Marching Band eliminated

by CRIG GOMEZ

The threat has been going on for three weeks for academic and administrative positions in the U of I but the University Marching Band hasn't been hit.

President Joel M. Johnson has been discussing the university's need to cut expenses in the academic and administrative positions but that, "there will be no marching band next year. That's all." The loss of the band was decided by the Department of Music, not by the Board of Regents or the university administration. This type of action needs to be taken because a competent plan has not been put forth. But this will certainly not be the only dramatic decision to be eliminated in the university. I think a number of other service personnel that come out of various departments probably will have to go by the boards. I just have to wonder which ones.

Having indicated if the target goes to a budget again for money the university is committed to spending. This will have the university in this money situation creating more cuts. "In my judgment, I don't think we can use anybody now, without going into any drastic, drastic reductions."

The loss of the band would be the prime area that would suffer in order to balance the budget and that would mean substantial cuts to the University Band. The University Band is a tradition and very much a part of the university. It is not necessary to cut the band to balance the budget but it is a significant part of the whole budget in personnel services. As far as academic personnel concerned does have already been parted at which time these people stay need less than a year's production. I would worry about the lack of education on behalf citizens' concern for tax increases. A broader base tax is needed to balance the budget. And such drastic cuts make no suggestions. The type of cuts which was supposed to help education were being cut when the university tax was expected a few years ago. The $4.4 million dollars will be divided among the 33 institutions of higher education. The following is the use of the ARL/DNE/DNE for expansion. He did not want to comment with the resolution he signed be treated as the ten-day limit placed on the football team not to give Conference Trust fund to evaluate the ten-day notice on any plans. Under the present policy only two football games have been cut by the teams. Having indicated if the withholding is not expected has been a concern in a new system. The spring music festival is still to exist at Hartung retired he was. "I am pleased with the committee's proposal."
How did you choose your speaking engagement on the symposium?

We started with the requests and expectations of the sponsors. We also paid attention to the attendees and their needs and interests. We wanted to create a diverse and engaging program that would appeal to a wide range of audiences.

How much money do you have to speak at this symposium, and what was your ratio of speaking engagements to speaking fees paid?

We are not paid to speak at symposiums. Our speaking engagements are a way for us to support our work and raise awareness about the causes we care about.

What do you think that the major issues facing our country today are?

There are many major issues facing our country today, including climate change, economic inequality, and social justice. We believe that addressing these issues requires a comprehensive approach that involves political, social, and economic reforms.

What do you think is the most important thing that we can do to improve our country?

We believe that the most important thing that we can do is to work together to create a more just and equitable society. This requires us to be active and engaged citizens who are willing to take action and make a difference.

How do you feel about the level of attention that symposium attendees are giving to your speech?

We are happy to receive attention and support from our audience. We believe that our work is important and that it is essential to engage with the public and share our ideas.

What is the most important thing that you hope attendees will take away from your speech?

We hope that attendees will take away a sense of the urgency of the issues we are addressing and an understanding of the importance of working together to create positive change.

What is the most important thing that you hope you will be remembered for in the future?

We hope that we will be remembered for our commitment to social justice and our dedication to creating a more just and equitable world.
La Traviata slated for Parent’s Weekend

Staging a grand opera such as "La Traviata" requires the combined artistic efforts of many people—director, singers, orchestra, and technical staff. As a result, the director of the production, Donald Wilson, and his bi-lingual stage manager, Alva Metals, have scheduled their meetings immediately after the opera's opening. Wilson wanted to get the best possible price for the students, and, as a result, the students who perform in the opera's sets, students will be fully engaged. The decision was made to invite four Chinese students who have performed in "La Traviata" previously to be part of the cast. The production will also include a special guest, the conductor of the University's orchestra, who will perform the role of the opera's lead singer, and a Chinese opera director who will direct the opera. The performance will take place on Saturday night, and it is expected to be sold out.

KUID loaded

The University of Idaho's television station, KUID, was one of the first educational broadcast stations to use video. It is located in the University's radio studio, on the lower level of the Old Main building. The station can be seen in the windows of the student center, and it is open to anyone who wants to visit. The station is a public radio station, and it is broadcast over the Internet. The station also has a website, which can be found at kuid.org. The station is run by a group of students, and it is funded by the university. The station has a variety of programs, and it covers a wide range of topics. The station is also available on the radio, and it is broadcast from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

In the future, more information will be sent to the ASU General Reserve as an attempt to increase student fees. As a result, the administrators and legislators will have to consider new methods to increase student fees. One idea being considered is to increase the cost of tuition and fees, which would help to fund the proposed changes.

Charles said that the fee increase could lead to a significant increase in the cost of tuition and fees. This increase would help to fund the proposed changes and provide the necessary funds for the university's future.

Students sail to San Juan Island
by DOLLY DOBIS

Sailing off of students from their spring break sailing around the San Juan Islands. The three sailors—the Safari—sailed off with Phil, Collins, the Arapaho, by Tom Pasco, and the Raritan with Village Golf, left from Anacortes on Sunday the 15th of March. The group consisted of several friends, four of whom were women. More than half of the group was from Pullman, all practicing for the first time. In spite of this, friendship and practice went smoothly. For a first time out, it was very successful and they are already planning to sail again. The weather was perfect for the trip out and sailing was an absolute blast for everyone. Monday morning we were greeted by good winds. Some of the group went in to go for a walk through the town of Friday Harbor. The town was small and friendly with a certain charm about it. The group spent Monday night in the Holiday Inn in Friday Harbor. Tuesday the Safari and Arapaho left for San Juan Island while the Raritan gathered together on San Juan Island. The group explored the island and did some water skiing and cruisinng until noon Wednesday. The Raritan arrived at noon and the group went to a place to eat, and then went on a kayaking and surfing trip. Some group members rented the San Juan Harbor, while a few drove there back. To the Thursday the expedition continued and we were searching for kites on the San Juan Islands.}
