CAMPUS COMPLETING PREPARATIONS FOR ANNUAL HOMECOMING SATURDAY

Rallies, Pajama Parade and Roaring Bonfire Scheduled Night Before Convocation Battle With W. S. C.

Pop rallies, a pajama parade and a huge bonfire, and final preparations for the annual Homecoming convocation between the University of Idaho and Washington State college, are planned to be held at the auditorium tomorrow evening. The bonfire will march through the campus before the rally, playing Idaho songs, and will brighten the parade of students, faculty members and the members of the various organizations. John King and Tom Mollenkopf, foremen, will be in charge of the program.

The floats to be used by the regular school-departmental meet the parade, will consist of several squares, with each class and the students from the various departments and organizations designing, building and decorating the squares in advance. In addition, the students of the various organizations will also make squares, using the colors of their respective groups, and these squares will be added to the floats. The floats will be built in the old playground, and will be paraded through the city before the bonfire is held.

YELL LEADERS HOLD ANNUAL CONVENTION
