Black Reaction
There Are Other Minorities

To the Editor:

To the rewrite of your March 24 issue which I read carefully with much interest and concern. The article, "Black Reaction: There Are Other Minorities," is very important in the context of our university and society. It highlights the need for a more inclusive approach to diversity and inclusion, and it is crucial to understand and address the issues raised in the article.

I appreciate the effort made by the writer to provide a balanced perspective on the topic. However, I would like to offer some additional insights that I believe can further enhance the discussion.

Firstly, it is essential to acknowledge the historical context and the ongoing effects of systemic racism and discrimination. This context is crucial to understanding the complexities of race and ethnicity, and it is important to recognize the ways in which these factors can influence our perceptions and experiences.

Secondly, I believe that it is important to recognize the role of intersectionality in shaping our identities and experiences. Intersectionality refers to the ways in which different aspects of a person's identity, such as race, gender, sexuality, and class, intersect and interact to shape their experiences.

Finally, I would like to emphasize the importance of active participation and engagement in promoting diversity and inclusion. It is crucial for individuals and organizations to take responsibility for creating a more inclusive and equitable environment.

I hope that these insights will contribute to a more nuanced and informed discussion on the topic of diversity and inclusion.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]
Theophilus Award

Roy Eiguren—Outstanding Senior of ‘74

by Marshall Hall
Argonaut Feature Writer

Theophilus Award recipient Roy Eiguren feels a true sense of accomplishment as he becomes a graduating senior with a solid record to support his future endeavors. Roy was recognized as a top student in his graduating class at the University of Idaho.

Roy Eiguren was born in 1950 in Moscow, Idaho, and was raised in a small town near Moscow. He attended Idaho State University and was an active member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. He considered himself to be a good student and received a full scholarship to the University of Idaho.

In his senior year, Roy was elected as the President of the College Republicans and was also a member of the Idaho State Legislature. He was nominated for the Presidency of the Idaho State College Republicans and was eventually elected to the position.

Roy Eiguren is the first recipient of the College Republicans Award for Outstanding Senior. The award recognizes the outstanding student in the College Republicans organization.

“Every student body president can only hope for maybe two years, and it’s hard to bring about any constructive change in that amount of time,” said Roy. “But if you have to go for it, you have to take the risk.”

During his term as the President of the College Republicans, Roy worked hard to establish a strong relationship with the Idaho State Legislature. He believed that the College Republicans could be a powerful force for change in the state of Idaho.

Kading Eyes Lt. Governor Post

Putting down roots in state politics and political activities in Idaho, Roy Eiguren is now a candidate for Lieutenant Governor in the Republican primary. Roy Kading was the first woman to be elected Young Republican State Chairman of the Idaho state organization. She was also the first woman to be appointed as Director of the State Central Committee.

The Kading family has a long-standing tradition of political involvement. Roy Kading’s father, Roy Edward Kading, was a member of the Idaho State Senate and was a strong supporter of the Republican Party.

“I’m very excited about my chances of winning the nomination,” Roy said. “I’ve been working hard to build a strong campaign and I’m confident that I can win.”

Roy Kading is running on a platform that focuses on issues such as education, healthcare, and economic development. She believes that Idaho needs strong leadership to address these pressing issues.

The Vandals baseball team had its back against the wall Sunday afternoon at Spokane. After losing two straight games in the Washington State-Big North Division, Idaho faced a doubleheader with Gonzaga for a crack at the conference championship.

The Vandals won the first game 7-3, but lost the second 3-0.

"We played good in the first game," said Mike Westerman, Idaho's pitcher. "But we had a lot to learn in the second.

With the victory, the Vandals improved their record to 8-4 and 1-2 in the Big North Division.

The second game was a pitching duel,
with Idaho's Mike Redden and Gonzaga's
Dave Saleem both earning complete games.

The Vandals, who have qualified for the Western Athletic Conference with a 16-15 record, will now turn their attention to the remaining games of the season.
