Dorm increase said unfair

"Students are being ripped off. The increase in dorm rates is truly a rip-off," said Mike Smith, a junior from Boise. "I've never seen such a high increase before. It's ridiculous." He went on to say that the increase is unfair because the students who pay for the dorms are the ones who benefit from the increased rates.

The University of Idaho administration has announced that the dorm rates will be increased by 20 percent. This increase is the result of the university's budget deficit, which has been caused by a decrease in state funding.

The increase has caused a lot of concern among the students. Many are worried that they will not be able to afford the increased rates.

"I'm really angry about this," said Smith. "I've been paying my way through college, and this is just another way for the university to take advantage of its students."

The university has said that the increase is necessary to cover the cost of maintaining the dorms. However, many students are not satisfied with this explanation.

"The university should be doing more to find other ways to cover the cost of maintaining the dorms," said Smith. "They shouldn't be putting the burden on the students."
