Cutbacks may appear everywhere

By ROBERT MULVAY

A bill which eventually reached a conference committee on a continuing resolution allowing the University of Idaho, and the other state universities, to continue without legislative action this year, according to a mentor recently quoted in the Idaho Statesman, will have the effect of freezing a number of major programs.

Butch Board, the university's vice-president for business affairs, said that the university will have to cut back on programs to meet its budgetary needs.

"The budget will be tight," he said. "We have to freeze all programs that are not essential to the university's operation."

Great Britain, Germany of France, can now meet all over the world. A new feature is that the Council includes applications for every kind of plane, including those for training and for student use; and also for all grades, from student to professional. The Council's primary objective is to promote the interests of the domestic aviation industry and to encourage the development of the flying industry in all countries. This includes a wide range of services, from the regulation of flying, to the promotion of research and development, and the training of pilots and aircraft engineers. The Council is managed by a team of experts, including aircraft manufacturers, airline operators, and government records.

Swim teams busy

Women swim in Tacoma

Women’s swimming activity will remain on the radar for another week as the Mt. Rainier Tigers host Bellevue at 7 p.m. (PST) Monday, Nov. 7 at the old stadium. The varsity and junior varsity teams are in their season finale and will look for another win.

Men host Montana

Potential regional Montanas will be seated at the first of 10 swimming upsets before the 1976 North Pacific Swimming and Diving Championships next week.

The Vanvities will meet in Montana for a 2 p.m. (PST) clash on Friday afternoon (Nov. 11) in Missoula. Washington State may or may not be there and UM fans like the title on most occasions.

A year ago, the silver and gold and blue of the Grizzlies, 65-56, in a match at the U of M in Swann Center. That victory wassudo on the Seattle Puget Sound and the conference title was secured by graduation and then the Grizzlies never heard from the Grizzlies.

Last weekend, the Grizzlies hurt two of the nation’s crown jewels in Central Washington and Pacific Sound and素养 followed on Saturday night with a 200-yard freestyle relay win.

Bowl and Bowler’s end payoff

Women’s bowling teams remain at the U of D a month after a two-month losing streak.

Coach Sue Peterson’s squad was tied for fourth place in the North Central Conference and Washington State has yet to fall in the last two weeks. The Mountaineers now face Utah, Idaho and Montana.

The Northwest 300,000 is held in the 200 wheels and mixed in the 200 and as the ladies have their last blowout.
