O P O S S U M SEASON WILL BE DECLARED CLOSED AT 12 NOON, FRIDAY, NOV. 29, AND NO POSSESSORY RIGHTS WILL BE AVAILABLE TO ANYONE WHO MAY CLAIM POSSESSION OF POSSESSORY RIGHTS TO ANIMALS FOUND IN THE FIELD.

The Idaho Department of Fish and Game has issued a press release stating that the possum season will be declared closed at 12 noon, Friday, Nov. 29, and no possessory rights will be available to anyone who may claim possessory rights to animals found in the field.

The release also notes that the season was declared closed due to a lack of suitable habitat for the animals, and that the state continues to monitor the population of these animals in order to determine the appropriate time for their release.

FARMS AND FARMING

Willard Sewell

The Idaho Farm Bureau has announced that the 2022 Farm Bill has been signed into law by President Biden. The bill includes significant funding for rural development, renewable energy, and agricultural research.

The Farm Bill provides support for farmers and ranchers through various programs, such as commodity support payments, conservation programs, and disaster assistance. It also includes provisions to improve nutrition programs and strengthen food security.

The law is expected to provide stability and predictability for farmers and ranchers, and to support the economic growth and sustainability of agriculture.

BUSINESS

Sidney S. Wilson

The Idaho Business Report has published its annual list of the top 100 companies in the state. The list ranks companies based on revenue and employment, and highlights the diverse range of industries that drive the state's economy.

The report notes that the pandemic has had a significant impact on businesses, with many companies adapting to new ways of working and delivering products and services.

The list includes companies from a range of industries, including technology, manufacturing, retail, and hospitality.

The top company on the list is a major player in the state's economy, and is recognized for its innovation and leadership.

EDUCATION

Mary J. Harris

The Idaho Department of Education has announced the release of its annual report on educational performance. The report provides data on student achievement, graduation rates, and other key metrics.

The report highlights improvements in student achievement, with significant gains in reading and math scores. It also notes challenges, such as gaps in educational attainment between different demographic groups.

The department is committed to improving educational outcomes for all students, and is working to address the challenges identified in the report.

ENVIRONMENT

John D. Brown

The Idaho Department of Environmental Quality has released its annual report on air quality. The report provides data on air pollution levels and trends, and highlights the state's efforts to reduce emissions and protect public health.

The report notes that air quality has improved in recent years, with reductions in pollutants such as ozone and particulate matter. However, challenges remain, particularly in certain areas with high levels of pollution.

The department is committed to continuing its efforts to improve air quality, and is working with communities and partners to find solutions to these challenges.
Before the scenes with Columbus

There is a forgotten chapter in the life of Columbus which is way hid as to much to do with the discovery of America as the voyages itself. We refer to the years spent in preparation before his set sail—years filled with fascinating study, planning his trip, with the aid of what crude maps and geographical data he could procure.

The successes of each new development depends on the year of study and research and the planning that goes into it. In the case of the great industry for years before the actual voyage took place and the actual stepping on the American soil.
