics since the 1990s. He has served on the Idaho Republican Party's executive committee and was a delegate to the Republican National Convention in 2012. Smith has been a strong supporter of President Donald Trump and has been involved in a number of local and state campaigns.

Smith's rise to the top of the Idaho Republican Party was not without controversy. He faced criticism for his support of the Trump administration's policies on immigration and healthcare, as well as his opposition to the state's renewable energy goals. Despite these controversies, Smith has maintained his position as a strong voice for the Idaho Republican Party.

As Smith prepares to take his seat on the Board of Regents, he says he looks forward to working with his colleagues to ensure that the university is well-positioned to meet the needs of students and the state. He hopes to use his experience as a professor and lawmaker to provide valuable insights to the board as it makes decisions about the university's future.

Coming off last week's memorable win over Deane College, the Russian basketball teams will be making a trip to New York and then to the Wolf Pack from the University of Nevada.

"We're excited to play them," said Russian coach Yuriy Kuznetsov.

"They have all of the skills that come from being a national team," added Kuznetsov. "They have a lot of speed in the backcourt and a lot of size in the frontcourt."

The Russian team, which has been together for four years, is expected to be a tough opponent for the Wolf Pack. The Russian team has a combined record of 15-13 this season.

"They beat Stanford, Div. 1 West, at Stanford," said Kuznetsov. "They have a lot of depth in their lineup and they play well as a team."
A Note From Kathi

Idaho coed spending semester at University of Massachusetts

November 12, 1982

The news for my being a UMass student is not all that positive. Apparently, there's been a lot of trouble on campus. The Freshman class is being called upon to purchase extra uniforms for the football team. The Freshman dorms have been designated as "out" dorms for the purpose of housing "ugly" students. I had heard that was going to be one of my problems on a college campus, and I guess I'm not the only one.

I arrived at Westgate Hall on Smith Street only a short while ago. Tuesday was my first day of school, and it was an exciting day for me. The dorm is quite large, and I think I'll be able to make some new friends here. The rooms are quite comfortable, and I'm sure I'll enjoy my stay at UMass.
