Is Outstanding Independent U. S. Statesman

Senator Borah, Enigmatic and "Irreconcilable"

In Idaho, the enigmatic and "irreconcilable" Senator William Borah is said to have been a statesman of the first rank. His political career was marked by a series of controversial and often controversial decisions. He was well known for his independence and his willingness to speak out against the government. His decision to reject the Treaty of Versailles and his refusal to support the League of Nations were among his most controversial actions.

Prominent Lawyer, Establishes Fund To Perpetuate Contribution of Idaho's Senator Toward Outlawing of War

Acceptance of a $55,000 gift, the largest private endowment ever to adorn the University of Idaho, was announced by the office of President Fredrick J. Kelly last Wednesday. The gift came from Salmon O. Levinson, prominent Chicago attorney, with the provision that the money be used to establish the William J. Borah Endowment of War Foundation. Mr. Levinson is a long-time friend of Senator Borah and supporter of his efforts toward outlawing war.

The endowment, President Kelly's announcement said, is to honor "the almost priceless contribution of Idaho's senior senator, in the cause of world peace."

Politics: "Flowers' Frocks, and Fibby Frocks
Show Hot Ideas at Chilled Juniors Parade"

By Elly Hume

Contemporary teenagers are set to follow the example of their elders in the matter of style. At the Chilled Juniors Parade, which was held on Friday night, the girls were dressed in "flowers' frocks" and "fibby frocks," a combination of two different styles of gay frocks, that have been the rage for the past season. The parade was a great success, and the participants were all agreeably surprised at the attention they received.
