VANDALS WILL PUT UP STRONG FIGHT FOR SECOND PLACE
Humble Hints Idaho's Title Chances in Great FIVE MORE CONTROVERSES
Washington and California to Meet in Seattle for Championship

By Andy Thomas

Washington and California will meet today in the Pacific Coast Conference championship game. Although Washington probably will win, the game could be the most exciting of the season. It will be a contest of the two best teams in the conference.

Washington has won several games by a single point, including a 21-20 victory over Oregon. Meanwhile, California has been losing close games. The Vandal defeat was caused by the Vandals' ability to make close games, which will be important in the championship game.

Washington has the edge in the conference primarily because of the performance of its quarterback. Washington's quarterback has thrown for more than 2,000 yards and has a higher completion percentage than any other quarterback in the conference.

CALIFORNIA AT WASHINGTON

The game will be held at the Washington Huskies' home field.
The Huskies have won three consecutive games, but they will be challenged by California, which has lost only one game.

Cal will be forced to play with a makeshift defense, as its top two defensive players are out due to injuries.

CALIFORNIA'S DEFENSE

The Vandals have been relying on a strong defense, which has allowed them to win close games.

WASHINGTON'S RUSHING ATTACK

Washington's rushing attack has been a key factor in its success this season. The Huskies have run for more than 1,000 yards and have scored more points than any other team in the conference.

THE GAME AT A GLANCE

Washington will have a slight home-field advantage, but California has the edge in the conference.

The game will be a classic contest of the best teams in the conference.

McMILLIN ON TOP IN SCORING RACE

Harry Rushing Ends In Grief

Harry Rushing, who had been the leading rusher in the conference, was killed in an accident last week. Rushing had scored two touchdowns and rushed for 1,000 yards this season.

PHANN, NEILL, LEADER, HIGH SCORER

Frank McMillin has emerged as the leading scorer in the conference. McMillin has scored 20 touchdowns and has rushed for 1,500 yards. He is expected to lead the Vandals to victory in the championship game.
