On May 1, Livingston will be making a survey for the reclamation of the area. The survey will be conducted in the Idaho Field Athletic Association on the University of Idaho campus. The Idaho Field Athletic Association will be held Thursday evening.
Consider The University

The Argonaut is still unwilling to see the future for the Independent political party is sure of the fact that this up-and-coming organization has received the services of two southern Idaho newspapers in its effort to clean up college politics. The Idaho Statesman and the Idaho State Register have been more than willing to work with the Idaho Independent and joined the crusade to clean up college politics.

While the Argonaut can really patriot that the News and the Statesman both have more of a social interest in the university, due, no doubt, to the FATHERL AND FRATERNAL bonds which link them to certain members of the Independent party, the same goes for the party hopes to accomplish by seeing its policies in the press of the state and the nation. The present political campaign is a party problem and if the students and the administration cannot settle their own affairs, there is little chance of them being settled in the columns of a southern Idaho newspaper which smaller student is interested in learning the University’s Most Useful Institution.

The Independents whose platform, according to the esteemed Capital News, is to “clean up politics at the University of Idaho,” are making a fine cleanup of the expanse of its institutions which assures some future expansion by the university. It is a fine platform and a fine platform for the future. Loyalty to a two-bit political organization is one loyalty to the university are not. The Independents, champions of all that is noble and upright, have chosen to be loyal to their party.

The news papers published during the past week in Boise have the university and they haven’t changed the outlook for the coming semester. Ready now for the boys who will still the “pace- campusility; can’t sleep with turbid student politics; and these are fine and for the classes of Boise. If the political ‘white wings’ would confer their criticisms to campus events which approximate truth they would be found to have been here to do as convention that would change the national delegate list. In their actual sense the Independent bids to “clean up politics.” The Independents have played an important part in the university’s political history; the Independent party will persist.

As the Independents can realize the harm they are doing the university with their southern Idaho propaganda, The Argonaut regrets slipping the stream at its source which doesn’t require an exceptional amount of needless talent to trace.

AMONG other small statements is that the Idaho Statesman has written the effs that the editorial page of The Argonaut has been closed. It was never closed and never will be under the present Argonaut administration. However, the editor is the only judge of the value of all articles published for publication and he agrees with the right to edit which are unsolicited. No letters which are not signed in full by the author, will be printed in the future.
