From the University Argonaut, April 14, 1913.

The baseball team journeyed to Lewiston last week for a four-game series with the town ball players. The Aces won the first game and tied the second, obtaining both games by virtue of the second-inning tie. The Aces scored in the top of the ninth inning with a home run from Al Hibbard and a double and single hit from Dr. Henry Jackson. The homegounders won the third game, 13-12, and the second game, 17-10, on the 22nd.

The Idaho Home and Farm Exposition was held at the University of Idaho last year. The theme of the exposition was "The Future of Agriculture," and various agricultural exhibits were on display. The event was considered a success and helped to promote agriculture and rural development in the state.

The University of Idaho was established in 1889 as the first public university in the state of Idaho. It is located in Moscow, Idaho, and is a public research university. The university offers a wide range of undergraduate and graduate degree programs in various fields.

Booklet Tells of Idaho's Advantage of Both Large and Small Cities

Because of Being on the Border Line

Before the University of Idaho was established, the city of Boise was the largest in the state and was considered the center of commerce and industry. However, with the establishment of the university, the city of Moscow became the center of education and culture.

Many students and faculty members at the University of Idaho were involved in the civic life of the city, helping to shape its development and growth. The university played a significant role in the economic and social development of the region.
